DEMOCRATS NOW COLD ON INCOME TAX RATE BOOST

Deny Roosevelt Gave Out Program.

President Elect Roosevelt hears with complacency reports from Washington that Democratic congressional leaders are reneging on their proposal to balance the budget with higher income taxes. His view is said to be that the "lame duck" congress must decide its own problems. (Details on page 8.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The widely heralded legislative conference held by Democratic congressional leaders with President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt last night failed to result in agreement on any definite program for balancing the budget at this session of congress, it was disclosed today.

Shortly after their return to Washington the Democratic leaders, who had announced in New York the unanimous acceptance of a budget balancing plan featured by a boost in income tax rates, lost their enthusiasm for the program. Apparently cold now to their last night's proposals, they began talking of the necessity for a special session of congress in the spring, probably in April.

Tax Increase Not Certain.

The leaders said that, while a program calling for boosting the tax rates paid by men and women with small and moderate incomes had been seriously discussed as part of a four point budget balancing program, no agreement had been reached to push the tax increase at this time.

Under their new plan, leaders said, the Democrats will work to secure passage of the beer bill, continuation of the gasoline tax, and all possible reductions in the appropriations for the next year. The budget is to be brought as near into balance as possible in this way.

Then, after the income tax returns for March 15 have been received and President Roosevelt has had an opportunity to abolish a few bureaus, the situation will be reviewed, with the idea of taking such steps as are necessary to balance the budget. A boost in income tax rates might be voted then, it was said, if necessary to balance receipts with expenditures.

Points from Conference.

Out of the conflicting statements made by Democratic conferees in New York and in Washington today, the following points seemed to be clear:

1. The budget will not be balanced at the short session.

2. All the Democratic senators and representatives who sat in on the conference left convinced that a special session was inevitable.

3. President Elect Roosevelt was advised that the house will not accept the senate resolution for repealing the 18th amendment and will insist on one calling for outright repeal.

4. Agreement was reached by senate and house conferees to push through the beer bill and the repeal resolution at this session.

5. The President elect was told that President Hoover expects to veto the domestic allotment farm bill if presented to him.

6. No agreement has yet been reached among the Democrats themselves as to how the budget should be balanced.

Budget Balancing Discussed.

Surrounded by reporters on their return, Speaker Garner, Majority Leader Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], and Chairman James W. Collier of the house ways and means committee readily agreed that a four point budget balancing program had been discussed during the New York conference. All stated, however, that no commitments had been made regarding immediate Democratic support for the income tax boosts.

"We discussed a proposal to raise the normal income tax rates of from 4 and 8 per cent at present to 6 and 12 per cent, but we did not agree to any program for making such increases effective," Mr. Rainey said.

"President Elect Roosevelt would accept the income tax if absolutely necessary to balance the budget, and only as an alternative for a sales tax. I am against enactment of an income tax increase at this session and no such legislation will be in effect if I can prevent it.

"I favor enactment of the beer bill to raise 125 million, reenactment of the present gasoline tax to raise 137

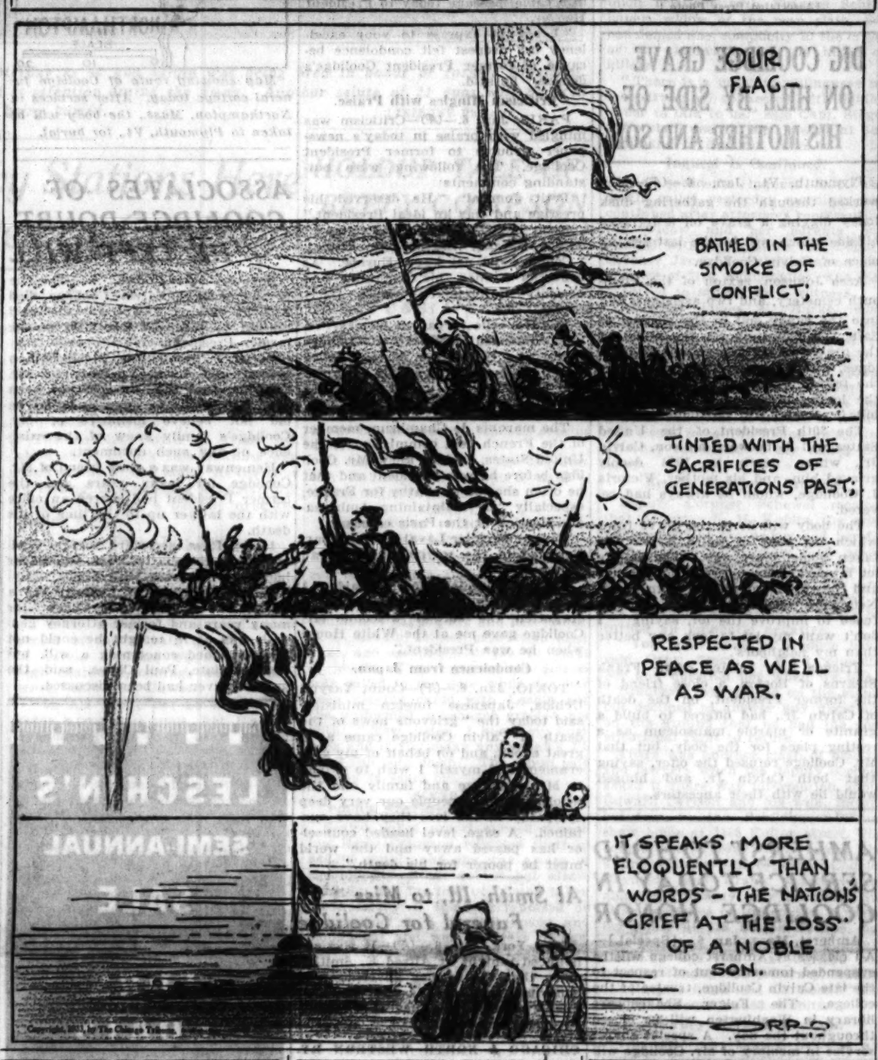
THE LANGUAGE OF THE FLAG



OUR FLAG—
BATHED IN THE SMOKE OF CONFLICT;
TINTED WITH THE SACRIFICES OF GENERATIONS PAST;
RESPECTED IN PEACE AS WELL AS WAR.
IT SPEAKS MORE ELOQUENTLY THAN WORDS—THE NATIONS GRIEF AT THE LOSS OF A NOBLE SON.

WHY A WOMAN ALWAYS WANTS THE LAST WORD

For 14 months Mrs. Etta Rohr, 4445 Kenmore avenue, has been unable to communicate with her estranged husband, Joseph, under an injunction order issued by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath in November, 1931. Yesterday with her attorney, T. J. McCormick, she appeared in the judge's courtroom and demanded an opportunity to speak to him.

"We were married for 19 years," Mrs. Rohr told the judge, "and during that time I always managed to have the last word in our arguments. Just before we parted we had one last argument, which he won. That has rankled in me, and I want a chance to clear my record."

"After all, judge," interjected McCormick, hurriedly, "the last word is a woman's prerogative."

"Yes, yes, I know," said Judge Sabath, waving a restraining hand toward Mrs. Rohr, who stood ready to continue her statement of her case, "I'll just take this matter under advisement until Monday."

A TOUGH STILL OWNER GIVES UP IN TEARS

Federal officers yesterday resorted to tear gas bombs to arrest Thomas Maloney, elderly proprietor of a still on his farm in Leyden township, after he barricaded himself in a cellar.

The still was raided three weeks ago, but Maloney escaped after shooting at the dry raiders with a shotgun. Deputy Marshal Leif Ibenfeldt found Maloney on his farm yesterday and served him with a warrant charging possession and manufacture of alcohol.

Maloney accompanied the marshal to the still in his barn and stepped through a trapdoor into a small cellar, armed himself with a sawed-off shotgun and refused to come out. Two tear bombs caused him to surrender.

Fort Wayne Woman Found Dead in Hotel Room Here

A woman registered as Miss Barbara Booth of Fort Wayne, Ind., was found dead in bed in her room in the Bismarck hotel last night. She was about 25 years old. She had registered at the hotel Thursday afternoon. Dr. R. R. Bates, house physician, said that death was evidently from natural causes. She had given her address as the Hotel Keenan in Fort Wayne.

Primo de Rivera's Son Kicks a Cop; Gets 3 Years in Jail

MADRID, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Fernando Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator of Spain, was sentenced today to three years, four months and eight days imprisonment, a fine of 150 pesetas and 120 pesetas indemnisation charges [about $22 in all] for kicking a policeman during a dispute over the parking of an automobile in a forbidden place.

Mayor to Get Hoodlum List for Cleanup

A new drive against hoodlums in Chicago was opened by Mayor Cermak last night. Also State's Attorney Courtney personally joined in the offensive earlier in the day when he appeared in court for the first time as prosecutor and charged that an attempt had been made to fix the cases of Murray Humphries and William [Three Fingered Jack] White, public enemies, accused of gun toting.

Mayor Cermak's campaign is of a new sort and is directed not only against the underworld chiefs but against minor figures in gang activities. In fact, it is to be applied to every man and woman engaged in illicit enterprises of a racket nature, particularly the alcohol and beer racket.

List All Known Hoodlums.

At the mayor's orders, Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker and his assistants are preparing a list of all known hoodlums in Chicago. This list probably will include nearly 750 names. Thus far between 600 and 700 names have been entered. The entire roster will be finished by tonight, it is believed.

The mayor wants the list so that he can find every known racketeer and drive him out of the city by the time beer is legalized and by the time the World's Fair opens. He has repeatedly announced these desires. Another use of the list, one informant said, will be as a weapon against police laxity. Captains saying that their districts are clear will be called upon to explain if the list shows otherwise.

Thus far some 50,000 "bad character" records have been searched to make up the hoodlum roll.

Courtney Goes Into Court.

State's Attorney Courtney's appearance in court yesterday was unexpected. He went before Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell with information which he personally obtained concerning a purported effort to fix the trials of Murray Humphries and William [Three Fingered Jack] White, public enemies, on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Before he arrived the cases were continued by the judge until Jan. 11 because Attorney W. W. Smith, counsel for the hoodlums, is ill. A jury in Judge O'Connell's court found Charles Fischetti, cousin and former bodyguard of Al Capone, guilty on a similar charge on Thursday. Fischetti, who was arrested with White and Humphries, is to be sentenced today.

State's Attorney Courtney revealed that he had listened in on a tapped wire on Thursday night and overheard conversation which convinced him that efforts were being made to tamper with the jury in this case. He said he was in court in the hope of finding one of the men whom he overheard. He refused to reveal the identity of the man he sought.

"This fellow does not hold political office, though he has political connections," Prosecutor Courtney said. "If I find him he will go to jail, to show hoodlums they cannot interfere in trials. We are going to convict the two hoodlums. We convicted Fischetti, and White and Humphries will soon be in the same boat."

Move to Protect Hoodlums.

The prosecutor said the man he was seeking expressed dissatisfaction at the result of the Fischetti trial and said that "things would be done" to safeguard White and Humphries from conviction.

"We had information that a fixed juryman was to be put on the Fischetti jury, but he was excluded as the jury was selected," Prosecutor Courtney said.

Ex-Czar Ferdinand Hankers for Sun; Leaves for Africa

PROBSTZELLA, Germany, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Former Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, who will be 72 next month, left today for a visit to Africa. "I'm a sick old man with a hankering for the sun of the south," he said as he started the trip.

DIMPLES HELP HER SERVE LEGAL PAPER ON DAVID L. HUTTON

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Because pretty Margaret Parker, cashier in a grocery, has dimples and a pleasing coloratura soprano voice, David L. Hutton Jr., rotund spouse of the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, must appear at the trial of another lawsuit against himself.

Miss Parker, a comely brunette, is a friend of Roy A. Watkins, who is suing Hutton for $2,000 for asserted sleuthing Watkins performed in aiding Hutton's recent futile defense against the heart balm suit of Hazel Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, who won a $5,000 judgment against Hutton.

Miss Parker went to last Sunday night's services in Angelus temple. Hutton sought her out, she said, and told her she had "a lovely voice." He offered to teach her voice culture, after conducting her on an inspection tour of the temple.

"Let me give you this," Miss Parker said, handing Hutton Mr. Watkins' legal summons.

PRISONERS SENT TO JAIL PENDING HEARING TODAY

Five officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct Chicago real estate corporation, who seemed stunned yesterday when Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward sentenced each to 20 years in Leavenworth penitentiary for using the mails to defraud, acted swiftly through their attorneys last night in an endeavor to escape their felons' cells.

All through the afternoon the officials, referred to by the judge as "men of affairs, of experience, of refinement and culture," sat in custody while their attorneys made attempts to prevent their being sent last night in company with eleven other criminals to the gray prison in Kansas.

Consents to Hear Motion.

Barely forty-five minutes before they were to have been marched to the station Judge Woodward consented to hear arguments today for a writ of supersedeas and for bail. Although the judge refused to make any change in the order for immediate transportation to Leavenworth, Chief Deputy Marshal King ruled that the prisoners would be held here until after the hearing. The five prisoners were loaded into a patrol wagon and sent to the county jail for the night.

The five prisoners are Henry F. Norcott, who was president of H. O. Stone & Co., a company with a career of more than ninety years in Chicago before it was wrecked; W. Scott Carroll, controller; Harold D. Bennett, executive vice president; Charles D. Packer Jr., treasurer, and Attorney Leslie A. Needham, general counsel for the company.

Also Get $15,000 Fines.

In addition to the prison terms each was fined $15,000. Two other officials of the concern, also found guilty of fraud, but recommended for leniency, were sentenced to two years each in prison and were fined $5,000 and costs. They are Marshall George, secretary, and David A. Coleman, sales manager.

A stay of execution was denied the five principals, but Judge Woodward granted stays to Marshall and Coleman, whose attorneys will plead that they be placed on probation. A hearing on this matter was set for Jan. 14.

The punishment meted out to Norcott and his four confederates, all of them one-time business leaders and controllers of millions of dollars, was said to be the heaviest ever imposed in the United States on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Two Are Freed on Bonds.

George and Coleman, who received leniency because it was shown they had little to do with shaping policies of Norcott's company, were released on bonds.

Today the attorneys for the five principals will argue that they should be granted their liberty on bonds until the case has been reviewed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. If Judge Woodward should grant the supersedeas he may either permit bond or rule, as was done in the Al Capone case, that the petitioners must remain in the county jail. Joseph A. Struett, assistant district attorney, who was in charge of the prosecution, said he would oppose any release on bonds.

Manacled in Pairs.

The five prisoners spent a tense afternoon. Apparently cast down by the severity of their sentences, they were grasped in the courtroom by husky deputy marshals after sentences were pronounced and taken to the lockup on the eighth floor of the federal building, manacled in pairs.

There they were finger-printed, as were the criminals who were to have been their companions en route to Kansas. Norcott and Packer kept their emotions well under control and answered questions of interviewers, even consenting to photographs. The other three refused to talk.

Relatives Visit Prisoners.

Wives and close relatives of the five sat in the marshal's office and were granted permission, one by one, to pay visits to the prisoners. All apparently were under great strain, unwilling to believe that the end [illegible]

Alimony Strife Puts Problem Before Courts

Consider Changes

The alimony problem has again aroused the concern of the courts, social agencies, and legislators. The question of committing men to jail for nonpayment of alimony in these harried days of low wages and unemployment is disturbing the legal minds of Cook county. Adjustment of the alimony scale in conformity with present conditions is also occupying the attention of the divorce judges. In a series of articles various phases of this perplexing issue will be presented.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

The insistent voice of the judge slashes through the murmurs and the whispers which form a constant undertone in the divorce court. Some 300 lawyers and their clients, witnesses, court attachés, stenographers, and curiosity-seekers are hushed for a moment.

A woman about 30 years old stands before the bench. She is a person of capable appearance. The tilt of her head is aggressive, her mien defiant. Beside her stands a man in whose eyes hope appears to be reviving as he listens to the curt words of the gray-haired judge.

The judge glances at the documents before him. Uppermost is a petition in which Mrs. Helen Beard requests an alimony allowance of $12 a week from her former husband, Claude Beard, an employé of a mail order house.

Judge Censures Ex-Wife.

"Mrs. Beard," the judge says and his face is stern, "you have been married four times. There is every indication that you collected a substantial alimony settlement each time you were divorced. The testimony is that you work for a living and you also own a rooming house from which you derive an income.

"The testimony is also that no children were born of your marriage to this defendant. He has remarried and now has children. He has a family to support from his small wages. Yet you, financially independent, are now asking for alimony. Your petition is utterly unwarranted. You seem to be unaware that the days of easy alimony for wives capable of supporting themselves are nearing an end in this county. The petition is denied and I deem it a pity that it was ever conceived and presented."

Gratitude in His Glance.

The woman, her head held high, sweeps from the courtroom, followed by several women friends. Her former husband beckons to another woman who has listened silently to the evidence, and they also leave. Before departing the man sends a meek glance of gratitude at the judge, who is considering the next petition.

At 10 o'clock each morning the divorce courts of Cook county in the county building hear petitions for support money, permanent or temporary, brought by wives divorced or about to be divorced. Later the routine business of legally dissolving the bonds of matrimony is taken up. BURIAL WILL BE IN FAMILY PLOT ON NATIVE HILLS

Hoover Will Attend Services.

Funeral Schedule.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 7 [Saturday]. — (AP) — The schedule of events for the funeral of Calvin Coolidge follows:

8 a. m.—The body will be taken from the Coolidge home to the Jonathan Edwards Congregational church.

8:30 to 9:30 a. m.—The body will lie in state at the church.

10:30 to 11 a. m.—Funeral services.

11:30 a. m.—The funeral party will start for Plymouth, Vt., passing through Greenfield to Bellows Falls, Vt., and Brattleboro, Vt.

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The body of former President Calvin Coolidge, who died at his home here yesterday, will lie in state in the Edwards Congregational church on main street from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The rank and file of his fellow townsfolk will pay their last respects to Mr. Coolidge before the funeral services, which begin at 10:30 o'clock. The services will be attended by an official party from Washington headed by President Hoover, and by dignitaries from New York, Boston and elsewhere.

Eulogy to Be Omitted.

After short and simple services, with no eulogy or address, in the church named after Jonathan Edwards, the body will be taken to the Coolidge ancestral home in Plymouth, Vt., 100 miles away, for burial with the former President's father and son, Calvin Coolidge Jr. Only members of the family and close friends will accompany the motor cortége to Plymouth.

Today the city of Northampton bowed its head in grief at the passing of its most famous citizen. Yesterday the townspeople were too shocked at the unexpected tragedy to express their grief.

Today the public buildings and many private buildings and homes were draped in black crepe. Flags on the buildings were at half staff, and all along main street flags at half staff stood at frequent intervals to announce the city's mourning and respect.

Public Mourning Proclaimed.

By proclamation of Mayor Homer C. Bliss, tomorrow was made a day of public mourning. The city hall and the banks will close at 10 a. m., the mills will not open during the day, and the stores will be closed from 10 o'clock until noon.

Telegrams of condolence from great figures of the world continued to pour into the Coolidge estate, The Beeches, out beyond Smith college. They came from practically everybody of public distinction in the United States, from ambassadors abroad and from the heads of foreign governments. There were so many that they completely overtaxed the resources of the Coolidge household and the majority of the messages have not yet been opened.

Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, the widow, was reported as still bearing up well under her grief. She has taken an active part in the funeral arrangements, has decided most of the important problems, and has given special attention to many of the details, including the selection of the musical program, which she made her particular task.

Honorary Pallbearers.

The honorary pallbearers, all old friends of Mr. Coolidge, were announced today by Harry Ross, the former President's secretary. They are:

Frank W. Stearns, Boston merchant.

William F. Whiting, Holyoke paper manufacturer.

Clifford H. Lyman, Northampton book seller.

Judge Thomas J. Hammond of the Superior court of Massachusetts.

Walter L. Stevens, a Northampton attorney.

R. W. Hemenway, Mr. Coolidge's former law partner, who still shared his offices with Mr. Coolidge until the latter's death.

William Butler, former senator from Massachusetts, who managed Mr.

Coolidge's campaign for the Presidency.

Mayor Homer C. Bliss of Northampton.

Former Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, father-in-law of John Coolidge, son of the former President.

Charles E. Andrews, classmate of Mr. Coolidge at Amherst.

The active bearers will be six uniformed policemen of the Northampton police department, chosen by Chief of Police Bartholomew Bresnahan.

View Body in Casket.

Reporters representing news services were invited tonight to view the body in the casket.

They described Mr. Coolidge's expression in death as composed and lifelike although his face was very white. He was dressed in striped trousers, black coat, a wing collar, and a four-in-hand tie with a satin stripe at the edge. His head was inclined a little to the right.

The body rested in a perfectly plain bronze casket, lined inside with white satin. Etched on the top of the casket were the words:

"Calvin Coolidge. 1872-1933."

The casket rested toward the right of the large living room adjacent to the library in which Mr. Coolidge spent much of his time. It stood in front of an open fireplace.

On one wall hung an oil portrait of Mrs. Coolidge, almost life size. On another wall, near a grand piano, was a portrait of President Coolidge. A charcoal drawing of Mr. Coolidge hung near the head of the casket. There were three pictures of Calvin Coolidge Jr.

Photographs of Family.

Other pictures in the room were a photograph of John Coolidge and Florence Trumbull Coolidge in bridal costume; a group photograph taken in front of the White House showing Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and the two boys, John and Calvin Jr.; a photograph of Mrs. Hoover and a grandchild, and a portrait of "Tiny Tim," the Coolidges' chow dog, who was running around the living room during the visit.

There was also a reproduction in oil of the scene when Col. John Coolidge, the former President's father, as a justice of the peace, administered the oath of office to Mr. Coolidge when he ascended to the presidency upon the death of President Harding.

Body to Lie in State.

Former President Coolidge's body will be taken to the church at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. Coolidge has agreed to permit newspaper and other photographers to record the scene as the body lies in the church between 8 and 8:30 o'clock, before the public is admitted, just as it will appear during the hour from 8:30 to 9:30, when it will lie in state.

The special train from Washington bearing President and Mrs. Hoover members of the cabinet, of the United States Supreme court and of the congress is expected here at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The official party will be taken directly from the train to the church and will return to the train after the services, according to present plans. Its members will not go to Plymouth for the interment.

Mrs. Coolidge, her son, John, and the latter's wife, the former Florence Trumbull, will go to the church in the Coolidge family car shortly before the services begin at 10:30 o'clock.

Simplicity Will Rule.

The Rev. Albert J. Penner, pastor of the church, who will officiate at the service, said today that it will be conducted with complete simplicity in accordance with Mrs. Coolidge's wishes. He said that she had requested no eulogy or address because she felt that Mr. Coolidge would have wished it that way.

Mr. Penner said that Mrs. Coolidge had selected all the numbers of the musical program, except for the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," which the pastor suggested.

The service will begin with an organ prelude from Dvorak's "New World Symphony," played by Thomas C. Auld, the church organist. Mr. Penner will then deliver the invocation which will be followed by the singing of the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," by the congregation and the church quartet.

Sing Favorite Hymn.

Mr. Penner next will read from the Scriptures and lead in prayer. Then the congregation will sing the hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," which the pastor said Mrs. Coolidge had selected because it was her husband's favorite hymn.

The services will end with the benediction pronounced by Mr. Penner.

It is expected that the church service will be ended in half an hour, or by 11 o'clock. Mrs. Coolidge and her family will then retire to The Beeches for rest before making the 100 mile automobile trip to Plymouth, which is expected to take about three hours and a half.

Before returning to Washington President and Mrs. Hoover are expected to pay a short visit to The Beeches to extend their sympathy to the widow in person.

Burial at 3 O'clock.

It is expected that the burial will be at 3 o'clock. The only ceremony will be the simple committal services of the church, at which the Rev. Mr. Penner will officiate.

In addition to the official party coming from Washington, some of the other prominent persons expected to attend the church services are Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, her son, James Roosevelt; Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow Charles D. Hilles, Bernard M. Baruch the governors of Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire, and mayors from several Massachusetts cities.

HOOVER ON WAY TO ATTEND RITES FOR COOLIDGE

Chief Justice Hughes and Others in Party.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7 [Saturday].—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover left Washington at 12:30 a. m. today for Northampton, Mass., to attend the funeral services of former President Calvin Coolidge.

Accompanying them on their pilgrimage of respect to the 30th President of the United States were half a hundred notables among the country's official figures, many of whom had served with or under Mr. Coolidge. The President himself was Mr. Coolidge's secretary of commerce.

On Special Train.

On the Pennsylvania special train were Vice President Curtis, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who served in the Coolidge cabinet as secretary of state; Secretary of State Stimson, who served President Coolidge as special envoy and as governor of the Philippines; Secretary of the Navy Adams, Secretary of Commerce Chapin, Associate Justice Stone, attorney general under President Coolidge and appointed by him to the Supreme court; Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.]; Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.], secretary of labor in President Coolidge's cabinet; Harry S. New, Mr. Coolidge's postmaster general; Everett Sanders, President Coolidge's former secretary and now chairman of the Republican national committee, and a delegation of 25 members of the senate and 13 members of the house of representatives.

The presidential train will arrive in Northampton today shortly before the funeral services, which are set for 10:30 o'clock. Following the services President and Mrs. Hoover will call on Mrs. Coolidge at the Coolidge home. They will not go to Plymouth for the burial services, but will return to Washington immediately after their call of condolence, arriving at the capital this evening.

Committee from Senate.

Heading the senate committee, appointed to attend the funeral, are Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, and Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader. Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, and Representative B. H. Snell of New York, Republican leader, similarly head the house committee.

Many of the senators were serving when President Coolidge as Vice President presided over them.

President Hoover sent his chief military and naval aids, Col. Campbell C. Hodges and Capt. Walter M. Vernou, to Northampton to offer their services to Mrs. Coolidge in making arrangements for the funeral.

These aids will represent the President officially at the interment in the Coolidge family burial plot at Plymouth. The aids took with them to Northampton a wreath and floral piece to be placed near the casket in the name of the President and Mrs Hoover.

Close Presidential Home.

Following the President's proclamation Thursday in which a thirty day period of official mourning was announced, orders were given to have the White House closed to public visitors and sightseers until after the burial of Mr. Coolidge. M. Claudel, French ambassador to the United States, as dean of diplomatic corps in the capital, called at the White House to express on behalf of his colleagues their profound sympathy and to inform the President that a representative of the corps would go to Northampton to leave a wreath.

The principal topic of conversation about the White House and offices was the passing of former President Coolidge. Older employes held a strong affection for Mr. Coolidge and deeply mourned his passing.

BLAME COOLIDGE DEATH ON RIGORS OF OFFICIAL LIFE

Three Presidents Die of Same Trouble.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The ailment which caused the death of Calvin Coolidge at his Northampton home on Thursday has figured in one form or another in the deaths of three other recent Presidents of the United States—Harding, Wilson, and Roosevelt—the New York Academy of Medicine recalled today in an explanation of Mr. Coolidge's malady.

At the same time, the academy's bureau of information, headed by Dr. Lago Gladston, through which the explanation was made public, concurred in the view expressed in other medical quarters that the onerous responsibilities of office have hastened the deaths of recent Presidents.

Aggravated by Strain.

A still more potent cause, however, was, in the opinion of the heart specialist who supplied the information on which the bureau's statements were based, the strain of the long political careers which almost invariably precede election to the presidency.

Mr. Coolidge's fatal stroke had been attributed to a thrombosis, or clotting, of one of the coronary arteries which lead from the heart. The academy's statement recalled that a similar stroke had contributed to the death of President Harding, and that in President Harding's case there had been a previous record of a digestive disorder, as in the case of Mr. Coolidge, who had complained of what he believed to be indigestion for some time prior to his death. The symptoms in both cases may have been traceable to the heart rather than to the digestive organs, the bureau of information pointed out.

In the cases of Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson the stroke was cerebral, being caused by a blood clot in the brain.

Blame Wear and Tear.

The cause in all of the cases of the former Presidents was said by the explanation to have been most probably the wear and tear of age, which had been increased in its effects by the nervous tension and the anxiety to which the Presidents had been subjected.

This wear and tear is reflected in the condition known as hardening of the arteries, and even without the complicating effects of anxiety has been recognized by the medical profession, it was pointed out, as a factor which so weakens the arteries that a clot may develop at any time, its exact location being unpredictable.

It was recalled in this connection that the death of former President Taft in 1930 was also attributed to an arterial condition, although thrombosis was not included in his malady.

80 YEARS OLD BETHEL COLLEGE TO CLOSE DOORS

Russellville, Ky., Jan. 6.—(AP)—After eighty years of service in Kentucky, Bethel college, Baptist institution here, will close its doors Jan. 21, at the end of the present semester.

Action taken last week by the board of trustees to close the institution was disclosed today. Economic conditions which officials of the school said made it impossible for the institution to maintain its standards were given as the reason for the closing.

DIG COOLIDGE GRAVE ON HILL BY SIDE OF HIS MOTHER AND SON

Plymouth, Vt., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Men worked through the gathering dusk today digging a grave on a terraced hillside which will be the last resting place of Calvin Coolidge.

Azro Johnson, sexton of the Plymouth cemetery, and two assistants dug into the sandy soil in the shadow of Salt Ash mountain, in the midst of the graves of six generations of Coolidges, who were described in verse by the former President as "pillowed in the loving breast of our everlasting hills." Burial will be tomorrow.

The 30th President of the United States will lie between his son, Calvin Jr., whose death in 1924 deeply grieved him, and his mother, Victoria J. Coolidge, whom he always had revered.

The body will lie in the grave from which the body of Edith Ayers was taken some years ago. The family lot is marked by unpretentious stones and the turf is rough and untrimmed. Neighbors said Mr. Coolidge had refused to improve the lot, saying: "I don't want my lot to look any better than my neighbors'."

Friends also related that Frank Stearns of Boston, a close friend of the former President, on the death of Calvin Jr., had offered to build a granite or marble mausoleum as a resting place for the body, but that Mr. Coolidge refused the offer, saying that both Calvin Jr. and himself would lie with their ancestors.

AMHERST TO HOLD SERVICE TODAY IN COOLIDGE HONOR

Amherst, Mass., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—All classes at Amherst college will be suspended tomorrow out of respect to the late Calvin Coolidge, trustee of the college. The Folger Shakespeare library in Washington will be closed throughout the day. A special chapel service in memory of Mr. Coolidge will be held at 8:50 and attended by trustees, faculty, and undergraduates.

The college will be represented at the service by trustees, faculty, and administration, and by a committee of three undergraduates—George Cadigan, president of the senior class, and Dwight W. Morrow, a senior, and Lucius R. Eastman, a junior, both sons of members of the class of '95, Mr. Coolidge's class.

KING OF ENGLAND SENDS MESSAGE TO MRS. COOLIDGE

Hindenburg Also Extends His Sympathy.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—King George today sent the following message of condolence to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge:

"The queen and I are deeply sorry to learn of your tragic and unexpected bereavement, and we hasten to assure you of our profound sympathy with you and your family in your irreparable loss."

Hindenburg Expresses Regret.

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—(AP)—President Paul von Hindenburg expressed regret at the death of Calvin Coolidge in a cable message today to President Hoover.

"I beg to express to your excellency my deepest felt condolence because of former President Coolidge's demise," he said.

Criticism Mingles with Praise.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Criticism was mingled with praise in today's newspaper tributes to former President Coolidge. The following were outstanding comments:

Petit Journal: "He deserved his prestige and was an ideal President."

Echo de Paris [by "Pertinax," André Geraud, the foreign editor]: "Coolidge did not know Europe. As concerns France, his ignorance and hostility unfortunately were fairly evident."

Ere Nouvelle [organ of former Premier Edouard Herriot]: "Coolidge really was the author of that policy which clashes with our taste for order and logic."

"Showed Sympathy for France."

The marquis de Chambrun, member of the French debt commission to the United States, said he knew Mr. Coolidge before he was President and that he often showed sympathy for France, especially "by maintaining Ambassador Herrick at the Paris embassy."

Former Premier Laval said he "participated in the sorrow of American citizens."

Former Premier Herriot said: "I feel a very real sorrow, for I have not forgotten the cordial welcome Mr. Coolidge gave me at the White House when he was President."

Condolence from Japan.

TOKIO, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Count Yasyua Uchida, Japanese foreign minister, said today the "grievous news of the death of Calvin Coolidge came as a great shock, and on behalf of my government and myself I wish to extend to Mrs. Coolidge and family and the whole American people our very deep sympathy in the loss they have sustained. A sage, level headed counselor has passed away and the world must be poorer for his death."

Al Smith, Ill, to Miss Funeral for Coolidge

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—It was announced tonight at Alfred E. Smith's office that the former governor was suffering from neuritis and would be unable to attend the funeral of former President Calvin Coolidge.

ASSOCIATES OF COOLIDGE DOUBT HE LEFT WILL

Boston, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The possibility that Calvin Coolidge died without making a will was disclosed tonight by business associates of the former President.

Ralph W. Hemenway, Northampton lawyer and former partner of Mr. Coolidge, said that no will had been drawn so far as he knew and that he did not believe members of Mr. Coolidge's family knew of the existence of any such document.

Hemenway was a close friend of Mr. Coolidge for many years and the former President had shared an office with the lawyer up to the time of his death.

Harry Ross, secretary to Mr. Coolidge, said the matter of a will never had been discussed with him.

John G. Sargent of Ludlow, Vt., a friend of the former President for many years and former attorney general, was so ill tonight he could not be questioned concerning a will, but his associate, Paul Chase, said the subject never had been discussed.

BOY, 6, IS KILLED BY A TRUCK IN FRONT OF HOME

Edward Milas, 6 years old, 4928 South Seeley avenue, was killed yesterday when he ran into the street in front of his home and was struck by a delivery truck. The driver, Fred W. Rothenburg, 1015 East 76th street, was held by the New City police for the inquest today.

This death and one other increased the 1933 Cook county motor toll to 15. The other victim:

William Rahill, 46 years old, of 1528 East 84th place, an engineer for the Illinois Steel company. Killed early this morning at 93d street and Stony Island avenue by an automobile which sped on after the accident. Three men were in the car.

Mrs. Catherine Kelly, 60 years old, 1219 West 54th street, died in the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, last night from injuries suffered Thursday when the automobile in which she and three others were riding crashed into a Waukegan truck at Genesee street and South avenue, Waukegan.

CHARGES RELIEF SHELTERS WASTE TAXPAYERS' CASH

Idle Men Found Gambling in Havens, Official Says

CHARLES H. WEBER

An inspection of the shelters for the idle which the Emergency Relief commission maintains for single men caused County Commissioner Charles H. Weber to report to the finance committee of the county board yesterday that the shelters represent a "gross waste of taxpayers' money." He and Commissioner Peter M. Kelly inspected a number of the shelters in accordance with a resolution recently adopted by the board.

Weber reported that he and his fellow commissioner found few men in the shelters deserving of relief. The majority of the inmates either were not idle, but were living off the taxpayers while holding jobs, or have been idle all their lives and are not suffering from unemployment due to the depression, he said. He charged also that the shelters are hideouts for criminals.

Mistake for Inmates.

As an illustration of his contention that good clothes and a prosperous appearance are a common sight among the free boarders at the shelters, Commissioner Weber related with some amusement how, on entering one of the shelters, he and Commissioner Kelly were mistaken by attendants for applicants for relief and were ordered to line up with the inmates.

"We found men in the rooms of the shelters playing cards for money," said Commissioner Weber, "and the attendants told us that the inmates all seemed to have money to buy booze. They cleaned out from 25 to 50 liquor bottles every morning, the said.

"Most of these men are bums, who have never been anything but members of the hobo class, and who had sunk to the level of degradation in which we found them long before the present depression started. Most of those who are not hobos are employed during the day and have money in their pockets.

"As an example, we found the case of one man who owns two flat buildings. He had had a spat with his family and refused to live with them any longer. So he went to the shelter and was being kept by the taxpayers."

Mayor Cermak reported a similar case yesterday. Police in a district near one of the shelters found an automobile illegally parked, and when the owner failed to appear took it to the police station. When the owner appeared to reclaim it it was discovered, the mayor said, that he was living at the shelter for the idle.

Propose Shelter Program.

"Commissioner Kelly and myself found no complaints on the present operation of the shelters," said Weber. "The places are sanitary, being kept clean by the attendants. What they need is a general tightening up. We advocate a program as follows:

"First, fingerprint every man who enters the shelters, as an aid to police in checking crime. I was informed that a number of known criminals, safecrackers, and robbers have been using the shelters as hideouts between crimes.

"Second, take the shelters out of the hobo districts, where they are now centered, and place them under direct police supervision, perhaps that of the police employment bureau.

"Third, refuse relief to transients, or at least cut down that relief below the present level. We discovered that more than half the occupants of the shelters which we inspected were men from out of town who had come to Chicago for a bath, a meal, and a good rest. Most of them told us that they had been shoved along by police in smaller communities or by railroad men who knew of the Chicago shelters. The majority were not in Chicago to stay, but were on their way south or to California for the winter.

Criticizes Work Plan.

Commissioner Weber also criticized the plan under which men willing to work are given one day's work a week, at $4 a day. He said that the "made work" clearing house bureau of the Emergency Relief commission had 13,000 men at this sort of work and spent $173,000 on the project last month. He charged that the plan was wasteful and that the money could better be used in maintaining the shelters, where the men can be placed under stricter supervision. He objected in particular to the practice of relief officials in directing the men who have earned a day's pay to Y. M. C. A. dormitories, which, he said, pay no taxes.

"The reason the men go to the Y. M. C. A.," said Robert W. Beasley, one of the relief commission executives who were present, "is that they get a 40 per cent reduction on rooms and food there. They couldn't live any place else on the same money."

Relief Official Defends Plan.

James Mullenbach, a member of the shelter committee of the Emergency Relief commission, also defended the plan of giving men willing to work one day's employment a week. The commission has been able to close four shelters for the idle by reason of operation of the plan, he said, and it has had a favorable effect on the morale of the men who get the jobs.

"The character of the shelter house population has changed greatly during the last year," said Mr. Mullenbach. "The number of artisans and white collar workers has increased several hundred per cent, while the drifters are being eased out and told to go their way."

Following a trip of inspection yesterday to the Criminal Courts building, Mayor Cermak said that he would ask the county commissioners to put men on the relief rolls to work, cleaning up county and city institutions and streets, "so that the taxpayers who are putting up the relief funds will get something back for their money."

Salute to Calvin Coolidge Fired at Fort Sheridan

Army and Navy Stations Here Join in Tributes to Coolidge

Military services in honor of the memory of Calvin Coolidge were held at Fort Sheridan yesterday afternoon, a 48 gun salute being fired while the garrison of 1,200 troops stood at attention on the parade ground. A 21 gun salute will be fired today at about the hour that the former President is being buried near Plymouth, Vt.

From sunrise to sunset today a gun will be fired every half hour at the Great Lakes Naval Training station as a 30 day period of mourning goes into effect.

Hurley's Dispatch Read.

The Fort Sheridan troops assembled at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon and listened for ten minutes to a dispatch sent Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, commandant, by Secretary of War Hurley, which was read by the company commanders.

All federal departments in the Chicago district will join this morning in a memorial service in the flag draped courtroom of Judge Charles E. Woodward. Samuel Alschuler, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, will preside.

Judge George A. Carpenter, dean of the District court, and Judge Woodward, last judicial appointee of President Coolidge, will speak. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the 6th corps area, will represent the army, and the navy will be represented by Admiral Wat Cluverius of the Great Lakes station.

Postal Choir to Sing.

Formations from Fort Sheridan and Great Lakes will present a color guard and blow taps. A choir of postal employés will sing and Maj. Simoni, Fort Sheridan post chaplain, will offer prayer. A federal building committee composed of Collector of Customs Czarnecki, District Attorney Green, C. A. Donnel, head of the weather bureau, Maj. Malstrom, superintendent of mails, and Commander Whitehouse of the coast guard will represent the federal departments.

Chicago's half million school children will take part Monday in memorial exercises, and reference to Mr. Coolidge probably will be made in most churches tomorrow.

The Chicago Board of Trade will close at 11 o'clock this morning and flags will fly at half staff. At the hour of closing this morning a bugler will sound taps from a balcony over the trading floor.

Dawes Pays Chief Tribute.

Tribute to Mr. Coolidge was paid yesterday in a statement from his Vice President, Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

"When we consider any phase or period of the private or official life of Calvin Coolidge we see reflected high character, courage and common sense," said Gen. Dawes.

"In his public life he was in one sense a cautious man, but his cautiousness rested only until he was sure of his duty.

"By nature he was unostentatious and reserved; but his methods were as simple and direct as his thoughts and expressions were clear and forceful. In the midst of general excitement Coolidge maintained calmness, and his decisions were neither unduly delayed nor unduly hastened. It was not alone because he deserved it but because he possessed such unusual personal qualities that he won so completely the love and trust of the American people. Surely he has demonstrated that even in these complex and difficult times the simple life may lead to enduring greatness."

Resolutions deploring Mr. Coolidge's death were passed yesterday by the Cook County council of the American Legion and by the Iroquois club.

EXTORTIONIST, 17, TO BE EXAMINED BY PSYCHIATRIST

James Biangman, 17 years old, confessed extortionist, yesterday was ordered held for examination by Dr. D E. Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, by Judge John Gutknecht of the Boys' court. At the same time the judge continued the extortion charge until Jan. 12.

Biangman admitted sending a letter demanding $5,000 from John J Dunn, coal merchant at 51st and Federal streets, and threatening to bomb Dunn's office unless the demand was met. Biangman, who lives at 5031 Federal street, was arrested on Wednesday by Lieut. Frank Johnson of the state's attorney's office, who placed a dummy package in front of 5033 Federal street, the place designated in the letter.

The package was picked up by Dominick Miele, 14 years old, of the same address as Biangman. Detectives followed him and saw him give the package to Biangman. Miele was released after Biangman said the boy knew nothing of the threat letter.

Greeks Camp in Open After Two Quakes Shake Town

CHARGE BANDMAN MURDER WITNESS WITH CONSPIRACY

Mrs. Schildhauer's Lawyers Keep Her in Hiding.

Police Captain John Stege, in charge of the investigation of the murder of Edwin O. Schildhauer, Austin High school bandmaster, last night took formal action against one of the many witnesses in the case who are, in the opinion of the police, striving to withhold information that may be important.

The captain charged Carl Bradberry, former deputy sheriff, with conspiracy to obstruct justice. He will be arraigned in the Felony court today. Bradberry, who has been held in police custody since Tuesday, has admitted illicit relations with Frances Schildhauer, widow of the man slain, but has denied any complicity in the crime or any knowledge of the killer or killers.

"There is a great unwillingness on the part of all connected with Schildhauer to talk to us," said Capt. Stege. "We shall use all legal means at our command to find out facts."

The coroner's inquest into the death, called yesterday morning, was continued after attorneys representing the widow and her parents had clashed with Capt. Stege and Deputy Coroner Jacob A. Schewel about the absence of Mrs. Schildhauer, who was expected to appear as a witness.

Attorney James M. Burke, who, with his partner, George Crane, was added to the family legal staff on Thursday, asserted he was not going to permit Mrs. Schildhauer to appear for questioning until he had talked to her. It was indicated that she had gone to the home of friends in Austin and would remain in hiding unless the attorney consented to her telling her story.

Recalls Lawyer's Promise.

Deputy Coroner Schewel recalled that Attorney E. H. Kubitz, the original counsel of the widow and her father, George Birkinshaw, had promised to have her present for the inquest. He asked if there was any chance she would be able to appear in the afternoon and Attorney Burke returned an emphatic negative.

"You don't have to produce her," said Capt. Stege. "We'll subpoena her and question her when we like."

Bradberry was placed on the stand, but declined to answer any questions on the ground that he had the constitutional right to refuse.

There was another clash of officials and lawyers when the deputy coroner asked if there was information about Edward Carlson and his wife, former boarders in the Schildhauer-Birkinshaw home at 3435 Fulton street. The couple moved four days before the killing. Coroner's investigators Charles Reynolds and Frank Donohue announced Thursday they had found another residence of the couple, a rooming house at 612 Belden avenue, but that they had moved out on Tuesday. Donohue was told that Carlson had been in touch with Attorney Kubitz.

"Do you know the Carlsons?" the deputy coroner asked Kubitz.

Attorney Refuses to Talk.

This attorney, saying he was advised by Attorney Burke, also refused to tell anything.

According to Birkinshaw, the Carlsons had been asked to leave. It is the opinion of the police that they may be able to throw some light on the domestic life, at least, of Schildhauer and his wife.

"I recommend that Capt. Stege apprehend Mrs. Schildhauer, her parents, and the Carlsons," said Deputy Coroner Schewel.

When Attorney Burke said it would not be necessary to apprehend them the deputy coroner retorted that he was privileged to issue his own orders.

Another being sought is Paul Walton, a former attorney, who was friendly both with the bandmaster and his wife. He has been missing since the killing.

HOLDUP TALE OF BETTY COMPSON PUZZLES POLICE

Actress Denies She Recognized Robber.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Betty Compson was the feature player today in a real life mystery to which a squad of police detectives was seeking a solution.

It might be entitled "The Big Jewelry Robbery," the script to date of which might be written:

SCENE I.:
HOLLYWOOD POLICE STATION, TIME—LAST NIGHT.

Detectives make report Betty Compson told them a robber disguised as a telegraph messenger boy gained entrance to her palatial Hollywood home, bound and gagged her and her visitor, E. D. Leshin, former production manager, and escaped with $50,000 worth of jewels. They reported the actress was called to the door while she had been playing cards with Leshin and the uniformed messenger greeted her with: "Now, listen, I know my business and if you make any squawk I'll burn you both down." The report said he was 36 years old.

SCENE II.:
POLICE STATION—NEXT MORNING.

Sealed police report opened revealing Betty Compson reported theft of $41,500 jewels and she was aware of the identity of the robber but afraid to name him for fear of "being taken for a ride." It said she reported he was attired in a black overcoat and slouch hat and was 25 years of age. "Miss Compson and Mr. Leshin had been drinking," the report said.

SCENE III.:
BETTY COMPSON RESIDENCE—LATER.

Betty Compson: "I never told the officers I knew the man. I told police at first that the bandit was in a telegraph messenger's uniform because he told Mr. Leshin and me just before he left: 'I'm wearing a Western Union uniform. That's what you're to tell police, or I'll come back and get you both.'

"He wore an overcoat and a felt hat drawn low. He bound us both with tape over the mouth and around the head. Then he took the jewelry and left.

"While lying on the floor bound and gagged I noticed a ring and a pair of scissors the man apparently had brought to cut the tape with which had dropped from his pockets.

"By squirming around I managed to get the scissors in my tied hands and, after much effort, succeeded in snipping through the piano wire with which Mr. Leshin's hands were bound."

SCENE IV.:
POLICE STATION—LATER.

Police announced the actress refused to sign a police report containing her description of the jewelry.

"My business manager advised me not to sign it," the police report recorded the actress as saying.

This refusal, police said, legally gave them no robbery to investigate.

LEAVES 31 GRANDCHILDREN.

SEIZE LECTURER AT HARVARD ON GERMAN CHARGE

Professor Accused of Exchange Fraud.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Prof. Joao Frederico Normano, lecturer on economics at Harvard, was arrested tonight by federal authorities on an extradition warrant at the request of the German government.

Normano was charged, in a warrant issued in Berlin Nov. 23, with being one Isaak Lewin, wanted in Germany for forgery of bills of exchange and obtaining money under false pretenses to the amount of five million reichmarks.

The warrant charged that Lewin, alias Normano, was the sole owner of the banking firm of G. Lowenberg & Co., Berlin, now in bankruptcy, and that he "fraudulently issued bills of exchange, using forged stamps of German firms during 1928 and 1929." Many of these he sold to American banks, Baron von Tippleskirtz, German consul general in Boston, who appeared before United States Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney today, said.

Lewin used the money, the German warrant said, for "sumptuous living."

Assistant United States Attorney Haven Parker said Normano was a citizen of Nicaragua, was born in Kiev, Russia, educated at the University Frieburg, is 45 years old, and married. He is an associate director of the Harvard bureau of economic research in Latin America and is a visiting lecturer in economics at Harvard this year.

He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

MAKES PLEA FOR WELFARE FUND AS GIFTS LAG

Aroused over the slowing up of contributions to the Emergency Welfare fund during the past week, Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign to raise $7,500,000 for the city's private welfare agencies, yesterday issued a new appeal for public support.

During the last week less than $100,000 has been received, according to a report of campaign workers made at the Hotel La Salle yesterday. This brings the grand total to $4,205,000, when the goal at this time had been set at $5,000,000.

"I am afraid the people of Chicago fail to realize the urgency of our appeal," Mr. Gardner said. "Of course, over a period of time, we would obtain the $7,500,000 required for the 99 charitable groups we support, but the need is immediate. If contributions do not increase speedily actual suffering in many parts of the city will spread accordingly.

"The feeding of the idle is a small part of the relief movement. The agencies financed by our fund are those that prevent the spread of disease, that shelter, protect, and provide medical care for children without parents, that care for the aged, infirm, and mentally deficient."

Atty. Gen. Carlstrom Opens Law Office in Chicago

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo yesterday entered the practice of law in Chicago. He opened a suite in the Otis building. His associates are Clyde E. Pettit and Paul T. Klenk, former mayor of Blue Island. The attorney general will be succeeded Monday by Circuit Judge Otto Kerner.

TEACHERS LOOK TO COUPON PLAN AS A PAY HOPE

Evanston Results Told at Meeting.

Chicago school teachers and employés whose salary arrears go back to last May are considering adopting the Evanston coupon plan as a more convenient crutch than tax warrants in order to lift them out of their financial troubles.

This plan was explained and discussed at the Auditorium theater yesterday before thousands of teachers. It will go out to the schools for further discussion before action is taken or any concrete plan put before the board of education.

The essential features of the plan are:

It is a trade coupon plan, without any relation to the Evanston Eirma money plan.

The board of education would exchange at par to a group of business concerns dealing in the necessities of life, educational fund 1932 tax warrants for trade coupon books in small denominations.

It is proposed that the salaries for the last two weeks in May be paid with such coupon books.

Tell of Evanston Plan.

Aaron Kline, president of the Chicago Principals' club, presided at the meeting, which was addressed by Allan Carter, member of the Evanston High school board; Miss Martha Gray, a teacher in the high school there, and two grade teachers. They all agreed that the plan which has been in use in Evanston since last August has worked there and its adoption by Chicago was recommended.

The Evanston board buys the coupon books with tax warrants and distributes them to the teachers. To Dec. 1 the Evanston schools have met their pay roll with coupon books, 40 per cent; cash, 20 per cent, and tax warrants, 40 per cent. Next month they will take care of 60 per cent of the high school pay roll. The teachers said they preferred the coupon books to the warrants, as they were more easily disposed of. The teachers sell them for money in many instances and do not have to take a discount. The books are for food, fuel, gas, household goods, and clothing, and are easily exchangeable for rent, dentist bills, permanent waves and whatnot.

"A Substantial Crutch."

"We have found them a most substantial crutch," said one young woman teacher.

Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois Congress of the Parent-Teacher association, said that the coming generations would look back on the Chicago teachers of today as heroes and heroines. The citizens' committee must understand that their faith and ideals will never break, she said. With no cash in sight and many of the teachers reduced to desperate circumstances the coupon system was presented as a happy way out of a dark corner.

U. S. TO LAUNCH NEW FIGHT TO RETURN INSULL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—A new move to bring about the extradition of Samuel Insull from Greece will be initiated tomorrow, it was learned today. Officials declined to outline the next step to be taken beyond admitting that a report had been received from Greece and a new course of action decided upon. It was said that every avenue would be exhausted in an effort to return the fugitive utilities official to the United States. A few days ago the Greek courts freed Insull, then held for extradition proceedings. It is said here that diplomatic steps may be taken to persuade the Greek government to coöperate.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The conviction of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, army medical officer, for the poison murder of his second wife at Fort Riley, Kas., in June, 1929, was affirmed in a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, made public here today. Shepard is under sentence of life imprisonment. He was convicted by a jury in federal court in Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 22 1930. He has been at liberty on bond pending the appeal.

HOUSE CALLS ON R. F. C. TO MAKE LOANS PUBLIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Two long standing feuds between the administration's Reconstruction Finance corporation and Democratic spokesmen in congress flared up anew today.

In the house the issue was publicity for the corporation's loan making operations, and the Democrats won the argument. In the senate the old controversy over the corporation's rigid credit policies was revived by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], with the assertion that he intends to introduce a resolution on Monday which will force the federal agency to loosen up.

As soon as today's house session began the Democratic leadership took their Republican opposition by surprise and brought up the Howard resolution "requesting" the R. F. C. to submit a complete report on the hitherto unpublished loans made by it during the period from its beginning on Feb. 2 to July 21, when the publicity clause of the emergency relief act went into effect.

Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.] protested vigorously, but, taken by surprise, he was unable to muster sufficient ballots to defeat it. The vote, on strictly party lines, was 76 to 62.

The real purpose of the resolution, according to its author, Representative Edgar Howard [Dem., Neb.], is to smoke out the corporation on the early loan making activities which never have been made public. If directors of the corporation accede to the "requesting" resolution all will be well, he indicated; but if they refuse, Democrats in congress intend to jump on them with both feet.

ILLINOIS RIVER TRAFFIC FOR 1932 GAINS OVER 1931

Cited as an Argument for Early Waterway Opening

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

In advance of the opening of the Illinois waterway, which is nearing completion as the final link in the water route from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, traffic on the Illinois river made a 10 per cent gain in tonnage in 1932 over 1931, according to unofficial estimates yesterday by war department engineers at Peoria. The increase occurred despite a decrease in the cement traffic due to the depression. The cement plants on the river did not operate during the early part of the year and the movement of cement fell off 50,000 tons.

As against this, however, the movement of grain between river ports grew, as did the carrying of sand and gravel, which was double that of 1931.

Ice Is No Barrier.

Ice in the river after the zero weather period of Dec. 15 and 16 caused no suspension of traffic in the lower Illinois. The cold wave formed ice 8 to 10 inches thick over the Illinois river in long stretches, but the final cargo moved by the federal barge lines made a record in itself, for it left Havana, Ill., on Dec. 28, or twelve days after the extreme cold snap.

Rains loosened the ice and the towboat Gen. Ashburn of the federal barge lines was sent from St. Louis to pick up the last cargo of 1932. With a steel barge on its nose to buck the floating ice, the Ashburn plowed its way to Havana and started southward with 1,000 tons of corn, the biggest cargo ever to leave the Illinois river during a Christmas holiday week.

The growing winter traffic on the lower Illinois, where the current is so slight that the river becomes ice bound more easily than in the upper river, where it is stronger, is taken as another argument for the opening of the Illinois waterway as soon as it is finished, possibly less than two months hence, instead of waiting for spring. From Peoria came a dispatch last night that during November and December eight barge loads of corn had been shipped by the Farmers' National Grain corporation from Havana, bound for New Orleans.

Experiment Is Successful.

These barges carried a total of 6,000 tons of Mason county corn, or approximately a quarter of a million bushels. The corn was moved by water as an experiment by the grain corporation, and J. C. McClintock, local manager, declared it was successful beyond expectations.

Throughout 1932 stages of water in the Illinois river ranged from 17.6 feet in January to 9 feet in September, based on the Peoria gauge, which is set two to three feet above the actual river bed, from which the Peoria engineers point out that a nine foot channel in the Illinois not only maintained itself through a season which was four inches deficient in rainfall but also at the low point has some margin to spare.

Two Homes Damaged by Fall of Dead Poplar Tree

A dead poplar tree broke loose from the ropes with which it was being lowered to the ground by means of a block and tackle last night and knocked the chimneys from the homes of Mrs. Ruth Hartnett, 7622 Clyde avenue, and of William Walsh, an insurance salesman, at 7620 Clyde avenue. Plaster was shaken from the walls in both homes. The total damage was estimated at $1,600.

Demand Curb on Magistrates' 1929 Tax Collection Tactics

President Emmett Wheelan of the county board yesterday called on State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney to stamp out abuses in the collection of delinquent 1929 personal property taxes in country town areas through justices of the peace. President Wheelan charged the justices are proceeding illegally in a mad scramble for fees.

The collection of the delinquent taxes through justices was inaugurated many years ago by the state's attorney's office. Under the original plan a justice was to hear only the cases in his immediate district. The justices are paid only through costs assessed at each collection.

Go Outside Own Villages.

"The justices have gone way beyond the intent of the plan in seeking this profitable business," President Wheelan said. "Numerous complaints have been made to me. In some instances a justice in one suburb has mailed notices to taxpayers in another town to appear before him. In many instances it is not only inconvenient but practically impossible for the taxpayer to get before the justice.

"The justices should make personal service on the taxpayer through a constable. Most of them are not doing this. They merely mail a letter threatening suit unless payment is made to them. They have no right to receive the money. The payment, to be legal, should be made to the county treasurer. In these letters they ask $5 for costs. By mailing the notices they also eliminate the fee of the constable.

"Further the justices have no interest in the collection of taxes. All they care for is the fee. I have been told of numerous instances in which the taxpayer has had his tax cut from various amounts to $1, plus an additional $5 to cover the costs. In their drive for this profitable business the justices are threatening suits on amounts as low as $2."

Tells How to Avoid Costs.

State's Attorney Courtney instructed County Attorney Hayden Bell to revise the method of collection. Pending the revision he announced that taxpayers should ignore letters sent by the justices and to appear in court only after they have been properly served when action is begun. The justices' costs may be avoided, he said, by making payment to the county treasurer before action is begun.

Attorney Bell said he will seek to revise the system of parceling cases to the justices, and plans to arrange regular hearing days for tax cases, with an assistant state's attorney present at the proceedings.

He is also considering the fixing of a minimum amount on which suit will be brought. In the city no action is begun on a bill of less than $25. City actions are brought in the Municipal court.

TELL REASONS FOR HIGH AUTO THEFT RATE HERE

AUTO THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 67; recovered, 84; stripped, 21 [from police records for the twenty-four hour period ended at midnight Thursday].

Several reasons why automobile thefts are more prevalent in Chicago than in other large cities were cited yesterday in a report submitted to the executive board of the Greater Chicago traffic and safety commission at a meeting in the Traffic club quarters at the Palmer house. A number of remedies were advanced.

The report touched upon the high insurance rates for autos in Chicago, and taking a standard medium priced car, issued the following table of insurance rates per $100 of valuation since 1930:

	1930.	1931.	1932.
Chicago	$2.60	$2.50	$3.15
New York	2.25	2.40	2.90
Milwaukee	.65	.70	.95
St. Louis	1.25	1.35	1.15
Minneapolis	1.00	1.10	1.10

Among the chief reasons for the prevalence of auto thefts here, the report pointed out, are improper and unapproved locking of cars and no locking, carelessness of motorists in not locking cars, careless parking on streets for long periods of time, and connivance between thieves and "fences."

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Elliot C. Cowdin of Palm Beach and Far Rockaway, N. Y., world war aviator and well known sportsman, died today of pneumonia. His death occurred two hours after the arrival by airplane from New York of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cheever Cowdin, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan.

Judge McCarthy's Auto Stolen in Front of Home

The automobile of Municipal Court Judge Justin F. McCarthy was stolen from in front of his home, 130 North Long avenue, last night, where he had parked it after his day's work on the bench.

START ORGANIZATION OF GROUP TO SELL TAX WARRANTS TODAY

Organizing of a committee to sell $43,000,000 of city and board of education tax warrants to the public will start today, Charles A. Dewey, chairman, said last night. A pre-organization meeting was held yesterday in the office of Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures. The campaign will start some time next week, it is expected.

"I consider the warrants excellent investments," said Mr. Dewey. "Since the sales will be limited to 50 per cent of the tax levies, and we have had such splendid coöperation from the tax bodies in reducing the levies, I think they would be splendid investments for taxpayers."

Mayor Cermak said yesterday state legislation will be sought to make tax warrants more salable. He cited, for example, the Florida plan of giving taxpayers a reduction of 4 per cent in their tax bills if paid the first month due, and decreasing the bonus one per cent each month. Penalties beginning with one per cent and increasing that amount each month would be assessed after the fourth month.

DEFENDS ABSENT TREATMENTS AT TRIAL OF DOCTOR

The science of "atheronics" was defended yesterday in the trial of Dr. Dorr Eldred Wood, 17 North State street, who is charged by the medical committee of the state department of registration and education with practicing medicine under false pretenses.

Dr. H. C. Bennett, 67 years old, of Lima, O., was a witness in Dr. Wood's behalf. He uses machines similar to Dr. Wood's, he said.

"It is not necessary for patients to be present to treat them," testified Dr. Bennett. "Aetheronics is the science of emanations. I can get a specimen of a written word, for instance, insert it in the hopper of one of my machines, and my chart will register a number indicating whether the patient has anemia or gastric ulcer. The same aetheronics also tells me how much the patient can pay."

OFFICIAL GIVEN FINAL WORD ON CHARITY COAL

Chambers Is Empowered to Set Grade of Fuel.

Printed specifications under which the county board is asking for bids for charity coal contracts delegate final authority as to the quality of coal to the county supervisor of public service, Frank H. Chambers. The specifications say substitutions of quality may be made with Chambers' permission.

The specifications were prepared by Chambers at the request of the county board. They provide that the coal is to be "Illinois shaft mined coal," a restriction that virtually eliminates all mines except those in Franklin, Williamson, and Saline counties, according to mine operators. The specification for the British thermal unit content per pound, 12,800 by a dry count, restricts the bidding to the southern Illinois field.

Call for Price of $5.50.

If the bids, which are returnable next Tuesday, do not produce a price of at least $5.50 a ton for the charity coal under the specifications, it is understood that Indiana coal mine operators will protest against the letting of contracts on the ground that there has been collusion between the southern Illinois mine operators to fix the price.

At hearings held by the county board the various charges involved in the price of coal were discussed and the following figures were quoted as fair under contracts of the magnitude of those for the charity coal:

Per ton—	Southern Illinois.	Central Illinois.
Cost at mine	$1.65	$1.40
Freight rate	2.01	1.71
Yard handling and delivery	1.25	1.25
Bagging	.55	.55
Total cost	$5.46	$4.91

Plan Joint Committee.

At the weekly meeting of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday, which was attended by a committee of seven members of the county board, a recommendation was adopted by both groups that a joint committee of the two bodies be formed to pass upon all policies relating to relief administration before action is taken by the county board.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the relief commission, was authorized to appoint the commission's members of the joint committee and Commissioner Peter M. Kelly said he would ask President Whealan of the county board to appoint representatives of the board. The county board last week took over from the commission the final authority in the administration of relief in the county.

DAIRYMEN VOTE TO OPPOSE FARM ALLOTMENT BILL

National Group Acts at Meeting Here.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The domestic allotment plan of federal farm relief, being advanced in congress at Washington this week, met some determined opposition from representatives of organized dairy farmers of the nation meeting in Chicago yesterday.

Officers of twenty-three large coöperative marketing associations from New England to California are in session here, having been called together by Harry Hartke of Cincinnati, president of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation. The groups represent 250,000 dairy farmers who supply New York, Chicago, and other central markets with dairy products. Their two day session at the Hotel Sherman ends tonight.

Demand Changes in Bill.

Last night, at the end of an all day debate behind closed doors, the dairymen approved a resolution which points out the dangers of a federal attempt to aid wheat, cotton, hog, and tobacco farmers. Unless suitable protection is provided in the form of amendments to the farm relief bill, written by Congressman Melvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] and now being shoved in the house, there will be 2,500,000 dairy farmers clamoring for the bill's defeat, according to C. W. Holman, secretary of the federation, who made public the resolutions last night.

The dairymen maintain that the allotment legislation in its present form would merely impose a tax on cotton, wheat, tobacco, and hogs. They point out that the producers of these crops will get the tax back in the form of a bonus on their products only in case they are able to show in 1933 that they have reduced their 1932 production. Therefore, the dairymen say, the law would encourage these farmers to turn to dairying to utilize the acreage thus abandoned.

Near Export Basis.

Dairy products are already within 1 per cent of being on an exporting basis, the federation maintains. A slight increase in the production of butter, milk, or cream would render the present tariff protection worthless and only add dairy farmers to the list of producers that congress is trying to aid.

A list of amendments to the proposed farm allotment bill was drawn up by the dairymen, approved by the delegates and board of directors, and sent to Washington. These amendments seek to protect dairymen from the shift in production which, they say, the pending bill would create.

Congressman August H. Andreasen of Minnesota will introduce the amendments in the house today. It was said here last night. A number of telegrams stating the dairymen's attitude was sent to various congressmen last night.

The Pure Milk association, coöperative organization of the 16,800 dairy farmers selling milk and cream in Chicago and its suburbs, was represented at the meeting by W. C. McQueen of Elgin, its president.

Today's sessions will be devoted to consideration of what federal measures the dairymen may support to obtain relief from the present farm mortgage situation, to change the monetary system of the nation, and what their attitude will be toward a movement in Washington to abolish the federal farm board and repeal the farm marketing act.

Library Trustees Vote Tax Levy of $1,900,000

The board of trustees of the Chicago public library yesterday approved a tax levy of $1,900,000 for the maintenance and operation of the institution during 1933.

RADICAL BLOC IN HOUSE FOR SAME OLD FARM RELIEF

Rally Behind La Guardia for Democratic Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The same radical bloc in the house which defeated the sales tax during the last session under the leadership of Rep. F. H. La Guardia of New York rallied under the same leadership today to support the Democratic farm relief bill which has been frequently called a "super-sales tax."

The La Guardia group, consisting mostly of recalcitrant Republicans, were urged to support the measure by four of President Elect Roosevelt's recognized farm advisers at a meeting called by the radical New York representative today. Mr. La Guardia made their attitude evident when he declared that he, personally, would support the domestic allotment bill.

Britten Assails Plan.

Meanwhile, the great body of regular Republicans and a large number of Democrats were voicing opposition to the plan in its second day of debate on the floor. In a formal statement Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] called the proposal a "probolshevik gold brick for the farmer."

"The Roosevelt price fixing agricultural allotment plan is more probolshevik than any act of soviet Russia since Kerensky and Trotsky," said Mr. Britten. "It selects a class of preferred farmers for whom the government immediately becomes a collection agency at the expense of every other citizen. The bill makes effective at once the highest consumers' tax ever assessed by any government. It is a socialistic contrivance intended to provide more money for less hours of labor for a certain class of favored citizens. It is undoubtedly a violation of the constitution.

Sets Up Costly Agency.

"It will set up another costly governmental agency requiring thousands of employés in Washington as well as in the field. Our costly failure with the grain stabilization corporation should forever preclude this constantly recurring propaganda for fantastic regulation of production and price. It is as offensive to the Chicago industrialist as to the consumer."

Representative William L. Nelson [Dem., Mo.] of the agricultural committee urged his fellow Democrats "to put their country above party." This plan like all other artificial plans, he said, must fail.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The Blackstone hotel will close its doors tonight at midnight. Resident guests, many of whom have lived in the hotel for many years, will be forced to vacate today and a farewell party this evening will mark the fitting end of a Chicago institution, which, since its beginning, has been the "Ritz" of the middle west.

It is planned to reopen the hotel in the spring in time for visitors to the Century of Progress. Whether it will reopen as the "Blackstone" is not known.

Sale Ordered by Judge.

All personal property, including furnishings, good will and the historic name have been ordered sold by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Paul G. Evans, equity receiver, has until Jan. 12 to solicit bids for the personal property, to be sold under a chattel mortgage held by the Continental Illinois National bank.

Following the sale under the chattel mortgage foreclosure, Receiver Edwin L. Brashears, representing the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, holder of a $1,600,000 first mortgage on the real estate holdings, will institute a foreclosure sale. The defaulting of mortgage payments and the continued loss while being operated under an equity receivership precipitated the foreclosure action of the insurance company which forced the Blackstone to close its doors.

Founded by Drake Brothers.

The Blackstone was founded by men who had 55 years of Chicago hotel tradition behind them. John B. and Tracy Drake, its founders, had been junior partners of their father in the Grand Pacific hotel on Clark street which was to its own era, from 1873 to 1895, what the Blackstone became to the Chicago of the immediate past. They had grown up in the business.

The elder Drake arrived in Chicago in 1855 and became steward at the old Tremont house of famous memory. Five years later he was a partner. When the flames of 1871 were roaring across that early tavern, Drake got all the money and two pillowcases of silver from the safe and went over to Michigan avenue to the present site of the Congress hotel. For $1,000 cash he obtained an option on the Michigan Avenue hotel on the spot, with the fire already licking the buildings across the street.

Wind's in His Favor.

The proprietor accepted his money eagerly, laughing at him for his rashness. Drake assured him the wind would change before his new property succumbed, and within half an hour his prediction proved true and the fire had swept in the other direction. A few days late, he took over the hotel against the protest of its owner, who hoped to repudiate the deal, and operated the place for three years, going from there to the Grand Pacific.

Celebrities by the score patronized the Grand Pacific, from Prince Napoleon and his suite to Kalakaua, king of the Sandwich islands, and diverse lesser nobility of various foreign countries. The game dinners held annually provided the brightest chapters in the epicurean history of the period.

Five Presidents Its Guests.

So the Drake brothers, in conducting the Blackstone, were versed in the art of gracious living that proved a powerful magnet for the great of the world in the new hotel on lower Michigan avenue. Five Presidents of the United States—Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, and Hoover—enjoyed the Blackstone's kitchens and its cellars. Harding learned of his nomination while a guest at the hotel.

The duke of Connaught, brother of King Edward VII., reserved a suite soon after the opening in 1910, and royalty entertained since then runs into the scores. Queen Marie of Rumania was feted there, elaborately even for the Blackstone. So were the two Japanese princes, Chichibu and Takamatsu. Prince Wilhelm of Sweden was given a dinner at the hotel, and attended other functions during his visits, as did Crown Prince Paul of Greece.

Veterans on Hotel's Staff.

One of the finest hotel staffs ever assembled served Blackstone guests. Among the veterans who were on duty when it opened and will see it close are Frederick Mueller, steward at the old Grand Pacific; John Murphy and William Horner, bellboys; William Fryer, superintendent of service, and Crist Bauman, who was head bartender in the old days but has served 'em soft since prohibition arrived. G. B. Watson, assistant manager, has been twenty-one years on the job.

Seniority among the resident guests goes to Mrs. J. V. Clarke and her sister, Miss Louise English, H. S. Wilcox, and Charles Dickinson, who although in his seventies is a licensed and enthusiastic pilot of his own plane. All have been notified that they will have to move by today, as the building will be closed for renovation.

Giant Liner Bucks Storm on Atlantic—Two Days Late

WAVES 100 FEET HIGH BREAK ON LEVIATHAN; STOP ENGINES 10 HRS.

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The reported height of waves on the turbulent north Atlantic increase with the arrival of each new ship.

When the Bremen docked yesterday her master said the waves he observed reached a height of 82 feet.

When the Leviathan docked today Capt. A. B. Randall, the master, estimated the height of waves he had seen at 85 feet.

The staff captain, Schuyler F. Cummings, said while he was on watch they reached 20 feet above the bridge, or a total of 100 feet. Salt could be seen on the huge funnels deposited there by the sea spray.

For 10 hours the Leviathan's engines were stopped while the liner took the waves broadside. During that period she was driven 40 miles off her course.

CHINA ASKS U. S. AND BRITISH QUIZ OF JAP INVASION

Asks Envoys Be Sent to Front.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 7 [Saturday]—(AP)—The foreign office indicated today that in view of conflicting Chinese and Japanese claims concerning the Japanese occupation of Shanhaikwan, the national government has asked the American and British legations to send military observers there "in order to obtain the facts."

The national government also said that the British chargé d'affaires had directed the attention of both the Chinese and Japanese governments to the British interests [the Kailan mines] in Chinwangtao, the port city a few miles from Shanhaikwan. The British official requested that the two governments guard against any activities which might jeopardize the British interests.

Chinese Hero Offers Aid.

The poet general Tsai Ting-kai, who became the national hero of China a year ago when his 19th route army put up a dogged defense against the Japanese in the battle of Shanghai, appealed yesterday for a chance to lead his men against his old enemy in the Shanhaikwan area.

Gen. Tsai offered to take to the field as Chinese leaders and newspapers were bitterly criticizing Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, the military leader charged with guarding the northern frontier, on the ground that the latter had failed to meet the Shanhaikwan emergency.

Newspapers throughout China branded Chang as "an enemy within our own camp." Canton patriots adopted a resolution calling for "a court-martial and the extreme penalty for the loss of Shanhaikwan."

Hostilities Die Down.

From Hongkong the poet general telegruphed to the national government that "If Chang Hsueh-liang has no intention of resisting, I will take the 19th route army into north China." The 19th, which bore the brunt of the defense of Shanghai a year ago, now is encamped in Fukien province after a campaign against Chinese communists.

After a few days of quiet, hostilities were renewed yesterday morning on the battle line extending from a point a mile west of Shanhaikwan toward Chinwangtao. Apparently the action was of short duration. A subsequent dispatch from Peiping said the Japanese were consolidating their positions on the north shore of the Tanshih river, near Shanhaikwan.

SPAIN RULES AGAINST TAXES ON RINGING OF BELLS BY CHURCHES

SEVILLE, Spain, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The national finance committee reached the opinion tonight that the city council cannot levy taxes against the ringing of church bells.

Repercussions against this decision are expected because many municipalities already have put such levies into effect. For example, each church in Caceres would pay eight dollars a year and each chapel eighty cents for the privilege of ringing the bells.

More than a dozen of the larger cities and towns have declared a ban on church bells. These towns include such church centers as Salamanca, Avila, Segovia, and Vigo Palencia. Republican officials have insisted that the church bells are a public nuisance. Church authorities have termed the anti-bell campaigns "needless persecutions."

AUSTRALIAN GOLD RUSH TURNS INTO TRAGIC FIASCO

Thirsty, Hungry, Hundreds Start Trek Home.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 6.—Australia's gold rush has turned into a fiasco.

The bubble of doubt about gold discoveries at The Granites in central Australia has burst and hundreds of adventurers, suffering with dysentery, thirst, and hunger, are trekking back over the desert trails through wild native country to Alice Springs, terminus of the bi-monthly torturous railway journey to Adelaide and civilization.

Despite a determined belief of prospectors that gold ore in big quantities still exists about The Granites, there is a public outcry against the "gold rush" promoters, who are alleged to have made money at the expense of the public and of those who risked their lives to reach the gold fields.

Handful Still Digging.

Gold prospecting still continues about The Granites by a handful of adventurers still seeking "the end of the rainbow." Occasionally some gold ore is unearthed, but the assays are disappointing. The future of the gold rush to central Australia depends upon more promising discoveries. Meanwhile the belief that the gold in this area would pay off the national debt is shattered.

An expedition of geological experts, headed by Prof. C. T. Madigan of the University of Adelaide, and financed by the Sydney Sun and Melbourne Herald, has just returned to Adelaide after spending three weeks investigating the conditions and possibilities of The Granites' gold field.

Prof. Madigan classifies the fields as "a tragedy." "Nothing has been found of any value at all," he reported.

Investors are said to have lost more than £300,000 [$1,500,000, at par] in stock in various Granites' gold mining companies. When the Madigan expedition arrived on the field it found 120 men digging feverishly everywhere for signs of gold quartz. The place was devoid of drinking water except from one lone well that gave salt water. The heat was terrific and many newcomers were temporarily prostrated by weakness.

Sleep in Open.

The gold seekers carried their own tinned food 400 miles over waterless desert country from Alice Springs. They slept in the open or in tents, as there is no timber within 100 miles of the field. Very little alluvial gold was discovered and Prof. Madigan reports that in his investigations over the whole Granites field he found only one gold bearing vein of quartz which assayed a six hundred weights of gold in one small lode. Geological evidence is against any possibility of undiscovered gold at The Granites, Prof. Madigan states.

"The whole boom was a tragedy," he wrote, "and not the least pity of it is that the Northern Territory of Australia has received an undeserved setback, as far as prospecting is concerned, from which it may take years to recover."

And so, within the first two weeks of December, the trek of more than 100 men to civilization by caravan and horse pack and on foot started. Only two trains a month arrive at and leave Alice Springs, but the last train carried some of the sick, weary and dejected adventurers back home in box cars, as well as in the second class coaches behind the engine.

ALIMONY VEXES JUDGES; MAJOR COURT PROBLEM

Ex-Wives' Demands Go On Even in Depression.

Courtesy Is Stripped Away.

Emotions burst forth easily in these courts. Hatreds strip away the veneer of ordinary courtesy demanded by the law when two citizens enter the courts of the land to settle their differences. Soft spoken women grow shrill and kindly faced men are grim of countenance as incidents of domestic life are bared.

When the question of alimony is raised the scene becomes sordid, revealing the grosser aspects of the human species. The principals and their attorneys bicker furiously over petty financial details while a weary judge listens and wonders if greed is not, after all, the primary passion of mankind.

A Puzzling Development.

The most puzzling development in the last year or two in the alimony phase of the divorce problem has been, according to the presiding judges, the refusal of many women to assent to an economic adjustment of the alimony scale in accordance with the reductions enforced in living costs and wage levels. A certain variety of alimony seeker, the judges say, insist that the depression must not affect what can only be termed her business.

Similarly, the law recognizes no changes in living conditions. A wealthy man in 1929, ordered to pay large alimony, is still bound by that order, even if he has been reduced to comparative poverty. More and more the judges have become inclined to rely upon their own discretion in alloting support money for ex-wives.

The Illinois law on alimony is brief. It gives full discretion to the presiding judge to fix any amount he may see fit to order, both before and after the divorce decree. High court decisions have also upheld the power of the judge to sentence a husband to jail for an indefinite period when alimony is defaulted. The opinions of judges and lawyers concerning possible reforms of the law will be given in a later article.

The scene just related occurred one day this week in the court of Superior Judge Joseph Sabath, before whom thousands of applicants for divorce have paraded.

40 Petitions in Two Hours.

In the next two hours of that morning the judge heard more than 40 petitions for alimony. In nearly a dozen cases he refused to grant any alimony to wives who were shown to be supporting themselves and where no children were involved.

"Dusch versus Dusch," intoned the clerk and a group of men and women surged forward to the bench. This case involved the insistence of an ex-wife that she be paid alimony that was far in arrears. The principals concerned were immigrants and the judge spoke to them in their own language, Bohemian to the husband, Slovak to the former wife.

Simply, the man related the story of why he had not paid alimony for some months to his first wife.

"He says he was divorced seven years ago," commented the judge. "He is married again and has children. His second wife helped him keep up his alimony payments for a long time by scrubbing floors, but now they are almost destitute. Can I send a man like that to jail as demanded by his first wife? I think not. The petition is dismissed."

Another Case Is Heard.

A bespectacled man of intellectual cast, in the custody of a deputy sheriff, was summoned. His name was Frank L. Seider and as a sales manager three years ago he commanded a salary in excess of $10,000 a year, the judge was told. Divorced by his wife, he had been ordered to pay alimony of $50 a week for the support of herself and their children.

"He is now $4,000 in arrears in alimony," the wife's lawyer declared. "we had an attachment out for him for a year before we could find him. He ought to go to jail."

"What good would that do?" inquired the judge.

"He'll pay up, never fear, if he finds himself in a cell," declared the attorney.

Promised a Job, He Says.

"Your honor," said Seider, "I have been out of work, but I am assured a position in Detroit at a salary of $50 a week. If you let me take that job, I'll give half my salary, $25 a week, to her. But I can't make the money I used to make and I can't make up that $4,000 back alimony."

"Send him to jail," insisted the wife's lawyer.

"I don't think so," said the judge. "I'll have his story investigated and if he really has a position awaiting him in Detroit, he'll be free to take it."

Other cases were called. Alimony, or support money, as the judges prefer to term it, was granted where children were involved. The amounts granted varied according to the income of the man, the kind of job he held, the number of children, and other factors. The average alimony allotment was small, the minimum being $5 weekly and the maximum $30.

In Judge Finnegan's Court.

Two floors below, in the courtroom of Judge Philip Finnegan, who at present hears most of the divorces in the Circuit court—the other major division of Cook county's judicial system—the same scenes were being repeated.

Mrs. Pearl McFeely, a smartly garbed, good looking young woman, appeared against her husband, who is an electrical salesman. The testimony was that McFeely had a drawing account of $30 a week. Before the separation he gave his wife all of this and she permitted him an allowance. Her request, pending a divorce, was for $30 a week alimony.

"Judge, that drawing account is all I get," pleaded McFeely. "My commissions never run higher than that. I used to give it all to her, but last Nov. 19 she locked the door on me and I've got to live separately now."

"I locked the door on you when you got drunk," interrupted Mrs. Mcfeely with spirit.

Judge Asks an Offer.

"What will you give her voluntarily?" Judge Finnegan asked the husband. "You're in a position to know better than any one else what you can live on and what you can afford to pay her. I want to see how fair you are."

McFeely debated. "I'll give her $10 a week," he decided.

"Fine," applauded the judge. "I believe in your sincerity. That's plenty for her."

Not too one sided a picture must be drawn of the alimony scene, the judges warned. Many men, moved by malice toward their wives, attempt to conceal their proper income and even try to dodge paying for the proper support of their children, it was said. Some husbands prefer to go to jail rather than pay alimony when they are able to do so.

WOMAN BURIED AS "MARTYR" IN MINE UNION WAR

State Police Escort Cortege; Troops Guard Shaft

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Miners and their families to the number of 1,500 gathered in Oak Hill cemetery, on the outskirts of this town, this afternoon to bury Mrs. Emma Cumerlatto as a "martyr" to the cause of the striking Progressive Miners' union.

The crash of coal discharging from the tipple of Peabody mine No. 7 broke the silence in the village of Kincaid as the woman's casket was borne across the threshold of the three room shack where she was shot to death on Tuesday night in a battle between picketing Progressives and strike-breaking miners of the United Mine Workers.

500 Autos in Cortège.

Two army planes from Scott field at Belleville droned overhead. Three squads of state militia stood with fixed bayonets at the mine gate. Ten state police under Chief Walter Moody escorted the cortège of 500 cars on the winding roads across the hills to the cemetery here.

Except for the wailing of the woman's three daughters over the "murder" of their mother, there was no demonstration. Sheriff Charles Weineke, whose special deputies the strikers accuse of shooting Mrs. Cumerlatto, had withdrawn his order that the funeral be private and kept his deputies out of Kincaid for the day.

The grave was dug on a knoll beyond a grove of pines beside the grave of another of the Progressive "martyrs," Andrew Geynes, killed by a militiaman in a battle last October. Mrs. Agnes Burns Weicks of Belleville, president of the Progressive women's auxiliary, made a short address.

A quartet of miners' wives quavered a few verses of a song which likened the cause of the strikers to the cause of Christian charity. A minister pronounced a benediction and the funeral was over.

Release Murder Suspect.

State's Attorney John W. Coale, who has been holding more than a score of Progressives in the county jail for the murder of Mrs. Cumerlatto and of Vincent Rodems, special deputy killed in the Kincaid battle, released five of his prisoners today in bonds of $1,000 each.

Among those liberated were a 17 year girl, Olga Delle Molle; her mother, Cardeline Delle Molle, and two other housewives. R. W. Johnston, Taylorville corporation counsel and attorney for the Progressives, said the girl, a Kincaid high school student, was studying her home work when special deputies seized her and her mother for the murders.

Also released were August Corso, striking miner, and his wife, Mary, whose home was bombed and wrecked by a bomb, allegedly planted by special deputies following the Kincaid battle.

BOMB DAMAGES HOUSE IN WHICH MINERS RESIDE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A bomb exploded tonight and damaged a boarding and rooming house here where three men, members of the United Mine Workers' union, live. No one was injured. Police attributed the blast to the coal miners' war.

The place was operated by Mrs. Edna Manus. The front part of the building was damaged, windows were shattered, and a piece of the metal lodged in weatherboarding of the building. Police said the bomb had been constructed of gas pipe filled with explosive.

The three miners living there were employed by the Capitol mine on the outskirts of Springfield. The mine is owned by the Peabody Coal company, operators of the Christian county mines where an uprising among union factions has been taking place this week.

FIVE OFFICIALS OF STONE CO. GET 20 YEAR TERMS

Mail Fraud Brings Record Penalties.

the judge for swift removal to prison would be carried out.

At 4:30 p. m. deputy marshals began clearing the eighth floor of all casual onlookers. Deputy Marshal Steve Cusack even called for two taxicabs to be used in carrying the former financial leaders to the station. The train was to leave at 6:15.

It was not until 4:45 that the defense attorneys were ready with their petition for supersedeas and presented it to Judge Woodward in chambers. The judge continued the hearing on the motion to 9 a. m. today and at 5:30 p. m. the order to transport the five men to the jail was given.

Many Investors in Court.

The courtroom was crowded in the morning when the prisoners were called for sentence. Most of the spectators, according to court attachés, were investors who had lost in the $14,000,000 collapse of the Stone firm.

Judge Woodward first ruled on the motion of the defendants for a new trial. He read a statement holding that the evidence amply upheld the government charge that the officials, foreseeing failure, induced investors to buy worthless securities. He then added that no error serious enough to justify a new trial had been shown.

Next Judge Woodward ordered the convicted men to the bench.

In Accord with Jury Verdict.

"The duty now incumbent on the court is net a pleasant one," he said. "The imposition of sentence of imprisonment is the most painful judicial duty. The question of your guilt or innocence is foreclosed, so far as I am concerned, by the verdict of the jury. With that verdict I am in full accord."

Judge Woodward remarked that he had endeavored to see that the defendants had a fair and impartial trial. He pointed out that he had expressed no opinion on the evidence to the jury.

"A fair and impartial jury has pronounced you guilty," the judge continued. "The court has reviewed the record of your conviction and can find no prejudicial error in the record. The jury has found that you, by the use of the mails, perpetrated a gigantic fraud, entailing untold loss and suffering on thousands of innocent victims throughout the United States.

"You are men of affairs, of experience, of refinement and culture, of excellent reputation and standing in the business and social world.

"The court feels that it would be derelict in its duty if it imposed only a nominal sentence for such a flagrant infraction of the law as the evidence disclosed in this case. The sentences, therefore, must be substantial. The sentence imposed must be such as to make the law respected and to safeguard the mails against schemes to defraud the innocent public."

Six deputy marshals stepped close behind the defendants as the judge prepared to pass sentence on the 33 counts on which they had been found guilty. The deputies had been assigned to the courtroom on the report that one or more of the defendants had said that he would prefer suicide to prison.

Tension of Five Relaxes.

Judge Woodward first passed sentence on Norcott, Carroll, Bennett, Packer, and Needham. The tension of the five defendants relaxed somewhat as the judge ruled that the punishment of five years' imprisonment on the second and third counts should run concurrently with the first.

Norcott, a heavy set man, stood in the center of the group, his thumbs hooked in the armpits of hi vest. He gasped audibly as Judge Woodward ruled that the fourth count should be served consecutively at the end of the first five years' imprisonment.

"What is this?" Norcott muttered as the judge continued.

His remark was the only show of emotion as the punishment for each of the five mounted to 20 years' imprisonment by the imposition of consecutive sentences. As the reading of the judgment was completed the defendants stood silent in front of the bench, apparently shocked by the severity of the penalties imposed.

Assistant United States District Attorneys Thomas Dodd Healy and Mr. Struett, who prosecuted the case, said that the cost of prosecution would approximate $57,000. This can be collected from one or all of the defendants, the law giving the government right to take the amount from any defendant capable of paying.

Call 130 Witnesses.

The sentences yesterday ended the trial that was started on Sept. 20. More than 130 government witnesses were called during the long hearing, most of them to testify that they had been defrauded in the purchase of Stone common stock.

The case grew out of the 14 million dollar failure of the Stone company in 1930. The government case was based on the charge that the Stone company, in a precarious financial condition, used the mails to peddle worthless securities.

H. O. Stone & Co., before it was acquired by the Norcott interests, had a long and reputable career as an investment house. The founder, H. O. Stone, began business in Chicago in 1835. The old name was retained and the Norcott interests boasted it had been in business since 1835. A majority of the investors, it was said, never knew the management had been changed.

Prosecutor Struett, in opening the trial, charged that the company failure was the result of a program of reckless expansion sponsored by Norcott, who had been president since 1919.

Chief among the government charges, later supported by the testimony of witnesses, were the following: That the company at the time of the issuance and sale of its various securities was virtually bankrupt; that the company, contrary to the terms of its various trust deeds, had pledged all of its assets to banks or others for loans; and that from Jan. 1, 1928, the company declared dividends when the earnings did not justify them.

The defense argued that the officials were innocent victims of the depression and had no criminal intent. Nine officials of the company went on trial in the case, but two were found not guilty by the jury. They are Francis E. Richardson, vice president of the Stone Securities company, a subsidiary, and Claude C. Niles, a vice president of the H. O. Stone company.

IRISH WORRIED BY POOR HEALTH OF DE VALERA

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The health of President de Valera is causing his followers grave concern. It was noticed that when he spoke at a great rally here last night he wore two overcoats and read his speech, a most unusual practice for the dynamic president.

It was said that the strain under which De Valera has been working for the last few months undoubtedly had weakened his resistance, and the trying period that lies in the election campaign just ahead is causing his friends to bring pressure upon him to take care of himself.

Cosgrave Opens Drive Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—Former President William T. Cosgrave will start a nation-wide campaign tour tomorrow for the Jan. 24 election.

Commenting on President de Valera's opening speech last night, in which De Valera charged that Great Britain is exerting pressure in behalf of Cosgrave, the latter said today that the speech was "barren of ideas, with defeat written all over it." Cosgrave declared the dispute with Great Britain over land annuities which De Valera refuses to pay could not be settled by De Valera owing to his hostile attitude.

Cosgrave explained that he is out for peace at home and with Britain and restoration of trade agreements to place the farmers in a position of equality with those in other dominions. He also said he favors a reduction of taxation, which would afford industry an opportunity to survive.

DEMANDS STATE BUILD ASYLUMS FOR BOY MORONS

Judge Allen Would Curb "Iggy" Types.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Joseph Janecki and Earl Ludford, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; John Hodak, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Judge Olney C. Allen, county judge of Kane county, who perhaps is called on to handle more Illinois juvenile cases than any judge except Judge Mary Bartelme of the Cook county Juvenile court, yesterday advocated, as a means of handling juvenile delinquents, the construction of institutions somewhat similar to those maintained by the state at the Chester institutions for adult insane criminals and those of normal mentality.

Judge Allen pointed out that the state maintains both a penitentiary and an asylum for the criminal insane in the southern part of the state. A twin institution of this type would care for juvenile delinquents of the type of James [Iggy] Varecha and Sigmond Bukovitz, both 17 years old, and both robber-rapists, as well as for those classed as mental defectives, the judge said.

Lacks Cells for Criminals.

The Dixon State hospital, an institution intended for noncriminal feebleminded, which has no provision for incarcerating those inclined to run away, is no place to send juveniles of the Varecha and Bukovitz type, Judge Allen pointed out. Both youths were sent to this institution by Judge Bartelme and later walked away.

"Judges of the juvenile courts simply cannot coddle this type of juveniles," said Judge Allen. "The judges must look not only to the welfare of the juveniles, but also to the welfare of society. The Varechas and Bukovitzes should not be sent to institutions from which they can walk away at will."

Judge Allen, who is also chairman of the advisory council for the St. Charles State school for boys, an institution from which juveniles in the past have escaped and robbed and raped Kane county citizens, is guided in his handling of the juvenile cases by an alienist.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, has complained that Judge Bartelme and her juvenile court forces insist on handling such cases in the juvenile court instead of transferring them to the Criminal court.

Catch New Court "Graduate."

Dennis Scanlon, 17 years old, another "graduate" of the Juvenile court system, who escaped Dec. 29 from the St. Charles school, and promptly started to steal automobiles, was held to the grand jury yesterday on two charges of auto theft. Judge O'Connell fixed him bonds at $5,000. Police said they would try to have the boy tried in the Criminal court. Scanlon, who lives at 2548 Wilcox street, and is an alleged member of the "42" gang, was captured Tuesday riding in a stolen car, five days after his escape. He had been sent to St. Charles for stealing autos.

Bukovitz, who has been identified by Mrs. Helen Holzfein, 1334 North Shore avenue, as the youth who robbed and attacked her on the night of Dec. 13, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $20,000 on charges of robbery and assault to rob. Because Mrs. Holzfein is ill she did not appear before Judge Walter W. Ross in the Evanston Municipal court, but will present her evidence to the grand jury later. Bukovitz was held on charges made by two other Evanston women.

ILLINOIS PILOTS MAY PHONE FOR WEATHER DATA

Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the Illinois aeronautics commission, announced yesterday that a new twenty-four hour weather information service has been made available to Illinois pilots through coöperation of the United States weather bureau with the commission. Pilots planning flights may call the weather bureau stations at Chicago, Moline, Evansville, Ind., or St. Louis, Mo., collect, from any point in the state at any time to secure weather information, he said.

The telephones at those points are listed under the name of the commission. The numbers are Chicago, Prospect 4670; Moline, Moline 420; Evansville, Evansville 2-4986, and St. Louis, Avery 570. Long distance calls will be accepted, when they are made to the nearest weather bureau station.

The cost of this service is not expected to be large, Maj. Landis said, and it will be borne by the commission. He declared it is more than justified from a public safety standpoint.

VON HINDENBURG 'PLOTS' TO BRING BACK VON PAPEN

Present Rule Does Not Suit President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 6.—For the first time in his career, President Paul von Hindenburg is mixing into politics. Heretofore he remained aloof and above political parties. Now, in his eagerness to have his close friend, Franz von Papen, return as chancellor, Von Hindenburg is playing politics, as the inside story of yesterday's secret conference at Cologne between Von Papen and Adolf Hitler reveals.

Both Von Papen and Hitler—arch enemies a few weeks ago—today issued a joint communique declaring their meeting was not directed against the present cabinet, but "dealt only with the possibility of forming a big national front, uniting all national elements." The truth of the matter is that Von Hindenburg told Von Papen that if he can induce Hitler to cooperate with him the post of chancellor is his.

Not Satisfied with Régime.

Von Hindenburg is not satified with the present régime. He contends that the chancellorship takes too much of Kurt von Schleicher's time and that he cannot do full justice to his duties as minister of defense. He wants the minister of defense to devote full time to the army. In every speech Von Hindenburg has delivered since Von Papen resigned the president has referred to Von Papen with warmth and enthusiasm, which is striking in a man heretofore noted for his cool reserve. It is asserted that when Von Papen quit the chancellorship Von Hindenburg gave him his photograph with the inscription, "I had a comrade—a better one you will never find." This is the beginning of the most sentimental of German army songs.

The conference between Hitler and Von Papen might have seemed ludicrous to the casual onlooker, since both want to be chancellor and tried to talk the other into accepting some other post.

Von Papen attempted to convince Hitler that he should be satisfied with the post of premier of Prussia. Von Papen, who is very closely associated with the Steel Helmet Veterans' association, assured Hitler that the Steel Helmets are ready to coöperate with him if he accepts a compromise on this basis, which would give Von Papen and Hitler a combined majority in the reichstag.

Schleicher Has Difficulties.

Meanwhile, Von Papen's supporters are heaping difficulties in the way of Chancellor von Schleicher. After Germany burned her fingers financially by investing the fortunes she borrowed abroad in expensive public buildings, the Reichsbank announced that it is ready to approve an expenditure of $7,000,000 for a new bank building as part of the national scheme to secure work for the idle. This extravagance is regarded by economists as all the more preposterous inasmuch as several buildings of former banks are empty and waiting for tenants in the vicinity of the Reichsbank. The "productive" value of this investment is being ridiculed by almost all experts except Reichsbank officials.

BLAMES HOBOES FOR $5,000 FIRE.

Fire, believed to have been started by hoboes, yesterday caused damage estimated at $5,000 in a warehouse of the Ferguson and Lange foundries, 1039 Willow street.

FREE HALLORAN; NEW CHARGE TO BE LODGED SOON

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Freed from an indictment charging him with being an accessory to the crime of murder, J. J. [Happy Jack] Halloran tonight awaited the filing of a new charge against him in connection with Winnie Ruth Judd's trunk slayings of her two best friends.

The indictment, returned a week ago by the county grand jury, was dismissed today by Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman, who upheld a defense demurrer with the declaration the indictment "does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action."

At the same time Judge Speakman ordered County Attorney Renz L. Jennings, since the grand jury had adjourned, to file an information properly charging the same crime.

The court gave the county attorney until tomorrow afternoon to answer a defense affidavit charging bias and prejudice on the part of the grand jurors who returned the indictment against Halloran.

Judge Speakman commented in court he was so firmly convinced the indictment was faulty in its wording that "to try the case would only be to assure reversal by the Supreme court if conviction resulted."

Bandit Robs Two Women in Holdup of Frock Shop

An armed man entered the frock shop at 3240 Lincoln avenue last evening. He threatened Mrs. Tessie Rodin, 4701 North St. Louis avenue, the manager, and made her give up her ring, valued at $50, and also $525 of the shop's receipts. He also got a $500 ring from Jean Gordon, 4947 North Lawndale avenue, a clerk.

FLYER SAVED BY A PARACHUTE AT MIAMI AIR MEET

Marine Leaps to Safety at 200 Feet.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Lieut. Glenn M. Britt, member of the Marine corps squadron from Quantico, Va., this afternoon escaped death when he leaped in a parachute from his plane but 200 feet above the field. He was flying at the All-American air races here when his plane became disabled.

Saved by Parachute.

Although he was too close to the ground to expect his parachute to open in time to save him from death or injury, he chose to take a chance rather than fall to almost certain death in his plane. The parachute opened to check his fall but a few feet from the ground, and Britt was uninjured, though his falling speed had not been completely overcome. A torn shirt was the only evidence of his mishap.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

PLANS TO RAISE U. S. TAXES STIR PROTESTS HERE

Democrats Told Move Will Delay Recovery.

Proposals of Democratic leaders to balance the federal budget through the broadening of the income tax rate and the imposition of new taxes caused protests in Chicago yesterday.

Leaders in the campaign to reduce taxation through the slashing of governmental expenditures warned that taxpayers can stand no additional burden, and they insisted that if the tax load is not lightened the return of prosperity will be indefinitely postponed.

Protests from Three Sources.

Yesterday's attacks came from three sources:

1. George W. Rossetter, chairman of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, sent telegrams to the forty-eight general state chairmen of the organization requesting that they take immediate steps to get their members to communicate with representatives in congress demanding relief at once. These telegrams also were sent to leading newspapers of the country.

2. Thomas F. Hammond, newly elected president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, denounced the Democratic proposals and warned that failure to reduce the cost of government will destroy public confidence, which will mean that the depression will continue.

3. C. G. Ferris, executive secretary of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, denounced the tax proposals as "most destructive," and insisted it was up to the Democrats to make good on their preelection promises to balance the budget through reduction of expenditures.

Congress Doing Little.

The telegrams sent out by Mr. Rossetter stated:

"It is increasingly apparent that the present congress, despite the nation-wide demand for reduction in governmental expenditures, will accomplish little to meet the existing emergency. With less than 60 days remaining there is nothing in sight to give promise of substantial economy for the fiscal year 1934, and instead of a reduction of at least 750 million dollars, to which a large number of members of both houses are committed, total appropriations approximating 4 billions of dollars again seem inevitable unless a decisive change of heart is immediately apparent.

"On the contrary, late advices indicate a further increase in taxation will be sought as a remedy for a situation that can only be cured by cutting costs. In the meanwhile current expenditures are running twice as high as the current income, and the deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30 next already exceeds 1 billion 100 million dollars.

"It is imperative that citizens in every community communicate at once with their representatives in congress, demanding specific action before March 3 as their contribution toward the restoration of confidence and business improvement."

Taxes Blocking Recovery.

Mr. Hammond stated:

"The proposal to balance the federal budget by boosting income taxes instead of by instituting much needed economies in governmental expenditures will be a grievous disappointment to the long suffering taxpayers. Federal taxes already have reached the point of diminishing returns, and the effort to raise the income tax rate still further is likely to dry up a feebly trickling fountain.

"Income tax payments for the six months ending Dec. 31 show a loss of 372 million dollars as compared with the preceding year, which has only been partially offset by new excise and stamp taxes.

"The chief cause of the continuation of the depression is the tremendous burden of federal, state, and local taxes. These taxes largely prevent the recovery of all industry, including manufacturing, transportation, agriculture, and public utilities. There can be no recovery in business until public confidence is restored, and increasing federal taxes certainly will not have the effect of restoring confidence.

"The Illinois Manufacturers' association is on record as recommending a decrease in federal expenditures of one billion dollars annually, and this could be accomplished without seriously impairing the efficiency of governmental operations."

Crisis Calls for Courage.

Mr. Ferris asserted that the cost of government can and must be cut.

"The Democrats must make good on their pre-election promises," he continued. "The people will not stand for the tax burden much longer and they will find a way to end it. I am in Washington frequently and I can see many ways in which the cost of government could be cut. All it requires is a man of courage to make the necessary slashes. We are fast getting to be a country of political officeholders.

"We all demand now that the budget be reduced through reduced expenditures and not through the imposition of new taxes or increasing the income tax rates."

"COUNT BUELOW" CONFESSES PART IN MONEY PLOT

Hans Dechow, alias Count Enrique Von Buelow, is expected to arrive in Chicago today for trial in federal court on the charge of passing approximately $75,000 in counterfeit $100 bills. Dispatches from New York last night stated that Dechow had made a complete statement in which he admitted possession of the money and named the man who gave it to him.

Dechow insisted he did not know the money was counterfeit but thought the actual owners were afraid to pass it for fear it would be traced. Federal officials in New York said Dechow had agreed not to fight removal.

Also under arrest in New York is Dr. Valentine G. Burtan. He was indicted with Dechow as a partner in the counterfeit ring. He has not been arraigned in commissioner's court for removal to Chicago. According to Dechow's statement he and Burtan were to get 50 per cent of the money received and the actual passers to get 30 per cent. Where the rest of the money was to go was not revealed.

DEMOCRATS NOW COLD ON BOOST IN INCOME TAX

Deny Roosevelt Framed Program.

million dollars and reductions in appropriations to save at least a hundred million dollars. I want to wait until after March 35 to see how much the 1932 tax rates produce.

"I also want to see how much can be saved by President Elect Roosevelt through curtailing and abolishing bureaus and commissions. I think we may also find that the beer bill through spurring industry will boost other taxes by another 100 million dollars. At this time while the farmers are striking is not a propitious time to talk about boosting the tax load."

Speaker Garner said the house would not meet to consider the proposal to broaden the income tax base for at least two weeks. He said the income tax plan certainly would be held in abeyance until after the beer bill had been forwarded to the White House and acted upon by the President. He said that the conference was not committed to action on the income tax proposal and added that he had a new tax plan of his own.

The four points mentioned by the majority leader were the four included in the budget balancing plan worked out in New York last night. If all features except the income tax part were put through at once, Democratic leaders estimated the budget would be left one or two hundred million dollars out of balance.

They figured the budget as 492 million dollars out of balance as presented to congress by Mr. Hoover. The beer and gasoline bills would raise 262 millions. Another hundred million was to be saved through cutting appropriations, leaving the budget about 130 millions out of balance.

This procedure included no cuts in veterans' costs. Should the billion dollar veterans' bill be cut 10 per cent, that alone should bring the Hoover budget close to a balance.

Defaulted War Debts Ignored.

The Democrats, however, did not consider that the receipts under the Hoover budget include 329 millions of war debt payments which are unlikely to be collected in full. To the extent these debts go uncollected the budget will be further thrown out of balance. The law provides for a 530 million dollar reduction in the public debt, and this also would go unprovided for.

The much disputed proposal for raising the income tax calls for an increase in the normal tax rate on incomes and a lowering of exemptions for married persons. The tax rates would be increased from 4 to 8 per cent as at present, to 6 and 12 per cent. The exemption for married persons would be reduced from $2,500 to $2,000.

Proposal Creates Storm.

The proposal created a storm as soon as announced. Administration officials close to the President stated that the country would not stand for such a tax. Republican leaders in both houses asserted they would oppose the increases suggested. Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] asserted the tax indicated the Democrats did not have the courage to make good the Roosevelt pledge to cut government costs a billion dollars.

The Democratic proposal would increase the federal income tax on net incomes ranging from $3,000 to $10,000 from 9 to 1½ times, with the heaviest increase falling on the lowest bracket. A married person with one dependent and a net income of $3,000 would pay $36 of income tax to the federal government under the new plan compared with $4 under the revenue act of 1932.

$1,350,000 BONDS SET FOR GANG IN NEW YEAR'S RAID

Bonds totaling $1,350,000 were set for six members of a bandit gang yesterday when they were held to the grand jury by Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell on 135 charges of robbery. The prisoners, arrested after they invaded a New Year's eve party in the home of Carl Heim, 2621 Morse avenue, and the addresses which they gave police are John Reynolds, 40 years old, 3842 Sheffield avenue; Delair McGonnaughey, 19 years old, 3410 Parker avenue; Roy Wallace, 23 years old, 5552 Fullerton avenue; Richard Dittman, 20 years old, 911 Dakin street; Carl Nelson, 20 years old, 1463 Farragut avenue, and George Gabriel, 20 years old, 911 Dakin street.

Body of Woman Found in Prairie Is Identified

The body of a woman, found Thursday in a prairie at 93th street and Manistee avenue, was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Gladys Daniels, 29 years old, 1920 North Clark street. She is believed to have committed suicide with poison. Her father, John Malinowsky, 4211 North Paulina street, said that she had been grieving since the death of her husband, Robert Daniels, while he was serving a two year term in the Leavenworth federal penitentiary for violation of the narcotics laws.

GRAVE TASKS CONFRONT U. S. AS 1933 OPENS

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
ARTICLE NO. 4.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—So long as Uncle Sam, with his unbalanced budget, continues to teeter on the edge of insolvency, there can be no substantial recovery from the depression; in fact no material turn for the better at all, in the opinion of economists.

So long as this condition obtains the banks, industry and business in general will continue to mark time, fearful that inflation of the currency is in the offing, an inflation that might plunge the country into a worse panic than that of 1931-'32, if not a disaster comparable to that which overtook Germany and Russia on the inflation high road.

Such apprehensions are not being allayed by the attitude of congress. The national legislators have no stomach for a drastic curtailment of the federal bureaucracy, activities, and expenditures as a means of bringing outgo within income. With some cheese paring here and there, they are proceeding on the assumption that the vast federal machine is to be retained virtually intact and that the deficit will be met by new taxes, despite the evidence that tax boosting is driving capital farther into hiding and thereby postponing resumption of business activity.

No less disquieting to the financiers is the increasing agitation in congress for inflation of the currency as a means of raising prices of commodities, a dozen or more schemes of this sort having been sponsored by various senators and representatives. While a moderate inflation might do no real harm, the fear is that with the government once embarked on that road, there will be no stopping short of a complete smashup.

The fact is that the credit of the government is none too good right now, in the opinion of the government economists themselves. It is pointed out in support of such contention that the treasury could not float a long term bond issue today, except at a rate of interest so high that the effect would be the depression of the market value of other government bonds and even bonds of private enterprise. Insurance companies and other investors in bonds would be seriously affected by such a development and the net result would be an aggravation of the depression.

Yet, sooner or later, the treasury will be compelled to convert a large part of the floating debt, now about six billions of dollars, into long term bond issues. What, with the replacement of $2,930,000,000 of securities maturing this year and the borrowing of from 1 to 3 billions in new money to make up the difference between government operating expenses and revenue, the treasury faces financing operations of between four and six billions.

In addition there are the six billions of the Fourth Liberty loan bonds maturing in 1938 which become callable this year. They must be refunded eventually and the question will be whether they can be converted into an issue bearing an interest rate lower than the 4¼ per cent they are now carrying.

Much of the anxiety regarding the present financial condition of the government is due to the fact that the continued borrowing by the treasury to meet deficits tends to upset the money market and to depress the value of all securities, including governments.

If such borrowing continues over a long period the definite impairment of the credit of the government is the observed result. Public confidence in the credit of the government becomes shaken. People refuse to invest their savings in government bonds and the banks refuse to finance the government further. If the banks were now to begin selling their large accumulations of government bonds, the prices of securities would hit the toboggan. Some banks are already declaring they can absorb no more governments.

If the banks generally were to refuse to finance the government the treasury would get the money from the reserve banks which create it and that would be inflation. The next step would be the printing of paper money by the government to meet government expenses and that would be inflation of the sort that wrought disaster in Germany and Russia.

War Department Asked to Extend Sioux City Sewers

Sioux City, Ia., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Revetment work done by the war department along the Sioux City water front of the Missouri river, its start in making this section of the river navigable, has extended the shore line from 200 to 600 feet from the original bank of the river. This makes absolutely necessary the extension at an early date of more than a score of storm water and sanitary sewers which empty into the river, Mayor W. D. Dayes has called the matter to the attention of Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown in Washington with the request that the war department take care of it.

HIGH INCOME TAX PLAN NOT MINE, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Disclaims Scheme After Storm of Protest.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Storms of protest raging over the heads of the Democratic congressional leaders who last night, after their conference here with President Elect Roosevelt, agreed to boosting income taxes to all-time high levels, today was causing some of the leaders to hedge on this detail of their plan for balancing the federal budget.

Mr. Roosevelt, who had made it plain last night that the plan proposed was not his program, that whatever is done is the responsibility of the present congress, heard the reports of reneging with complacency.

His position, it was learned, is that the congressmen "will have to iron it out among themselves," and he pointed out to intimates that this "lame duck" congress was not "my congress."

Hits Small Salaries.

The proposed tax increases will bear most heavily upon small salaries, particularly married men with incomes between $2,000 and $5,000, it was pointed out, and the protests voiced today held such a program came with ill grace from a party which had pledged fealty to the "forgotten man."

However, reports today had it that behind the program as announced last night by Speaker John N. Garner and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, the Democratic senate leader, is a web of political intrigue reaching into several by-ways.

Reports had it that the Democrats were satisfied President Hoover would veto the beer bill, first part of the program to be put up for passage, and that then the Democrats could shrug their shoulders, blame President Hoover for the failure to balance the budget, and then abandon the rest of the program, particularly the income tax increases.

The Democrats are said to believe that under such a situation they could stave off the balancing of the budget until after Mr. Roosevelt becomes President on March 4, when at a special session he could assert his leadership and inaugurate his program for drastic economies and for beer.

Byrnes Offered Program.

But the President elect, it was reported today, would much prefer that the program agreed upon last night should go through in toto, and in this light the latest reports of what transpired in the study of his mansion last night, when eleven outstanding leaders were gathered around him, gained additional significance.

According to these reports, Mr. Roosevelt opened the discussion by asserting that the Democrats must assume leadership in the balancing of the budget at this session. From this premise the conversation went on as to how this could be done.

Then, it is reported, Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina "sprang" the plan which was agreed upon. The inference now has gone abroad that the plan really was a Roosevelt plan, but that he preferred to have it originate from the congressmen.

Garner Has New Scheme.

Speaker Garner and Senator Robinson were delegated to "announce" the plan to the newspaper men, and both these men exhibited some lack of enthusiasm for their task. Today dispatches from Washington already are quoting Mr. Garner as disavowing the program and as declaring he had another plan which might be "less painful" to the taxpayers.

The President elect left tonight to spend the week-end at his home at Hyde Park on the Hudson. He said he expected to see only one visitor of consequence, Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

4 MOS.' MILITARY TRAINING URGED FOR THE IDLE

Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the Great Lakes naval training station, yesterday recommended that the navy and army offer a four-month period of enlistment and training to young men unable to find employment.

His superior officers have approved the proposal so far as it concerns the navy, Rear Admiral Cluverius said, but approval by congress is necessary before it can be put into effect. He estimated that the naval training stations at Great Lakes, San Diego, Hampton Roads and Newport could offer training to 12,000 such recruits at a time, and that army training posts have facilities for 88,000 more.

The cost to the government, he estimates, would be about $300 per man, which includes only clothing, subsistence and a small amount of pay. The present training personnel would be sufficient to instruct the men. Most sailors are reënlisting when their terms expire for fear of unemployment in civil life, leaving little need for recruits. Great Lakes' quota of enlistment for January is only 85, and its territory includes ten central states. The navy now has to refuse 98 per cent of the men who offer themselves for enlistment.

Igoe Visits in Washington; Denies Political Ambition

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Michael L. Igoe, former Democratic minority leader in the Illinois house of representatives, made a friendly round of calls at the capitol today and as he left, observed. "I'm not seeking any appointment. I'm going back to Chicago to practice law, as always." Igoe has been mentioned for possible appointment as federal district attorney at Chicago or chairman of the state tax commission.

BOOKS

J. G. Cozzens Scores Again in 'Last Adam'

Young Author Has Six Books to His Credit.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Last Adam," by James Gould Cozzens. [Harcourt-Brace.] Published Jan. 5.

JAMES GOULD COZZENS is really one of that mythical group "the younger generation" of writers H. G. Wells was talking to me one time in London about the matter of the "young writers." He said that for years after he and Arnold Bennett and John Galsworthy had ceased to be aggressively young in years they were always referred to as the younger English novelists. As a matter of fact none of them except Wells had published before he was thirty. Arnold Bennett and John Galsworthy published their first books at the age of thirty-one. And recognition in any real sense did not come to any of them until their late thirties. Until they were fifty, at least, they were universally labeled "the younger English novelists" and it is only within the last few years that they have ceased being phenomena and become monuments.

JAMES COZZENS.

And speaking of monuments, the other day two terrifying things happened to me. Some one got up and gave me a seat in the bus and that night at theater at least three people were conspicuously kind to me.

Suddenly the gagging thought came to me that perhaps my youth was slipping, had slipped, without my noticing it, that I was reaching the days and a position among my fellow men when I was ceasing to be a human being and becoming, however minor a one, a monument.

I was no longer Fanny Butcher with brown eyes and an aversion to hurting any one or anything unnecessarily (because, as Sadie Thompson in "Rain" said, "sometimes I feel sorry for everybody in the world"), but something "set" in a mold, with a pen poised to trample like Phil Sheridan's horse's hoof on the corner of my street. And I had a stab of poignant sadness about it. I don't want EVER to jell.

All of which was induced by my memory of Mr. Wells' discussion of the perpetuity of youthfulness in literary reputations long past its justification. The author of the book I am reviewing today, however, is actually and literally one of the "younger generation" of literary artists. He is not yet 30 years of age. He has published four books, each one of which won critical praise, before he won in 1931 the Scribners magazine $5,000 contest for the best short novel with "S. S. San Pedro," which was published in book form later and chosen by the Book of the Month club for its subscribers, as "The Last Adam" has been chosen for this month.

Before the age at which Mr. Bennett or Mr. Galsworthy had published a line and about the same relative time that Mr. Wells had seen his name for the first time on the cover of a book, James Gould Cozzens had published six books, with two of them crowned by popularity.

Mr. Cozzens as a novelist, however, shows no signs of youthfulness in his work. He does not, as is liable to be the wont of youth, delve into tragedy and horror and the gropings of the soul for self-expression merely for the joy of delving. He has, if any point of view has any age, the attitude of a seasoned human being who accepts life as an intolerable existence which only intelligence can make tolerable. He is neither skittish [as the ages are apt to be] nor ultra-solemn [as superlative youth often is].

In this story of a small town in Connecticut, he very cleverly makes the focal character the town doctor in whose hands lies the town's physical health and, in a Voltairean fashion, its mental sanity. Dr. Bull—or "George" as he is more often called is a hard-fisted, hard-swearing, hard-loving, swashbuckler who has no illusions about the efficacy of medicine, oaths or love, who manages to be the most vital human being in the community. "Something unkillable about him. Something here when the first men walked erect; here now. The last man would twitch with it when the earth expired," one character says of him. He had the elan vital and, although the author does not seem to be writing the story of George Bull, the story of the village is the story of his life.

Some of the rides which George Bull took into the country to help a child to birth or to make out a death certificate so that the earth could take back its own, reminds me of a book which was published last fall called "Nurses on Horseback" [Macmillan]. It was written by Ernest Poole and described the work of the Frontier Nurses in Kentucky. It had drama of fact on every page, the tense battle between life and death, generaled by never discouraged losers as often as by winners in the maneuvers. I'm going to read "Nurses on Horseback" again for the nourishment of the spirit.

Century of Bohemia Gives Background of New Rule

"Bohemia in the 18th Century," by Robert Joseph Kerner [Macmillan] is a careful and thorough study of the background of present day Czechoslovakia. Especial emphasis is placed upon the rule of the former Hapsburg monarchy and in particular the reign of Leopold II., 1790-'92. This book describes Bohemia's part in the drama of central Europe, and it is an invaluable document in the understanding of modern Bohemia. This volume is based largely upon the archive records in Prague and Vienna.

Meetings and Lectures

Dr. John Haynes Holmes of New York will lecture on "The Fall of the German Republic" at Sinai temple on Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

On Tuesday, 8:30 p. m., at Mandel hall of the University of Chicago, Rupert Hughes will talk on "Sidelights on the Founders of Our Country."

On Tuesday at 6:45 p. m. at Fullerton hall, Art Institute, Prof. Davis Edwards, department of public speaking of the University of Chicago, will give the first lecture in his series of five on modern drama. This week's lecture will be on "An Early Victorian Family—'The Barretts of Wimpole Street,' by Rudolf Besier."

The Friends of American Writers will hold their literary tea at the Woman's University club on Wednesday, at which time Mrs. Earl Whiterker will speak on "Horizons Far and Near" as reflected in the following books: "Van Loon's Geography," "Interpretation of 1931-32," by Walter Lippman; "Earth Horizon," by Mary Austin, and "The Bright Land," by Janet Ayer Fairbank.

"Can America Stay at Home," by Frank H. Simonds; "Young Woman of 1914," by Arnold Zweig; "The Bright Land," by Janet Ayer Fairbank, and "Thicker Than Water," by Vera Caspary, will be reviewed by Ethel M. Colson Brazelton at the Chicago College club on Wednesday.

London Awaits Two New Books with Interest

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Two interesting books announced for the late season failed to make their appearance, and should be with us soon. Both are of importance in their several ways. The first is David Garnett's "Pocahontas; the Non-Pareil of Virginia," and the second is John Collier's second novel, "Full Cycle." It will be particularly interesting to see Mr. Collier's book, because he jumped into prominence with his oddly named tale, "His Monkey Wife; or Married to a Chimp," proceeded then to extract the honey from a seventeenth century book of records and memoirs (in such fashion as to arouse the quarrelsome instinct of one or two scholars), and at last collaborated in the writing of a history of English social follies in the last decade.

Such leaping, but always satirical, versatility leads one to expect always something new and fresh from Mr. Collier, a fact of which he is probably aware. This will not make the composition of his second novel an entirely simple matter, I am sure; but if it is successful the éclat of its reception will be all the greater.

For the most part, if one examines a list of the novels published in the late season, it seems as if the two most successful novels in England must have been Evelyn Waugh's "Black Mischief" and Brett Young's "The House Under the Water." One or two books have singularly made little impression upon the public taste, in spite of excellent reviews; but among those which have been much read and greatly admired are Mrs. Buck's "Sons." Miss Mazo de la Roche's "Lark Ascending;" Feuchtwanger's "Josephus," Miss Rosamond Lehmann's "Invitation to the Waltz," Miss Margaret Kennedy's "A Long Time Ago," Miss Rose Macaulay's "They Were Defeated" [called, in America, "The Shadow Flies"], Denis Mackail's "Ian and Felicity," Somerset Maugham's "The Narrow Corner," Miss Lorna Rea's "First Night," Miss Sackville-West's "Family History," A. G. Street's "Strawberry Roan," Edward Thompson's "Lament for Adonis," Hugh Walpole's "The Fortress," and Miss Dorothy Whipple's "Greenbanks."

Mr. Galsworthy's "Flowering Wilderness," of course, has a place by itself; and Eric Linklater's "Men of Ness," Miss Willa Cather's short stories, "Obscure Destinies," Miss Stella Gibbons' "Cold Comfort Farm" [a diabolical satire on various literary idols], and Miss Helen Ashton's "Belinda Grove" all, in their different ways, call for special attention. There was no "book of the season" or "book of the year," and towards the end of the season sales of novels dwindled seriously.

So much for the late year. Already publishers are hoping for great spring successes. Two novels as to which the respective publishers are tremendously enthusiastic are Miss Theodore Benson's "Façade" and Cunliffe Owen's "The Phoenix and the Dove." The former is very modern indeed; the latter is a tale of the Elizabethan times, in which Shakespeare himself makes an appearance.

Tale of Brazil Given Praise by Miss Shea

'The Parrot Dealer' Is for High School Readers.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.
(Director of Children's Work for Branches of the Chicago Public Library.)

"The Parrot Dealer," by Kurt Wiese. [Coward-McCann.]
"Hansi the Stork," by Oscar Ludmann. [Whitman.]
"Martin the Goose Boy," by Marie Barringer. [Doubleday-Doran.]

YOUNG readers who like stories with settings that are unusual and unfamiliar, and who appreciate what fine writing and really interpretive illustration can do for a book will find in Kurt Wiese's "The Parrot Dealer," about as fascinating an evening's reading as can be found among the year's offerings for the high school age.

It is a story of adventure based on fact, for the author spent many years in Brazil, the country of which he writes, and has chosen for his hero a man whom he actually knew. So graphically has the author pictured the opening scene in the port of Bahia that the reader almost feels himself standing beside the former looking out over the inky waters whose darkness is broken only here and there by the ship's lights, hears the shouts of the Negroes and the other noises attendant upon the loading, and watches with interest the late comer with his boxes and crates filled with birds of startling vocal powers as well as of exotic beauty.

The reader feels that he, too, would have enjoyed that early morning visit to Señor Alvarez and his animals, and that evening recital of his life story with which the parrot dealer honored his new friend. That story is of the stirring happenings through which the boy Carlos had come before finding himself the famous animal dealer whose cargo was eagerly awaited in New York and other places far removed from the island of Ithaca.

It is a story of strange places, of dark jungles in which death stalks and from which only the courageous and the quick witted escape, of animals that are a deadly menace, and of men who may be even more so. It is a picture of Brazil—on one hand its revolutions and disorder—on the other its great plantations supplying a world's markets—a Brazil which is unforgetable with its hosts of strange animals and birds, its unfamiliar flowers and plants.

It is a fine story of a great adventure, which the author has made so realistic that one closes the book feeling that he has been traveling in far places and seeing strange sights and that life can never again be quite so humdrum for him. It is a lovely book with its numerous pen and ink sketches.

For the younger children we have two delightful little books with foreign backgrounds in Oscar Ludmann's "Hansi the Stork" and Marie Barringer's "Martin the Goose Boy." The first has its setting in Alsace-Lorraine and tells of Yerri, the little boy, and his good comrade, Hansi, the crippled stork, who could not fly southward with the others when winter came to Alsace. It is informational as well as a good story.

The second tells of a little wooden toy carved by grandfather and of two little boys who loved him. It is a charmingly told story of life in the Black forest. The attractive illustrations are by Maud and Miska Petersham.

Wallace Writes Appeal for a New Constitution

"Our Obsolete Constitution," by William Kay Wallace [Day], presents a picture of the constitution of the United States that is not encouraging. The author gives a history of it and then traces the past and present of various important amendments. Mr. Wallace's theme is that the amendments represent the people's pathetic attempts to adapt an old and outmoded instrument to modern needs. He believes that the constitution should be abandoned completely and replaced by an entirely new document.

ABOUT PLACES.

Yes, 'Tis Round, by Albert Field Gilmore [Stratford], this world, and the author proves it pretty conclusively in this extensive travel trip.

Two in Vagabondia, by Mary Lyle McClure and Mary Louise Sims [Meador], records the travels of two girls in Germany in the early nineteen hundreds.

'Yankee Rover' Tells the Story of America in Busy Year of 1824

The drama and color of a growing country are put into an exciting book, "A Yankee Rover," by Christopher Ward (Simon & Schuster). The Yankee Rover in the year 1824 leaves New England to wander first to glamorous Santa Fé, then to Virginia, to the aristocratic plantations of the old south and to the Mississippi. The hero meets all sorts of people, evil and good, active and inactive, romantic and practical, crooks and pioneers, and traders, engaged in the fascinating struggle for life that characterized the teeming, growing America of that period. Lovers of American history told in dramatic and stirring as well as accurate fashion should not miss this epic account of an emerging nation.

Book for Boys Is First Work of Sinclair Lewis

It will be news to many people to learn that Sinclair Lewis wrote his first book for boys. It was called "Hike and the Aeroplane" and was published in 1912. The author hid his identity under the name of Tom Graham. There were 1,000 copies printed, of which less than 800 were sold. Sinclair Lewis states emphatically that this book will not be reprinted. In his own inscribed copy he wrote this to himself, "To Sinclair Lewis from the author, Tom Graham, his altered ego."

SAVANTS SCOFF AT TECHNOCRACY AS 'BALDERDASH'

Find Machine Civilization's Best Friend.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Technocracy, the fad of the day, was the subject of a clinic last night at the Goodman theater, conducted by three University of Chicago professors. The three savants dissected it in varying phases and came to the unanimous conclusion that the machine is civilization's best friend and that the robot will not chase mankind into chaos and collapse, nor will it result in turning government over to the control of "engineering brains."

Prof. Harry D. Gideonse, economist, using his scalpel on the theory that the currency system is bound for the bowwows and that a new medium of exchange, "energy determinants" or "horse power certificates," is on the horizon, said technocracy is a sample of "Greenwich Village economics" and "unadulterated balderdash."

Blames Depression Psychology.

The fact that technocracy is on almost every tongue and that bankers and merchants, bellhops and shoeshiners are exchanging views on the topic, he ascribed to "depression psychology."

"Twelve months from now," he said, "I predict the American people will have adopted another synonym for humbug, hokum, poppycock, and balderdash. After the words hunk, ballyhoo, and Al Smith's 'baloney' they'll put down 'technocracy.'

"The technocrats talk a great deal about the breakdown of the price system. In so far as they are talking about the effects of our unstable money they are pointing to a deficiency to which many economists have called attention. But when they propose to substitute 'energy determinants' for money they are not suggesting an improvement. All the technocrats would succeed in doing would be to substitute an untried, unstable money for a tried, unstable money.

Machines Oust Only 15 Per Cent.

"As to the technocrats' theory of the effect of the machine upon present unemployment, technical unemployment accounts at the most for about 15 per cent of our total unemployment. The rest is ascribed to other factors, such as the troubles in our banking and monetary system, the loss of markets, and to an accumulation of errors not growing out of the displacement of man power by machines."

Machines create employment as well as unemployment, Prof. William F. Ogburn, sociologist and research director of the Hoover social trends committee, pointed out. He said nine-tenths of the present unemployment is due to the business cycle rather than to the machine. Prof. Ogburn remarked that "it is well enough for the curve makers to reduce life to a set of statistical curves, but that danger lies in following the curve out of the window."

"Associated with the literature of technocracy," he said, "is the statement that if unemployment increases at the same rate in the next two or three years as it has in the last two or three years we shall have 20 or 25 million unemployed—one out of every two workers would be unemployed.

Pleads for Common Sense.

"This projection of statistical curves is quite absurd. For example, if the death rate continue to fall during the next seven decades as it has during the last five there would be nobody dying. Or if the registration of automobiles continued as rapidly up to 1950 as it did from 1920 to 1927 every family would have an average of three automobiles. We've got to use common sense.

"The technocrats have done a good job in calling attention to the importance of the machine in our civilization. For many years the growth of machinery has been described. But many of their thories sound as if they had been transplanted from a hundred or a hundred and fifty years ago.

"I was reading a book in which a writer more than a hundred years ago was lamenting that the spindle would wreck the cottage spinning industry. In another book, when the railroads were expanding, a writer called attention to the fact that a train with an engineer, fireman, conductor and brakeman was doing the labor of hundreds.

Auto Ousts Few, Employs Many.

"Machines do create unemployment, but they also create new jobs. The automobile created unemployment for stable boys, stock raisers, blacksmiths, hack drivers and wagon makers, but it gave millions of jobs to automobile manufacturers, chauffeurs, road hands, rubber growers, textile workers and oil drivers. There undoubtedly will be many new industries in the future which will make jobs."

The price system, which the technocrats declare is doomed, was pointed to as a check on overmechanization by Prof. Stuart P. Meech of the School of Business. He presented arguments to show the present system tends to maintain a balance between machines and men in industry, and finished up with a story.

"Technocracy," he said, "reminds me of the horse which was in the pasture on an Iowa farm one July day. It was so hot that presently the corn in an adjoining field began to pop. The horse, thinking it was a snowstorm, froze to death. So I say to the technocrats, 'Be sure it's snow.'"

WOMAN HELD ON CHECK CHARGE.

Mrs. Eva Lustig, 23 years old, 1831 South St. Louis avenue, was arrested yesterday in Klein's department store, Halsted street and Roosevelt road, where she was alleged to have passed four worthless checks for a total of $140.

HUNGRY PUPILS' FUND FEEDS 8,000 IN 100 SCHOOLS

Growing Need Calls for More Gifts.

The gifts of TRIBUNE readers to the Hungry School Children's fund have made possible the feeding of 8,000 needy children in more than 100 public schools. This was announced yesterday by Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, who administers the fund in coöperation with a citizens' committee.

In revealing the extent of the lunchroom service Miss Swain warned, however, that the next two months will see a still greater need for food among the undernourished children in the schools.

"Several principals tell me they have postponed calling on the fund until now, trying to get along as best they could," Miss Swain said. "Now they feel they must come to the fund for help. There are hundreds of children in need of the daily hot lunch who have not yet received help from the fund. As soon as the contributions increase we hope to add other schools to our list."

Many principals and teachers, Miss Swain said, have remarked at the change in the behavior of the undernourished children after having been fed the noonday lunch. A keener interest in school work was noted as well as a more coöperative attitude on the playground.

Contributions yesterday took a tumble. Only $54 was received, making a grand total of $18,655.02 received since the fund began operating last fall. Acknowledgment is made as follows:

$15—In memory of Lillian Morsbach Hoff.
$10—Isabel L. D. Ammann.

STAR WITNESS IN VARNER CORRY'S TRIAL MISSING

The state's principal witness against Varner Corry, who when he was 15 years old shot and killed Policeman Edward Smith when the latter discovered him in a high school swimming pool, has left Chicago, the Fillmore police informed the state's attorney's office yesterday. Schuyler Pearson, who was trespassing in the high school with Corry and the latter's young brother at the time of the murder, is reported to be in Wisconsin and not desirous of returning for the trial, which is scheduled to start Jan. 17 before Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who has been placed in charge of the prosecution of young Corry, refused to discuss the missing witness. However, the police admitted that they had been negotiating without success for his return.

Corry, who killed Policeman Smith on Memorial day, 1931, was tried once and convicted. Judge Joseph Sabath sentenced him to eighteen years in the penitentiary. The Supreme court, however, granted a new trial on technical grounds.

HOOVER RACE COST $2,097,155; DEFICIT IN G. O. P. CHEST $239,540

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—President Hoover's unsuccessful campaign for reëlection cost the Republican party a total of $2,097,155 and left a deficit in the war chest amounting to $239,540, according to a final campaign expense report filed with the clerk of the house today by the Republican national committee.

During the period from June 1 to Dec. 31, said the report, the national committee collected a total of $2,431,112, and spent a total of $2,097,155. But of the amount collected, it was shown, $573,496 was taken in by the national committee acting as agent for the state committees and had to be turned over to them. The collections of the national committee, therefore, amounted to but $1,857,615 which deducted from the expenditures, indicates a deficit of $239,540.

While the Republican expenses were nearly half a million dollars larger than the $1,638,000 spent by the Democrats, the G. O. P. deficit was considerably smaller than the $800,000 which the campaign wrote in red ink on the Democratic ledger.

Among the large contributors to the Republican campaign fund were Harvey Firestone Sr., $20,300; John D. Rockefeller Jr., $15,000; S. L. Avery of Chicago, $10,000, and Edsel Ford of Detroit, $5,000.

"PRINCE MIKE" TO BE RELEASED FOR STAGE TOUR

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Harry F. Gerguson, who elevated himself from orphan boy to the position of "Prince Michael Romanoff," this afternoon was ordered deported from the United States, which he now claims as his country.

HARRY F. GERGUSON.

But scarcely had the special board of inquiry at Ellis Island reached this decision when it was learned that Gerguson would be released in $2,500 bail, pending an appeal and would begin at once a theatrical engagement. It is expected that a large section of the country will soon have a chance to view Gerguson, who has heretofore

Apparently the "prince's" counsel, Alan S. Hayes, was in a hurry to obtain his release.

All that Mr. Hayes would say in regard to questions about the theatrical contract, however, was that the "prince's" bail would be furnished through himself and probably by some surety company. It is reported that "Prince Mike" will sign a ten weeks' contract for a theatrical tour at a salary of $500 a week.

South Dakota Brothers Killed in Plane Crash

Freeman, S. D., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Vernon and H. C. "Pinkey" Davis brothers, of Winner, S. D., were killed this afternoon when their plane crashed near here. Their plane fell from about two hundred feet into a plowed field on the Joe F. Glanzer farm, eight miles north of here. They were on their way to Winner from Sioux Falls, S. D.

TECHNOCRATS! BETTER KEEP EYE ON THYRATRON

New Device Can Perform Score of Duties.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 6.—(AP)—"The technocrats should keep their eyes on the thyratron."

This was the statement today of Larry Hawkins, executive engineer of the General Electric Research Laboratories of Nela Park here, where new types of vacuum tubes were discussed.

"Given eyes, such as the photoelectric tube," Hawkins said, "the thyratron can take over a host of supervisory duties. The electric motor gave the machine tool its versatility and relieved man of much work. Now the thyratron can take over management of the machine, and every one can go out and play—theoretically."

Like a Radio Tube.

The thyratron was explained at a conference by Dr. W. W. Hull, assistant director at Schenectady.

The thyratron is like a radio tube in that it has a flow of electrons between cathode and anode controlled by voltage applied to a grid. But it also has low pressure mercury vapor which tends to neutralize the negative stream of electrons with positive ions.

Thus the thyratron is a switch, but speedier, noiseless, of less inertia and controllable by more minute power than mechanical devices.

Can Count Theater Patrons.

It can be used to cut hot steel bars to exact lengths, for controlling reels to proper tension in winding wire, for synchronizing a webb of conveyors, dispatching mail, counting theater patrons, sorting beans, or opening the doors for a waitress.

As a power converter it can change direct current to alternating, or vice versa, direct current to lower or higher voltage, alternating current from one voltage to another.

The thyratron may control the lighting effects in the theater, or aid in the welding process in the boiler factory.

Other Members of Vacuum Family.

Some of the big and little sisters of the thyratron in the vacuum tube family also were discussed.

For instance, there is the pliotron which, according to Dr. Hull, can measure electric current passing at the rate of only six electrons per second. With its working partner, the photoelectric tube, it counts cosmic rays, and may help the scientist in taking apart the atom by counting neutrons, protons, and alpha particles.

A variation of the pliotron permits the measurement of voltages ten times smaller than could be detected before. It may be used in measuring heart beats, nerve impulses and thought waves, Dr. Hull suggested.

PAY CUTS REDUCE NEW YORK BUDGET BY $19,112,068

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The pay cut schedules recently authorized by the board of estimate were formally adopted by that body today, reducing the 1933 budget $19,112,068. The salary reductions range from 6 to 33.9 per cent. Salaries of $2,000 a year and under are not affected.

With only Controller Berry dissenting, the board of estimate members also voted to reduce their own salaries on a corresponding scale. Controller Berry, whose opposition was recorded yesterday at the board's executive session, objected to his own salary being reduced. He contended that his present salary of $35,000 a year was hardly enough. He finally consented to take a smaller cut to $28,000—a smaller reduction in proportion than the other board members are taking. If the regular scale had been applied to the controller his salary would have been reduced to $26,610.

Of the total $19,112,068.81 reduction $18,344,602.60 will come from the tax levy budget and the remainder from the corporate stock budget.

The resolution making the pay cuts effective was introduced by Mayor O'Brien.

The formality of reopening the 1933 budget to make the total reduction will take place in the near future. The salary reduction will bring the total budget down to $537,437,517.22.

KILLED AS AUTO HITS TREE.

Ionia, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Harry Adams, 49, and Fred Levalley, returning to their homes in Ionia Friday morning, crashed into a tree on the old river road, half mile west of the Michigan reformatory. Adams received injuries from which he died about an hour afterward.

MADNESS.

The house committee on agriculture has, at length, reported a bill employing the domestic allotment plan for farm relief.

If that bill becomes law it will make matters worse for the farmers and for every one else. It repeats all the old mistakes made by the farm racketeers who sit in congress and it adds new follies to the already imposing list. The racketeers who have been enacting so-called relief laws for twenty years have nothing but havoc to show for their efforts to date; now they propose to add the final touch of ruin.

The notion underlying the domestic allotment scheme is plausible enough. The theory is that excessive production has led to depressed farm prices. Therefore, the allotment people say, give a bounty to the farmers to reduce their production. THE TRIBUNE is so far in sympathy with this line of reasoning that it has proposed tax exemption for productive land left idle. The trouble with the allotment plan is not the theory but the mechanism proposed for putting the theory into effect.

Under the plan the hog raiser, for example, can send his hogs as he now does to the Chicago stockyards to be sold. He would receive the market price and in addition a piece of paper saying that the government of the United States owes him the difference between the price he received and a price which the secretary of agriculture in his wisdom thinks is a fair price for hogs. The government, in turn, would collect from the packer an excise tax on pork, and, in theory at least, the excise tax would be used to redeem the farmer's piece of paper. The packer, in turn, would add the tax to the selling price of the pork chops, lard, and bacon sold in this country, and when the whole transaction was washed up the domestic consumer of pork products would be the fellow who would pay the farmer the difference between the market price and the secretary's fair price. Only those farmers who reduced their production by 20 per cent would be permitted to share in the benefits.

The plan is deceptively simple. At first glance it looks like a direct attack upon the problem of surplus production and it looks foolproof. Examined a little more closely, however, the weaknesses begin to appear. It is impossible in a limited space to call attention to more than two of them.

The plan assumes, in the first place, that the consumer who now pays, say, 15 cents for a pound of meat, will pay 18 or 20 cents. The fact is he will not. Those who now buy cheap cuts of meat will do without meat and those who buy the more expensive cuts will buy the cheaper ones. The result of this must be that the stockyards price for hogs will decline. The consumption of hogs will decline probably by more than the 20 per cent reduction in the production of hogs (if, indeed, it is possible to induce a sow to practice birth control or reduce the size of her litters). Hogs, instead of being worth something like $3.25 a hundred, will be worth next to nothing. And instead of receiving cash for his hogs, as at present, the farmer will receive next to nothing in cash and a piece of paper which will mature some time later and may be expected to sell at a discount.

The other objection is even more serious. The power to determine the amount of the bounty is placed in the hands of the secretary of agriculture. So, too, is the power to decide whether a farmer has, in fact, reduced his production by the desired 20 per cent. So, too, is the power to determine how much of the output of hogs, cotton, wheat, and tobacco is required for domestic consumption. A man who combined the integrity of George Washington, the energy of Theodore Roosevelt, and the administrative ability of Alexander Hamilton couldn't handle so prodigious a task and no man in his senses would undertake it. To do the job competently the secretary would have to have an army of spies and spy supervisors at least as large as the standing army of the United States to discover what each of several million farmers had produced in the previous year and what each was producing this year. The cost of maintaining such an army of bureaucrats might well exceed the total collected for paying the bounty. Even if the secretary had such an army he would still have to know more than all the packers and all the commission men know about the market for hog products. And even if he had that information he would still have to have the power to force consumers to buy pork chops at the prices he set upon them or the plan would fail.

To call this scheme utter madness is to flatter it. If it has any merit at all the merit derives from the probability that it would lead to some inflation of the currency. The hazards of any form of inflation are great and the hazards of a currency inflation are particularly great. To place control of the extent of an inflation in the hands of a secretary of agriculture already weighed down with the prodigious task of trying to run every farm in the United States is to invite disaster.

CRIME AND SOCIETY.

It is significant of one of the chief causes of our inadequate protection from crime that a judge who imposes the extreme penalty upon a criminal like Varecha should be praised for his courage. Yet Chief Justice Prystalski deserves that praise. His duty was clear, but there is a perverted sentiment in this community which opposes the adequate punishment of incorrigibly vicious youth. All the more important, therefore, was the imposition of the extreme penalty upon Varecha. There is adequate scientific opinion to justify it. There are decisive interests of public safety to justify it. The youth of the culprit is not a consideration in logic or policy justifying leniency. The removal of Varecha is essential not only to protection of the community from him but as an example to the undisciplined and vicious youth responsible for the worst crimes committed in America. In justice to the community and even to youth itself, Varecha's removal is imperative.

The case has been a shocking revelation of the inadequacy of our treatment of dangerous delinquents and we hope prompt and effective measures will be taken to correct at least its most flagrant defects.

We think it is time to have a thorough reconsideration of the problem of the dangerous defective. Our present policy, if we can be said to have a policy, is inconsistent and unsound. If an individual who has murdered is incorrigibly dangerous to society, having no normal restraints, if in the language of the law he is incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong, it is our policy to preserve him as if he were a museum piece. We send him to an institution maintained at public expense to be fed, housed, and cared for at public expense as long as he lives.

If an individual who has murdered is found to be capable of distinguishing between right and wrong, is capable of understanding the consequences of his action, has killed under the influence of passion or temptation, he may be condemned to death and society is relieved of his charge.

Yet by the very hypothesis upon which he is condemned to death he is more amenable to the restraints of conscience and the sense of consequence than the individual who escapes the death penalty on the ground of irresponsibility, and he is less dangerous and hopelessly irrecoverable.

The reason for this discrimination is that we mix metaphysics with public policy. If we based the latter simply on grounds of public policy we should dispose of dangerous incorrigibles at least as conclusively as we do the legally responsible. When we allow our disposal of violent offenders to depend upon a theory of moral responsibility, executing the offender who knows that he has done evil and preserving the offender who doesn't know that his violence is evil, we enter the field of metaphysics and the interminable controversy over free will. What will is to be declared free in the light of modern science? What is the line between sanity and insanity, responsibility and irresponsibility?

A policy logically based on consideration of the community's protection would not entangle itself in these conundrums. It would dispose of individuals according to their acts. An insane killer would be put away as conclusively as one held sane. An irresponsible would be put away with even less hesitation than an individual held responsible. By confusing the consideration of public safety with the question of moral responsibility we fill our asylums with dangerous individuals who escape or are paroled to breed their like and to commit other crimes. Our present practice is founded on a mixture of metaphysics, theology, one-sided humanitarianism, and scientific theories not yet out of the stage of experiment and hypothesis, and it is permitting or producing widespread social evils, a heavy charge on the public purse, and a minimum of protection for the community from violence. The only sensible course is to base our practice upon the consideration of public safety.

Editorial of the Day

THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI.

[Waterloo, Ia., Courier.]

Eight years ago congress passed an act creating the Inland Waterways corporation. At that time the committee which reported the bill favorably to the house of representatives advanced the opinion that within five years the practicability of water transportation would have been demonstrated and the government would be able to "dispose of its properties to private capital to an advantage and withdraw entirely from such activities."

A few days ago the interstate commerce commission informed Secretary of War Hurley that the barge lines of the corporation, representing a government investment of more than $23,000,00 exclusive of interest, are worth only $7,000,000 as a commercial enterprise.

The same house committee which prophesied "profitable results" from the barge line operations within five years added that "If the government after making these rivers navigable cannot profitably operate a transportation system on them, then it is hopeless to expect private capital to do so, and congress should no longer appropriate money from the public treasury for a useless purpose."

In 1931 taxpayers paid $21,000 for the operation of the Inland Waterways corporation terminal at Rock Island. The income was $1,718.70. It is estimated that the operating costs for the same terminal this year will be approximately $32,000.

While it may be true that revenues on the upper Mississippi will increase with improvement of the river, it is questionable whether the huge expenditures which have been made, and are being made, are justified. Past experience teaches that preliminary estimates of costs fall short of the ultimate expense.

The original estimated cost of improving the upper Mississippi to a depth of nine feet was $94,423,000. Subsequent studies by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors placed the cost at $124,006,139.

The estimated cost of constructing the Hastings dam, about 20 miles below St. Paul, was $3,055,870. Six months before the completion of the dam government engineers voiced the need for a second lock at an additional cost of $1,500,000.

Following the completion of the Hastings dam, and the subsequent flooding of private property nearly 20 miles up the river, the government was confronted with claims of property owners for flowage damages totaling more than $8,000,000, more than 10 times what had been estimated and almost three times the estimated cost of the dam.

River improvement finds favor with many because boats and ships are closely associated with romance—they recall the adventures of Mark Twain as a river pilot, the stirring lines of Longfellow's "Wreck of the Hesperus" and Joaquin Miller's "Columbus." It is romance nurtured at great cost. The cynic will say, "And isn't all romance costly?" In this case it's prohibitive for the already overburdened taxpayer.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"IF THE PROPOSED Democratic program is adopted, together with the farm relief bill," said some of the statesmen down around Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, "it is hoped a special session of congress March 4 may be averted." Averted! Gosh! That special session must be expected to be a national calamity, such as earthquakes, cyclones, yellow fever, cholera, forest fires, or tidal waves. Well, the statesmen ought to know; maybe "averted" is the right word after all.

AND IF THEY do any more increasing of the income tax it will have one happy result, anyhow. Lot of us will quit worrying any more about losing our jobs.

BECAUSE, if we lose our jobs, then we won't have any income, and then, three rousing cheers, we can thumb our nose at the income tax collector. And what could bring greater happiness to any one?

ALL OF WHICH reminds us mightily of the late Mr. Æsop's fable of the farmer who killed the goose that laid the golden egg. It's just too bad Mr. Æsop isn't with us today. He departed this life thinking that little story was all imaginary.

HOWEVER, it's a long time to March 4 and a lot of water, as folks say, will have gone over the dam by that time. And, besides, as the political wiseacres so trustingly hope, a special session of congress may be averted.

AND IF IT CAN'T be averted then, perhaps, it can be stamped out or abated or diverted or something like that. Or maybe, if we can't avert the special session of congress, we can get vaccinated against its terrible ravage just as we do against the smallpox. The word "averted" just scares us to death. We ought to call out the marines or take a prophylactic or diet on spinach and cod liver oil, or put on red flannels and wear an asafœtida bag around our necks. Gosh! We've got to do something!

I HAVE LIVED ANOTHER YEAR.

The old year is done;
With a new year ahead,
I figure my old year
As out of the red.
I saw people laugh,
I heard people cry,
I saw people win,
And I saw people die.
I saw wheels of progress
Go racing along;
I heard deep complaining,
And heard a gay song.
I smelled Earth producing
The first flowers of Spring;
I saw Earth destroying
A number of things.
I added some friends
To the good ones I had;
I got many breaks,
Some were good, some were bad.
I felt arms around me,
Heard tender words said;
As out of the red.

A MAN OUT in Washington state has sued the telegraph company because they put "suspected dupe" after his name. The man said nobody could call him a suspected dupe and get away with it and the telegraph company couldn't mollify him even when they explained that it was an office form meaning that the message was suspected of being a duplicate of a copy previously sent. Everybody seems to be very irritable these days. After this when we wish anybody good morning we will immediately follow it with the words "merely an old Spanish custom, you know, ha, ha, beg your pardon, no offense intended." And at that, if it happens to be stormy, he may slam us on the beak, anyhow.

A certain man, having decided on salesmanship as a vocation, started very moderately with such things as lead pencils, shoestrings, sealing wax, and spools of thread—but his success was so rapid that within a short time he was dealing in real estate on a tremendous scale . . . And then one day he realized that he had conquered all the worlds of the universe of salesmanship, and the realization made him despondent. So one day, as he paused in the center of Brooklyn bridge, he sold himself on the idea of committing suicide. He climbed to the top rail. But just as he was ready to make the plunge he looked down and there, twenty or thirty feet below him, he saw a painter on a scaffold rigging. The painter looked up. "Hey!" he shouted, "what you doin' up there?" . . .

In the old days we did not pay for the food. Oh, mercy, no! We just bought a glass of beer for a nickel and then picked up a harpoon and speared bologna, cheese, rye bread, pickles, oysters, ham, potatoes, pretzels, gefüllte fisch, and all sorts of things. RAW FISH MAY BE DANGEROUS.

In every part of North America man is more or less troubled by a fair number of parasitic worms. In certain parts of the country persons who swim in ponds acquire what is sometimes known as swimmer's itch. Waders pay even a heavier penalty because the worms that cause this annoying skin eruption are found in greater abundance in the shallower pools. This worm, in a certain stage, bores into the skin, causing an eruption that itches severely. It can be prevented by greasing the skin well with a sulphur ointment before entering the water and then using a hyposulphite lotion after coming out.

People who eat fresh water fish raw or insufficiently cooked are prone to infection with fish tapeworm. A few years ago it was supposed that no one had fish tapeworm except those who ate pike and pickerel taken from a few Minnesota lakes; that it was limited to racial groups who followed the custom of eating raw and smoked fish. That may have been true five to ten years ago, but it is not so now. Today one of the most prevalent of the tapeworms is that spread by fish. It is rather widely scattered over America. All races have it.

Infestation with this tapeworm causes anemia. To avoid the trouble no fresh water fish should be eaten unless it is thoroughly cooked.

Not many years ago the pork and beef tapeworms were rather prevalent in America. At the present time they are rather rarely encountered. We are far more cleanly in our handling of meats than we formerly were. These tapeworms do comparatively little harm in man. The methods of prevention are to refrain from eating raw and underdone meats and the exercise of great cleanliness in butchering, marketing, and cooking of meats.

Several tapeworms are spread by dogs, cats, rats, and mice. Protection against these consists in the avoidance of the animal hosts, in the exercise of cleanliness, and in thorough cooking of meats.

The most dangerous American worm parasite, so far as man is concerned, is trichina. We became infested with this worm by eating raw, smoked, and underdone hog meat. Scientists of the United States department of agriculture have found that infected pork becomes harmless if stored long enough at a temperature that is sufficiently low. However, the wise consumer will refrain from eating any pork that is not well cooked.

Again we pay a price for associating with dogs, cats, rats, and mice. They help to spread this disease.

Hookworm is much less important than it once was, but at that it remains one of the greatest menaces to our racial stock. Infestation causes anemia, malnutrition, and a lack of energy. Among the methods of prevention are wearing shoes, keeping the feet out of mud and water, and cleanliness of the hands and of the food. There are many satisfactory medicines for getting rid of hookworm.

CHANGE THE SPIGOT.

R. J. O. writes: What happens when you contact brass with grape wine? In other words, what are the results when you put a brass faucet for an indefinite period of time on a keg of wine?

REPLY.

The metal would dissolve very slowly. Probably the wine would never pick up a dangerous dose of metal, but why take a chance, since the supply of wooden spigots is ample?

CROUP.

D. S. M. writes: 1. We have a 2½ year old son who seems to have croup or a croupy cold. Yesterday he started coughing a loose cough as if his throat could be cleared if he knew how to cough. He has been well heretofore, but had difficulty breathing last night and was awakened several times.

2. Is croup contagious?

REPLY.

1. For the relief of croup sirup of ipecac is given. Children who are prone to have croup are given some tonics that contain lime mixed with something to make the lime stick.

2. It is not.

MARIJUANA.

A. N. writes: Could you please tell me what marijuana cigarets consist of? Are they harmful? Are they habit forming? Would you compare them to liquor? I know a young boy who occasionally smokes one for a thrill. He claims they are entirely harmless, but if you say otherwise he will immediately stop using them entirely.

REPLY.

I hope he means it. If so, you are lucky and so is he. Marijuana is a form of hashish, or cannabis indica. It is a harmful, habit forming drug. It is used principally by young people to make them act silly and it succeeds. Fortunately the habit is more easily broken than is the opium or heroin habit or the liquor habit. In this it is about on a par with the cocaine habit.

FAT MAY BE CAUSE.

B. A. writes: For the past few months I have trouble climbing stairs. I can't get my breath. I know there was nothing wrong with my heart up to six months ago. I am getting quite fat. Do you think that's what is wrong?

REPLY.

"COMPENSATION INSURANCE."

Princeton, Ill., Jan. 1.—[Legal Friend of The People.]—I wish to inquire regarding compensation insurance. I own an eighty acre farm nine miles from the city on which I have a renter. I also have a five acre farm just outside the city limits where I reside and run a dairy business, employing two men to deliver milk in the city over two routes. Do I come under the farmer's class or should I take the insurance on the men?

N. F.

Since subparagraph 3 of Sec. 3 of the compensation act provides that the activity of distributing a commodity by vehicle shall not be covered by the act except where more than 2 employés are engaged in the enterprise, we are of the opinion that mere delivering of your milk would not subject you to the act even if we disregard the express exemption of agricultural employments in subparagraph 8.

It seems possible, however, that you may be operating machinery or appliances as to which there are statutory or municipal ordinance regulations such as to bring you within the act on this ground. If so, the question whether the agricultural exemption would be sufficient protection is a close enough one so that we would not undertake to advise without knowing the exact nature of the machinery that you operate and the relationship between the bottling plant and the farm proper.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—1. What is the nationality of a child born to an American couple while traveling in Europe? 2. If a child is born in the United States to two foreigners, who are not citizens, is the child an American citizen? 3. If a child is born aboard a foreign ship to American citizens, what is the child's nationality?

I. M.

1. Section 1093, revised statutes, reads as follows: "All children heretofore born or hereafter born out of the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, whose fathers were or may be at the time of their birth citizens thereof, are declared to be citizens of the United States; but the rights of citizenship shall not descend to children whose fathers never resided in the United States."

2. Yes.

3. The citizenship of the child would be the same as that of the father.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 7, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In a sweeping and vitriolic attack on the Supreme court of the United States, Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma before the National Popular Government league declared it was "unparalleled impudence for the Supreme court to declare unconstitutional any act passed by congress." Urging that the court be shorn of its power to overrule the action of congress, Senator Owen declared that at such action the court should "ipso facto cease to exist." Later, when Senator Owen's remarks were repeated to him and he was reminded that his remarks might cause him to be called before the court for contempt, Senator Owen said: "I don't believe they will do anything of the sort. If they do subpœna me they will start something that will shake this country to its foundation." The senator's attack on the Supreme court was uttered at the conclusion of a speech made by Judge Wanamaker of the Ohio Supreme court, who, citing the case of the Adamson law, said that a law passed by congress to prevent a great clash was now being defied by the railroad interests of the country while the Supreme court sat in judgment on its constitutionality.

LONDON.—The British infantry broke its long inactivity and in a brief, sharp assault seized two German posts on the Ancre front, north of Beaumont-Hamel. The positions were held in the face of a strong counter attack. Gen. Haig's troops also carried out a successful raid on the enemy's lines southeast of Arras, entering, according to the war office, "the enemy's trench system over a wide front and penetrating to his third line." Here dugouts were destroyed and much damage done trenches.

LONDON.—The onward sweep of the Teuton armies in Rumania continues without a check. The official report issued in Berlin tells of the capture of five more towns. They are Rimniceni, Hartaru, Olaneascu, Guillianca, and Maxineni. The invaders have reached the Sereth river line at two points. Galatz, the most important of the Rumanian towns which remain in the hands of the defenders, is under the fire of the German and Bulgarian heavy artillery on two sides, and its fall seems imminent. Focshani, another important city in central Rumania, apparently is on the verge of capture. It now is menaced by strong forces of the Germans from both the west and south.

PETROGRAD.—Furious fighting is taking place in the swamp regions near Riga, on the northern end of the far-flung Russian front. Twenty miles southwest of Riga the czar's troops took the offensive and seized the road near Lake Babit, captured two rows of German trenches and made prisoners of enemy troops. Later the Russians captured a strong position southeast of the village of Kalnzem. Counter assaults by the Germans failed to dislodge the Russians from their new positions. In the sector between the coast and the Mitau-Riga road, east of the River Aa, the Russians penetrated the German positions, Berlin admits, but the operation proved costly, as the Germans in counter attacks captured 900 prisoners and several machine guns.

CHICAGO.—Reporters for THE TRIBUNE yesterday uncovered eight new raids made by the Lake Shore drive burglars in the residence district between Chicago avenue and Lincoln park. This brings the total number of Gold Coast raids credited to the bold band within the last few days to eleven. Seven of the men victims were private residents. The eighth was the Casino club, which the burglars paid an early morning visit that was frustrated only by the caution of the manager. The persons whose homes were invaded, so far as learned, were: Robert G. McGann, 120 East Pearson street; Charles C. Barrett, 54 East Division street; David B. Jones, 1435 Astor street; F. F. Norcross, 1500 Astor street; F. G. Logan, 1150 Lake Shore drive, Edward Blatchford, 1111 North La Salle street; Charles McKenna, 62 East Oak street. The robbery of George M. Reynolds' Lake Shore drive residence was reported the day before. The two other robberies reported were those of the John Borden and Mrs. Michael Cudahy homes.

CHICAGO.—Henry Torborg, 73 years old, a conductor on the Blue Island line for over forty years, said to be the richest street car employé in the world, is dead at 2447 South Hamlin avenue. His wealth is estimated at $500,000.

NEW YORK.—Announcement that E. H. Sothern never again will appear on the stage was made here by the actor's physician, Dr. Joseph B. Bissell. Mr. Sothern returned from Chicago, where he became ill several days ago. Julia Marlowe, in private life Mrs. Sothern, went as far as Buffalo to meet her husband.

NEW YORK ON THE RADIO.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Nowhere is the domination of New York over Chicago more evident than over the radio.

Why is it that radio programs—dramatizations, comedies, etc.—regardless of the city in which they originate or from which they are actually broadcast, must invariably use New York locale? Why, in national broadcasts, must the whole country be compelled to listen to a constant publicizing of New York City? Why must we in Chicago use our facilities to advertise New York City? The people of Chicago and the middle west are sick and tired of hearing, in the course of broadcasts, "the comedy direct from Broadway," "a penthouse on Park avenue," "de drug stoh on Lennox avenue," "the hairdresser's on Fifth avenue," "over in Brooklyn," "the Waldorf," and how many have I omitted? Don't things happen anywhere else? Or is it supposed to lend glamour and importance to drag the play to a New York setting?

I'm sure the country's radio audience would relish an occasional change to such names as "Chicago's beautiful Michigan avenue," "Tribune Square," "Swanky Lake Shore drive," "State street, the world's busiest shopping center," "Canyon of La Salle street," "the Blackstone or Stevens," or if, indeed, a penthouse it must be, then why not occasionally use one on Lake View avenue or upper Sheridan road or one in the Hyde Park district? Wouldn't New York like that?

Why do Chicago's own Amos and Andy "do business" on Lennox avenue when they originated in Chicago, live in Chicago, and actually broadcast from Chicago? Has New York so decreed? And why do our large Chicago industries use New York "air" in their broadcasts over national hookups? Why do they appear particularly eager to please New York audiences when in reality their largest aggregate markets are miles away from that city? The answers are obvious.

Wake up, Chicago! Stop taking dictation from New York! With our World's Fair almost upon us let us use our own facilities for our own publicity. We need it. J. L. KACIREK.

BOATS FOR THE WATERWAY.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 29.—The writer suggests that you have a survey made to find out how many vessels there are available for use on the great Illinois waterway. Why bother about the delay in the opening of this waterway when there are no vessels for operating on it? The sanitary district bridges give only a 16 foot clearance, and any vessels on the lower Mississippi river that might come this way would be unable to pass under these fixed bridges. C. P. DIETZ.

BOOK STALLS.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 27.—No one who has been in Paris can ever forget the row of boxes along the left bank of the Seine, where venders offer old books, prints, etc., for sale. It is a colorful sight and it occurs to me that Chicago could have something similar to amuse and entertain its visitors this coming summer during the World's Fair.

J. Q. ADAMS' TERM.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Your interesting review of Clark's "Life of John Quincy Adams" in issue of Dec. 27 mentions Adams as having been President eight years. He was President four years only, 1825 to 1829. S. G. WICK.

TAX EXEMPTION ON FALLOW LAND.

Cresco, Ia., Dec. 24.—Your editorial on exempting from taxation land which is not farmed is certainly one way of reducing the surplus. Every insurance company, speculator and land bank would be glad to set most of theirs aside, for now that they have driven the real farmer off the land they would be glad to have the farmers who are not busted pay their taxes for them and save them the expense of looking after the crops.

In the old days the greatest inside sport of the taxing bodies was to stick the speculator or nonresident and make him pay a plenty for grabbing up the land and now you want him or them to ride free.

The high cost of government is the load that is breaking the farmer's back and now you would double the load for him in order that he may get a better price. State, county, school and township taxes have to be paid so long as the expenses are incurred, so if the Joint Stock Land banks and others who have taken the farms from the farmer don't have to pay taxes how long do you think the other farmers will last?

Mississippi, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and many other states have more land now that is not paying taxes than is good for them. Do you want Illinois, Iowa and other great farming states to go the same way? To the man who has more land than he can work properly this sounds good. To the man who needs all his land to make a living it sounds bad, almost as bad as your editorial last year which told the farmer he could eat his hundred or thousand hogs if he couldn't sell them.

E. H. ALLEN.

POSTOFFICE SPOILS.

Wichita, Kas., Dec. 28.—In England when an election puts a new party in power not a single postmaster in the United Kingdom is affected by the change. Under our spoils system possibly 30,000 postmasters are decapitated to make room for political appointees of the opposing party.

It is to be hoped that the bill presented by Representative Maas of Minnesota will be passed by congress. This bill will have the effect of abolishing all first class postmasters and two-thirds of second class postmasters who are now appointed under the spoils system. The same system unfortunately extends to many other departments and should be treated there likewise. These political appointees have possibly performed a few weeks' service during presidential campaigns, for which service they were presumably paid by the candidates who employed them. With very few exceptions they are totally unqualified for the duties of the offices to which they are appointed and the salaries of these men, aggregating some 10 million dollars annually, constitute a burden upon the taxpayer that is indefensible. Furthermore, this system has a vicious influence upon the morale of postal employés who would otherwise be entitled to promotion to these postmasterships and who, as a matter of fact, perform the duties involved.

BALTIC NATIONS SPEND MILLIONS FOR NEW NAVIES

Set Up Defense Against Soviet Invasion.

BY JOHN AHL-NIELSEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 6.—Some of those small states along the Baltic which refuse to pay their debts to the United States have for the last dozen years spent fortunes in arming themselves for the naval battle which they believe will take place when and if Russia tries by aggression to spread its doctrine of revolution.

While Denmark, which with Sweden holds the very key to the Baltic, has been disarming so long that it has no navy of any importance, Sweden, Latvia, Finland, and Poland have spent millions to create a naval bulwark against Russia should the soviets try to expand.

Survey Shows Expansion.

The Danish daily Berlinske Tidende, opposing the disarmament of the country, has made a survey of the naval forces in this area, and the result must be interesting to that part of the world which foresees an eventual blow-up in Russia.

Sweden, the most important of the Baltic states, has just carried out a naval five year plan. Three old cruisers have been modernized and furnished with oil burners. Sweden also has built four new up to date destroyers, several motorboat destroyers which are sort of coast guard chasers, four superspeed scouting boats, and four submarines.

Sweden has two more submarines and one supercruiser under construction. This cruiser will carry 100 mines and 8 seaplanes. In 1933 Sweden will inaugurate the second naval five year plan, calling for one cruiser, two destroyers, four superspeed destroyers, and four submarines.

Finland Joins Race.

Finland enters the new year on the first lap of its run to reach the other Baltic states. It is building two boats of large armaments and Diesel engines, four submarines able to carry mines and lay them at great depths, and four motor torpedo boats. The second part of its program calls for one gunboat, five submarines, and auxiliary craft, such as fast motorboats and ice breakers.

Farther down the coast comes Esthonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, new states which are poor and cannot afford to keep pace with Sweden and Finland. Esthonia owns several old destroyers which formerly belonged to Russia and which have been re-equipped. Lithuania has no war worthy navy at all, but Latvia has just bought two modern French submarines of the newest type and two mine carriers. The Latvian defense budget calls for a per capita expenditure of $3.50 annually.

France Helps Poland Arm.

Poland started by building a naval base first. With the aid of France this was constructed at Gydnia. France also advised, financed and carried out the construction for Poland of two destroyers, each carrying 60 mines and each having six torpedo tubes. France also built for Poland three submarines, each carrying 40 mines and with six torpedo tubes, and six gunboats.

Russia's army and navy may be stronger than Baltic leaders fear, but so far as can be estimated the remainder of the old fleet have been reinforced with four battleships and 12 destroyers, all bearing names from the revolution, such as Lenin and Rykoff.

Nine Russian submarines have been built during the last ten years, and one British submarine that sank outside Kronstadt in 1919 has been lifted and repaired. All these submarines carry from eight to 40 mines.

MICHAEL WINBURN ESTATE APPRAISED AT $4,807,367 NET

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The estate of Michael Winburn, former New York advertising man and founder of the Omega Chemical company, maker of Omega oil, who moved to Paris a quarter of a century ago and died on Nov. 13, 1930, was appraised today at $6,032,230 gross and $4,807,367 net, of which $5,751,296 was in securities.

The securities consisted chiefly of two holdings, 31,000 shares National Biscuit company, worth $2,426,990, and 3,000 Omega Chemical company, having a par value of $100 each, which were appraised at $2,732,172. He also owned 3,000 Union Pacific common worth $546,375.

More than $800,000 of the estate will go eventually to charities, chiefly to organizations to aid animals. Mr. Winburn gave a life interest in half the estate and $100,000 in cash to his wife, Marie Winburn, of 4 Avenue Foch, Paris.

DEBORAH PAYNE, CHURCH WORKER 40 YEARS, DIES

Miss Deborah Payne, 62 years old, for 40 years a deaconess and worker in the Episcopal church in Chicago and New York City, died yesterday in the Keystone hospital. Miss Payne, who made her home with her sister Mrs. Wesley Paulson, 5341 Dakin street, had been on the staff of the Church of the Advent, 2610 North Francisco avenue, for the last seven years. Funeral services will be held tomorrow evening at the Church of the Advent. The body will be taken to Pittsburgh for burial.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

TEN TUGS TOW BURNED FRENCH LINER INTO PORT

CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 7 (Saturday).—(AP)—The smoldering hulk of what four days ago was the luxurious liner Atlantique, towed by a small fleet of fussing tugs, slowly entered the outer roads of this port shortly after midnight and cast anchor. The vessel will be taken into the inner roads later today.

Naval authorities already have made preparations to place the liner in Le Homet dock as soon as feasible. There the full extent of the damage from the fire which attacked the ship in the English channel Wednesday can be ascertained.

The operation of bringing in the Atlantique, which burned with the loss of 18 members of the crew, was effected by ten tugs directed by Capt. Schoofs, master of the ship, who stood on a deck of the ruined liner.

The tugs of five nations—France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland and Denmark—participated in the salvage and it is expected that a naval court will have to settle the various salvage claims. The tugs became involved in a veritable "war" at sea over priority rights and their crews several times cut each other's towing lines.

INHERITANCE TAX ON ROCK ISLAND ESTATE IS $4,580

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Illinois inheritance taxes aggregating $4,580 are imposed on legacies under the will of Dr. E. Franc Morrill of Rock Island, who, until her death last Jan. 26, was supreme medical director of the Royal Neighbors of America, according to an order signed today by Judge George D. Long of Rock Island County court.

The value of the estate, determined only as to Illinois holdings, is placed at a net of $45,428.12. Dr. Morrill also owned real estate in Florida and West Virginia, in addition to other holdings in other states.

Life interests appraised at $14,915.50 and $9,659.16 were left to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ethelyn Morrill of Rock Island, and a friend, Miss Olive Almon of Rock Island, respectively. Four trust funds for the advancement of education work in the southwestern diocese of the Episcopal church, comprising the mountain districts of Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, were created by the will.

RYERSON ESTATE TO PAY $28,919 INHERITANCE TAX

A state inheritance tax of $28,919 on the estate of Donald M. Ryerson, chairman of the board of the Joseph T. Ryerson Steel company, who shot and killed himself at his Lake Forest home on May 8 was approved yesterday by County Judge Perry L. Persons at Waukegan.

The appraisal for the assessment was filed by Attorney Paul M. La Rose. It set the fair and market value of the estate at $609,198.

The share of the widow, Mrs. Isabelle McGenniss Ryerson, is shown to be $312,099, and that of the three minor children, Anthony, Isabelle and Joan, is listed at $297,099. The respective inheritance taxes on these divisions are $15,209 and $13,709.

Cermak Advises Business Men to Demand Economy

Business men must demand economy in government or they'll never get it, Mayor Cermak last night warned 400 members of the Woodlawn Business Men's association. He, State's Attorney Courtney and others spoke at the association's inauguration of officers at the Hayes hotel, 64th street and University avenue. The new officers are Herbert A. Byfield, president; Joseph H. Grayson, vice president, and John Doughty, Al Stengel and Ralph B. Sternberg, directors.

$5,000,000 NET ESTATE IS LEFT BY GEO. J. GOULD

Widow Receives 4 Million in Trust Fund.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The estate of George J. Gould, eldest son of Jay Gould, who died at his home in Lakewood, N. J., on May 16, 1923, finally was adjusted today with the filing of a transfer tax appraisal by Deputy State Tax Commissioner Maurice A. Stephenson. Mr. Gould left a net estate of $5,175,590, the bulk of which is bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Guinevere Sinclair Gould Dunsford of Kent, England, and the balance to ten children.

Nine Millions in Deductions.

When Mr. Gould died the apparent gross assets of his estate were $15,054,627. In the course of the appraisal claims were filed against the estate totaling 400 millions. These were settled for $7,12 ,350. The total deductions from the gross assets, including the amount paid in the settlement of claims, was $9,879,036. Of this amount the $7,135,350 paid in settlement of the 400 million in claims grew out of the litigation involved in charges of mismanagement against Mr. Gould and three other children, who were administrators of the estate of Jay Gould.

The appraisal shows that the executors paid various debts amounting to $309,448. The fees paid to attorneys who defended Mr. Gould in the suit over his father's estate were $1,292,371.

The New York taxable property was in real estate in Ulster and Delaware counties, disposed of at $43,188; personal effects at Arkville, Delaware county, $16,812, and other effects at 165 Broadway, $592. Among the effects were 42 pen and ink India alphabet cartoons valued at $200; a pair of brown horses, $300, and a pair of gray horses, $150.

Will Revert to Children.

The widow receives $4,000,000 in trust. At her death the fund is to be distributed among Mr. Gould's three children by her, Guinevere, George Sinclair, and Jane Sinclair Gould, all of Kent, England.

The residuary estate goes in equal shares to these three children and the seven children by his first wife, Edith Kingdon Gould. They are Kingdon and Jay Gould, both of Lakewood; Marjorie Gould Drexel of Basses Pyrenees, France; Lady Decies [who died on Feb. 3, 1931]; George Gould Jr. of Vaucresson, France; Edith Gould MacNeal of Pasadena, Cal., and Gloria Gould Barker of 414 East 52d street.

RETURN VERDICT OF MURDER.

A coroner's jury voted yesterday that Frank Sikora, 40 years old, of 3223 North avenue, who was shot and killed by his friend, David Zaleski, 39, of 3732 Waveland avenue, was murdered. Zakeski shot and killed himself at the time.

Enjoy Winter Vacation in Arizona

Audrey and Beverly Bartlett, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bartlett of Lake Forest, are among the most skilled young equestriennes in the Chicago colony at Phoenix, Ariz. Like all the other Phoenix vacationers, they spend most of their days on horseback riding through the desert and over the beautiful mountain trails.

Bathing Suits Are as Brief as Good Wit

Clever Young Designers Show Skill.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A lot of bright young people must have been busy thinking and designing and planning the new and brilliantly colored winter resort bathing clothes. Even though you are not buying the tickets that take you where you can wear these eye filling new things, the wise shopper spends quite a few hours around these collections. And very shrewd shoppers buy the best looking costumes they can discover, and then practically panic the beat beaches next summer with their stunning selections.

Most of the beach robes and two piece pajamas are made of toweling . . . you will see snowy white robes lined with a distracting bit of red and white Scotch plaid cotton, others of butter yellow that are unlined, but reach dizzy heights of splendor with copper buttons that are as large as a pan lid.

A good gay Irish green robe, of course, buttons with glittering brass buttons, and a navy blue affair buttons across the chest also with nautical looking brass buttons that have small anchors impressed upon the smooth brass surface.

Beach pajamas are still swashbuckling affairs with wide tailored trousers, but if you sun yourself on southern beaches, you will buy some of the newer striped trousers that must have been copied from the swanky striped masculine garments that the man about town wears for special afternoon dress parade events.

One yellow pair of trousers, made of toweling in a nice cheerful yellow tint, is positively a knockout with pencil line stripes of dark green, then for a strong Irish accent, a kelly green toweling coat is worn for a splendid contrast. Huge chromium metal buttons hold it together.

Another beach pajama worthy of the most definite beach lounger, is made of smooth jersey with one-color trousers fastened to a horizontally striped blouse top. These pajamas are all-in-one even though they look divided. Big brassy buttons outline the shoulder seams from round neckline to the edge of the very brief sleeves. This piratical looking ensemble comes in bright red or sea blue . . . and small basque berets are what you wear for a fashionable and fitting skull covering.

Bathing suits are as brief as good wit . . . much of the skin of the sun-tanning or swimming vacationist will be exposed, more than last year whether you believe it or not.

This year fashionable swim suits seem to be a maze of interlacing straps and loops, achieving rather a harness effect, that looks much more complicated than they really are. Look for the new gray swim suits . . . clever all gray models that are stunning with bronzed sun tanned beauties, or the gray suits accented with small bits of color. One good looking affair is contrasted at the neckline with triangles of cerise, another with white and others with deep sapphire blue or green.

Color is raging rampant among the white bathing or swim suits . . . sparkling white jerseys have three wild color combinations, cerise, purple and a jade green, while lemon yellow, burnt orange and black scream from the seams and shoulders of yet another model.

And for a good giggle, look for the yellow rubber swim suits that are infinitely interesting. Very short "shorts" and a scrap of yellow top are fashioned of flexible yellow rubber that looks exactly like a smart novelty knit fabric.

If you want excitement and thrills, go shopping for the newest creations evolved for winter and summer seagoing fashionable swimmers and beach loungers.

Thousand Guests Invited to Church Rites.

BY JUDITH CASS.

One thousand guests have been invited to attend the wedding of Miss Julia Lilly House of Chicago, daughter of Mrs. William Henry House of Evansville, Ind., to John M. Kohler Jr. of Chicago, son of former Gov. and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler of Kohler, Wis., at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church in Evansville. The reception to follow the ceremony at the residence of the bride's mother is to be a smaller affair for about 200 guests.

Calla lilies, palms and tall candles will decorate the altar. Harry E. von Tobel, who played the "Lohengrain" march at the wedding of the bride's parents, will be at the organ.

The bride, who is to be given in marriage by her uncle, Ernest House of Gallatin, Tenn., is to wear a long trained gown of duchesse satin with a berthe of the same duchesse lace that was worn by her mother on her wedding day. Her tulle veil, edged with Alencon lace, will be arranged in cap effect with a wreath of orange blossoms. She is to carry a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. Henry Pope Matron of Honor.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Henry Pope Jr. of Chicago, is to wear a gown of Lucille blue crepe. The bridesmaids are Miss Audrey McGrath of Chicago, Miss Jane Busteed of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Dorothy Hutchinson of Evansville, and Miss Marcia Purmert of Vanwert, O. Miss McGrath's gown is of hyacinth blue, Miss Busteed's of magenta blue, Miss Hutchinson's a deep violet blue, and Miss Purmert's a Riviera blue. All of the gowns are fashioned on simple lines, with long skirts slightly trailing, necklines high in front and cut low in back, and puffed sleeves to the elbow. They all are to wear turbans and sandals of the same shade as their gowns and carry tiny muffs on which will be fastened bouquets of English violets.

The bridegroom's brother, Walter J. Kohler Jr., is to serve as best man and the groomsmen will be Robert and Carl Kohler, Frederick Krez of Plymouth, Wis.; Godfrey Steel and Richard McGinnis of Evansville, Collins Waller Jr. of Morganfield, Ky., and Henry Pope.

The bride and bridegroom are to leave for the east after the reception and will sail from New York on the 14th for a three months' honeymoon in Spain, Italy, and the Riviera. After April 1 they will reside at the Whitehall.

Among the out-of-town guests will be the bridegroom's parents, who took a late train for Evansville from Chicago last night after having been Mrs. Fortunato Jerace's guests at the Arts club tea and later at dinner and the theater; Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Pearse of Winnetka, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hanson of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. David Laun of Evanston, Donald Stookey of Hinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Kissel and Charles Gary of Chicago, and Mrs. William Pope of Winnetka.

Victory Seen in Drive for Music Temple

Mrs. Borden Presides at Rally Meeting.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Friends of Music, in the midst of their drive for the new Temple of Music, were told yesterday in their meeting at Orchestra hall foyer that their goal of $100,000, while by no means reached yet, does not seem impossible of fulfillment.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy announced that more than 3,000 books of twenty coupons each have been issued, which when sold will amount to more than $60,000. Mrs. Walter Borden, presiding at the meeting, read two telegrams from famous stars of the former Civic Opera stars pledging their heartfelt support.

The first, addressed to her personally, read: "You can always count on me for everything that will build up music in Chicago. Mary Garden."

The second, a communication to the Friends of Music as an organization, was as follows:

"My heartiest congratulations for the success of this marvelous project that the Chicago Friends of Music are sponsoring, which should prove one of the outstanding features of the World's Fair. I am only too happy to become one of its subscribers. I am herewith telegraphing entrance fee. Lots of luck and my fondest regards to all the participants in this wonderful achievement. Tito Schipa."

Dr. J. Lewis Browne, head of the music department of the Chicago public schools, spoke for Superintendent Bogan, who was unable to be present.

"You know that some of the teachers have not been paid for eight months," he said. "For that reason I was a little hesitant about presenting the plan to them. But to their everlasting honor, they have refused to stay out. From the 14,500 school teachers of Chicago you can count upon a large following. Mr. Bogan not long ago told the school board that music was more important than mathematics, and he proved it to them. He pledges his full support."

Other addresses were made by Mrs. Charles S. Clarke, president of the conference of club presidents and program chairman; Dr. Borowski, conductor of the Philharmonic orchestra of Warsaw, Poland; Ebba Sundstrom, conductor of the Woman's Symphony orchestra; Francis Nielson, and others.

The performances of "Carmen," previously announced to open at the Eighth Street theater next Monday night under the slogan of "dollar opera, have been postponed two weeks. Word from the Chicago Opera Producing company, under whose direction the season was announced, tells that at a late moment eighteen members of the chorus left to go to another unnamed opera company. It therefore became necessary to rehearse another ensemble in order to give a smoothly running performance, a process which will consume two weeks.

The box office of the Eighth Street theater will be open from 1 to 4 o'clock each afternoon, during which hours patrons who have already bought tickets may either have their money refunded or make an exchange for the postponed opening.

Yankee Accent Costs Singer Job in France

ELSA HOTTENGER.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The Frenchman at Marseilles was so very polite about it. He sighed as he said:

"Mademoiselle, it makes me sad, but I must break your contract. You sing no beautiful, but, mademoiselle, you have an American accent."

Miss Elsa Hottenger, a Chicago mezzo-contralto, looked him straight in the eye as she replied:

"You mean, monsieur, that I AM an American."

"Mais, no," he protested. "That is too absurd. We love the Americans, don't we?"

"Do you?" she queried.

Then the two shook hands. The man went back to directing the municipal opera at Marseilles. The girl sailed for America.

On the way to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hottenger, 549 Fullerton parkway, Chicago, she received a wire from Washington club women inviting her to stop off here and tell about the broken contract.

"The excuse that I had an American accent was just a subterfuge," Miss Hottenger declared today as she appeared before the District Federation of Women's Clubs. "Of course, I have a slight one. I had been singing all over France for four years and nobody ever seemed to mind it, until jobs got scarce.

"Then they wanted to get the Americans out and let the French artists in. Now, I don't blame that Frenchman one single bit. But I do wish American managers would take the same point of view."

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, agrees with Miss Hottenger. Mrs. Poole said:

"France did just the right thing. She has set an excellent example which I hope our managers will heed."

Miss Hottenger is staying on in Washington to sing at the board meeting of the federation on Jan. 12. Then she will return to Chicago. Mrs. Poole plans to write to the Chicago Women's club asking them to take an interest in the case.

My Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

That octopus, Crooked Politics, with its long, gangland tentacles, is the writhing subject of this screen melodrama, adapted from the stage play, "Merry-Go-Round."

"Afraid to Talk" has no pretty moments. It's ugly and revolting every step of the way. But the story is an honest one, well acted and directed, and it holds your interest, if not your liking.

The tale concerns an innocent bellhop who is "framed" to take the rap for the murder of a racketeer who has been killed by a fellow gangster under political protection.

The boy is saved only at the last minute—after having endured the tortures of the damned—by a group of honest officials who unearth the smelly plot of the conspirators and haul it forth, reeking, into the light of what one hopes will be a fair, new, political day.

Eric Linden is rather callike for the role of married man, but, barring his youth and kiddish mannerisms, is not half bad as the bellhop. Sidney Fox is pretty and sincere as his wee, terrified wife. Politicians, honest and otherwise, gangsters and attendant small fry are exceedingly well represented by adept players—as a glance at the cast will convince you.

Should any local banditti care to see themselves as others see them, this time in this week and the place is the State-Lake theater.

Bishop from Chicago Officiates at Rites of Orthodox Church

Tarpon Springs, Fla., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Holding aloft a golden cross he had retrieved from the bottom of the bayou, a frail, curly haired young schoolboy today was the central figure in the celebration of the pageant of the epiphany by the Greek Orthodox church.

Johnny Kardgulias, 16, knelt before the bishop presiding over the ceremony and received the blessing of his church and the plaudits of thousands who lined the natural amphitheater surrounding the bayou, because he was able to bring up the cross the bishop had a moment before tossed into the water.

Kardoulias, according to tradition, will be especially fortunate in the year to come.

Six young men, chosen by church dignitaries, dived into the water as Bishop Callistos, here from Chicago as a representative of the archbishop of the church, threw the crucifix into the bayou, symbolical of the baptism of Jesus Christ by John the Baptist.

Dressed in regal vestments of the second highest dignitary of the church in the western hemisphere, Bishop Callistos opened the thirtieth ceremony of its kind ever held here with high mass at dawn.

Mrs. Lucy Linn Wins in Beauty Contest at Emerson House Ball

The last big supper dance of the season was held last night in the Urban room of the Congress hotel, and aside from the indisputable fact that it was one of the gayest and most colorful parties of the year, it proclaimed Mrs. Howard Linn as a beauty winner. The affair was for the benefit of Emerson House settlement.

Some 600 guests, mostly of the debutante and young married set, applauded as the selection by Mrs. Austin Young, the judge of the beauty contest, was announced. In the beauty contest besides Mrs. Linn were Louise Neff, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Jean Stevens, Mrs. Solomon Smith, and Honore White.

The dance was preceded by numerous dinner parties and many of the guests went to the Congress from the Casino, where Mrs. Henry H. Porter gave a dinner dance for her three daughters-in-law, Mrs. Henry H. Porter Jr., Mrs. Sartell Prentice Porter, and Mrs. John Pierrepont Porter.

The young women who sponsored the dance estimated that the proceeds would be about $700. In line with the present trend toward economy, the cost of tickets was only $2 per person, plus a small charge for supper.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

What to do with all the waste material in a house! From the outdoor wire basket trash burner to the ultra modern chimney fed basement incinerator there is a wide range of incinerators available—at whatever price you can afford. This waste disposal problem is an important one, since immediate and complete disposal of waste material is necessary from both the standpoint of health and of fire menace. Portable or built-in, an incinerator is a big convenience. Its combustion should be rapid and as complete as possible to prevent a smouldering fire. And the small amount of ash left from the incinerator—excepting from metal, glass, and tin—can be used as a fertilizer in the garden.

Mary E. Parker Chosen Wisconsin "U" Prom Queen

Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Miss Mary E. Parker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Parker, Glencoe, Ill., tonight was revealed as this year's University of Wisconsin junior prom queen by Charles Hanson, Omaha, Neb., prom king.

The occasion for the announcement was a pre-prom dance, one of the institution's most brilliant social functions at the Memorial Union building. The identity of the prom queen has been guarded closely for several weeks.

Miss Parker is a member of Delta Gamma sorority and is majoring in the study of psychology at the university.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

CLASS DAY.

"Well, boys, there is much to accomplish in this New Year and your first lesson finds your old professor dwelling again on the importance, nay, the necessity, of quick and accurate observation. As I've told you before its value in crime detection simply cannot be overestimated. Visualization and observation are handmaidens so I'm going to give you, this morning, a problem on what I might call inner-observation. It calls for memory and concentration as well.

"This time you are on your honor. You must not DRAW anything or have any OBJECT IN FRONT OF YOU. You must 'see' with your mind and not your eye. You may write only the questions I'm going to give you. The answers must be arrived at by visualization.

"Now, imagine a three inch cube (three inches cubical) painted black.

"Number one. How many times must you cut completely through the above to make one inch cubes?

"Number two. After you have done this how many cubes will have three black sides?

"Number three. How many cubes will have two black sides?

"Number four. How many cubes one black side?

"Number five. How many cubes NO black sides?

"Remember, you are NOT permitted to draw a cube. It should take you only a few seconds to answer each question but you will be marked on accuracy rather than speed."

The above was presented to Prof. Fordney by Roger R. Wilferding, Chicago, Ill., for a class day problem.

Perhaps you have one you would like the professor to submit to his class. If so send it to him in care of this paper and he will be delighted to see what his students make of it.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four masted ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a south sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title, known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, an unemployed French chauffeur, named Raoul, Roberta Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. Henery makes profitable trades at Cape Town, Sydney, Australia, and Japan. Then the ship sails to the island where the sunken treasure craft is located. Capt. Hiram, Adam and Peter take turns diving for the oysters. They have them all aboard when they are beset by a ruffianly crew of a strange yacht, headed by Capt. Derring, who turns out to be Ladybird's husband and aware of the sunken treasure. He demands the oysters and divies rig. Peter, knowing the oysters contain no pearls and that the girls must be protected, advises giving them up, which Roberta interprets as yellowness. Capt. Hiram agrees with Peter. Derring boards the four master and orders his yacht to tow it out to sea, where the shell is transferred. Then Derring starts trouble and is thrown overboard. Before he can reach his boat he is attacked and killed by a shark. Out at sea again the crew study the directions left by Mordecai.

INSTALLMENT XLII.

THE HIDDEN PEARLS.

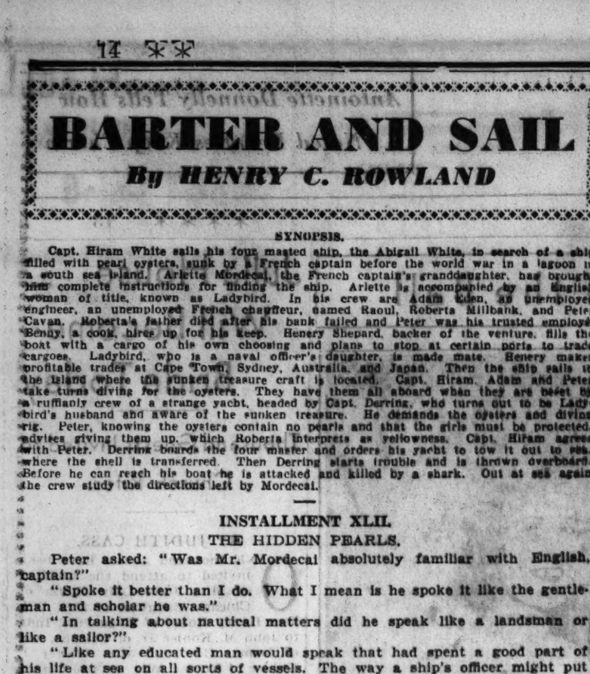
Peter asked: "Was Mr. Mordecai absolutely familiar with English, captain?"

"Spoke it better than I do. What I mean is he spoke it like the gentleman and scholar he was."

"In talking about nautical matters did he speak like a landsman or like a sailor?".

"Like any educated man would speak that had spent a good part of his life at sea on all sorts of vessels. The way a ship's officer might put things. Why?"

"Because," said Peter, "there are several things about the way these directions are put that strike me as well—note worthy. Would you say for instance, 'The sunk auxiliary lighter rests in middle of lagoon?'"



Roberta took the paper, her face went pale.

"I'd probably say 'The sunk auxiliary lighter is on bottom,' or 'lies' maybe."

"Would you say 'Under about seven fathoms?'"

"No, 'in' seven fathoms."

"Why should Mr. Mordecai have stressed the importance of salving this tub when he counted on there being a treasure in pearl oysters aboard her? He'd know as a mariner of experience that it would be a tough job, Ir. fact nobody would think it worth while to tackle it if there were no pearls, would they?"

Capt. Hiram shook his head. "Nor if there were for that matter when it was so much easier to send down a diver."

"Why at the end should Mr. Mordecai have said 'study my directions from every angle or you may fail entirely?' Why 'every angle?' What other angle is there besides that of reading carefully what's written here?"

Ladybird asked: "You think it is cryptic—hidden, I mean, like a code?"

"That's occurred to me. A simple one. Something that he might have expected his son, for whom he wrote these directions, to get hold of immediately. He looked at Arlette. "Your father was a naval officer. Do you know if he had anything to do with the Intelligence?"

She shook her head. "I don't know."

"There's another thing," Peter said. "These directions are not written continuously from beginning to end. There are three parts or paragraphs, almost like verse. As if each was a separate stanza. The first two have six lines each, and the lines are not written right to the margin of the page a you might expect."

"Gosh! Peter, you're hot!" Adam said. "Lets see."

He took the sheet and studied it, then said: "There's no rhyme or rhythm to them but Peter's right about their looking as if each line was a complete message, and then each verse a sort of summing up."

Roberta said: "Let Benny try. He's the only expert on poetry aboard."

The old cook studied the script, then said:

"Give me a pencil somebody."

One was furnished. Benny went down the text making some annotations opposite the beginning of each line. He studied them, then shook his head.

"Don't make no sense. Second verse might but taint spelt right."

"What are you trying, Benny?" Roberta asked.

He gave her a whimsical look. "What you call acrostics. Used to write 'em to a gal I had when I was in school. She was too dumb to catch on till I showed her."

"Let's see—" Roberta took the paper. Her face went pale. Then she shrieked.

Ladybird snatched at the paper. She looked at it. Then she shrieked and she was not the shrieking sort. Arlette staring over her shoulder let out a shriek that was more prolonged.

The paper fluttered from Arlette's limp hand. She clasped Ladybird and the two rocked back and forth laughing hysterically. But Roberta was staring at the grizzled old sea cook.

"Benny," she said. "That lets you in. Your poetry may have been a frozen asset all your life, but now the spring thaw has released it."

Capt. Hiram puckered his brows. "What's p-o-e-l-e?" he asked.

"'Stove', skipper," came a chorus.

The captain was the first to recover from the shock of the revelation. He startled and surprised the others with a groan that seemed to come from the depths of a shattered soul.

The three girls looked at him dismayed. Then the skipper's groan was echoed by Peter.

"My word," cried Ladybird, "what's struck you?" Let's have it quick or we'll start fainting."

"Don't you see, mate," said the captain dismally, "what Benny's doped out reads:

"Which translated means "find pearls stove,'" said Ladybird. "That ought to be plain enough."

Henery lamented: "Too gol derned plain! The old gentleman for some reason put the pearls in the lighter's cook stove."

"Like as not in the pickel jar," said Benny.

"But why in the name of common sense," Adam asked, "should Mr. Mordecai have harped so on the necessity of raising the darned lighter when all a diver had to do was to take the pearls out of the stove?"

Peter answered this reasonable query. "He was playing safe on the chance of his directions getting into the wrong hands. In that case all anybody had to do was to come here with a diving rig and get the pearls."

"Yes," agreed the captain, "but he reasoned that his son or I myself perhaps, would have the wit to see that there was no sense at all in salving the lighter and therefore we'd suspect that part of it was a blind and try to study out what it was all about. To give a hint he says 'study my directions from every angle' and for forth."

"But why couldn't he have told one of you that?" Adam persisted.

"I'd say we were both out of touch when he was taken sick and decided he was done for and wrote these direction. And now he said bitterly, "our only suit of armor has gone off in that damn pearler. Something ought to fall on me from aloft and knock open that hollow in my head where my brains ought to be."

Sam Goldwyn Tells Contract Given Colman

Actor Can Refuse to Make Any Movie.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—In talking to Sam Goldwyn, the producer who holds Ronald Colman's contract, and against whom [under Goldwyn's corporate name] Colman has a $3,000,000 suit pending, charging the producer with responsibility for publicity matter which Colman regards as libelous, I heard for the first time details of one of Hollywood's unusual and most favorable contracts.

It is Colman's contract for the next two years of employment by Goldwyn. These two years will begin at the conclusion of Colman's present film with Elissa Landi and Juliette Compton called "The Masquerader."

Under provisions of this unusual contract, Goldwyn granted Colman the right to make, or not to make, films as the English actor sees fit during the next two years. But Colman has the right to compel Goldwyn to produce Colman films if the actor chooses. The only whereases stipulate that Colman must give Goldwyn four months' notice and that Colman may not make films for anybody else until the two years are up.

As to the salary, Goldwyn says that it has to be arbitrated to suit Colman's approval. "We agreed on Mr. Colman's salary for 'The Masquerader' by arbitration," the producer said. "In doing so I always give him the figures on the profits from the last Colman films."

If this is not close to a Hollywood record for a favorable contract it's as close as this writer knows about.

Colman is thinking about dropping out of films for the next two years and making no pictures, according to the latest report. This is because of the actor's serious—but most of Hollywood thinks, mistaken—belief that he must continue to make an issue out of the publicity items that affronted him.

Goldwyn takes the matter of the $2,000,000 damage suit not lightly, but philosophically.

"Colman is a fine man and a fine actor," he says, "and I regret that he felt so badly about anything in our business relationship that he felt compelled to take the stand he did. All I can say is, that Ronnie was very badly advised. I don't think that two million dollar suit will ever get to court. I don't know what his intentions are about making more films, but I say truthfully that the films he has made under my production have all of them been successes, been the kind of pictures that an actor who is a gentleman can feel proud of, and, more than that, they have been the means of making Colman the outstanding and highly paid actor that he is today.

Marlene Dietrich says: "I am going back to 'Song of Songs,' the film that Paramount sued me about, not because I feel differently about making it from what I did before, but because I am forced to take this step to avoid all the delays and worries that I would undergo in fighting the Paramount lawsuit."

The actress said she had been advised by her attorney it would take at least four months of idleness before the suit could come to trial. Before four months are up she expects to have completed "Song of Songs," finished out her Paramount contract, which expires Feb. 17, and returned to Germany.

Dr. D. F Griffin of New York, who was here so quietly to spend the holidays with his wife, Irene Dunne, that nobody knew he was here, is en route back to the east and his professional duties. Miss Dunne is in the midst of the half finished film, "The Lady," at M-G-M with Phillips Holmes.

Urges Patience with Mother-in-Law

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Should a woman of 53, in perfect health, sit at home and have her son keep her while her daughter-in-law goes to work every day? Or shouldn't she give the young people the right to start married life the way it should be? The mother is an excellent housekeeper and could easily find work to do in some home.

"She is a widow. The son helped furnish the home before he married, so it isn't her home any more than his. But she is the boss. Handles all the money. The young pair would like to have a baby, but with the mother they feel they can't afford it. Now, if the mother lives ten, twenty, thirty years, what chance has the young couple? B. E."

Could the mother very easily find a position as housekeeper? Have you, the complainant, tried to find work of recent days? Is it a simple matter for a woman of 53 to get work?

True, it would be the more perfect arrangement were the mother off on her own. It's always best for two families to be under separate roofs. But who in this world has everything just the way it is wanted? Doesn't every one have to make concessions of one sort or another? And is it humane to dump a woman of 53 out into a wage earning world at this particular economic moment?

It isn't an argument to be settled with shoulds and shouldn'ts. There are faults on both sides, of course. But the humane element is the only one to be considered for the future success of all concerned.

If the baby is truly wanted let the baby come! It will be afforded! It's probably exactly what the home needs to humanize the atmosphere. Mother would come in mighty handy.

The mother-in-law situations are difficult, and the only way under heaven they can be made amiable is that both the older and the younger woman concede they're difficult, but that they're going to be different. They're not going to follow the traditional pattern of hate and competition and mean bickerings. Mother is going to recognize the young couple's rights and the young couple is going to assume the parental responsibility as a humane responsibility, not as a hated cross. Otherwise there's no hope for peace under one roof.

Arts Club Opens New Year.

The Arts club started the new year yesterday with one of the largest and most successful affairs in its history—the tea to open exhibitions of Claude Monet's paintings and the Isabel Carleton Wilde collection of early American folklore.

Tea was served by members at tables dressed with white carnations and laurel wreaths in white enameled urns set in gold wire containers. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the president was surrounded all through the afternoon by groups of friends who wanted to congratulate her on the magnificent art show and to be introduced to her guests, the celebrated German dancer, Mary Wigman, and Walt Kuhn, the artist.

Graham Aldis will preside at the luncheon that the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations is to give today at the Palmer house for James R. Beverly, governor of Porto Rico, who is to speak on "Our Policy in Porto Rico." With Gov. Beverly and Mr. and Mrs. Aldis at the speakers' table there will be Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Moore, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lichtenstein, Col. and Mrs. Edward Davis, Charles E. Herrick, Voris Seaman, Miss Marion McFadden, and her fiancé, James P. Hume.

Among those who have made reservations for luncheon tables are Mr. and Mrs. Sydney B. Snow, Stuart H. Otis, Mrs. Howard E. Chickering, Mrs. Arthur Evans, Russell Tyson, Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Waller Borden.

Next Thursday Prof. Samuel N. Harper of the University of Chicago will speak on "A Third Visit to Soviet Russia" before the Council of Foreign Relations at a luncheon, also at the Palmer house. Mr. Harper, who had an extensive acquaintance with czarist Russia, has cotinued his studies during the post-war period, having visited the soviet union in 1926, 1930, and again in 1932.

Friends of China to Meet Today.

The American Friends of China will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren Everett at a meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in their apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Everett is to talk about Zen Buddhism in China and her experiences in a Zen monastery in Japan.

Mrs. Ernest De Wees Salmon is to give a luncheon and bridge for Miss Helen Marie Castle, Mrs. Frederick L. McNally's debutante daughter, on Tuesday, Jan. 17, at her apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Edward F. Swift will depart in about 10 days to spend the winter in Phoenix, Ariz., and California. Her new great-granddaughter, who was born last week to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley, will be going home next week with her mother from St. Luke's hospital. Young Mr. and Mrs. Kelley have not decided on a name for their daughter.

Despite the fact that Miss Libby Chase was awfully rushed this week getting ready to sail today with Miss Josephine Patterson and Mrs. Joseph Brooks for a hunting trip in Africa and India, she managed to find time last Monday to show the boys at Arden Shore camp the motion pictures she took on her last adventurous voyage to Australia with Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. Livingston Fairbank sailed from New York yesterday on the Bremen to join Mr. Fairbank and their little son at their Paris residence.

News from Palm Beach.

Although we weren't able to locate Mrs. George Rasmussen yesterday to find out just when she is planning to leave for Palm Beach, our correspondent writes that the winter residents at the Florida resort are looking forward to the Rasmussens' arrival.

The Rasmussens' home there is numbered among the most beautiful residences in Palm Beach. It houses a collection of old masters and exquisite art objects, including carved ivories, rare old needlepoint, and other things collected by Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen on their annual visits abroad.

Mrs. Rasmussen's charities in Palm Beach have been extensive and she has managed them in the same quiet way that she does her Chicago philanthropies. One of her most important benefactions was her contribution to the dental clinic of the Kiwanis club which cares for underprivileged school children at Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Pond Ordway of New York, formerly of Lake Forest, have opened their Palm Beach house on Banyan road and on New Year's eve gave a buffet supper and dance for a group of their friends and friends of their two young sons.

Otto Luening, the composer, and Mrs. Luening started to drive to San Francisco yesterday after having spent a week in Chicago. They were much entertained during their stay here. Besides the large luncheon given for them by the American Opera society, they were given a luncheon by Miss Emily Larned and another by Mrs. Louis E. Yager. They also were guests at the Orville Thompsons' New Year's day reception.

Reception for Mrs. Boulton.

The Renaissance society of the University of Chicago will hold a reception for Mrs. Rudyerd Boulton on Monday from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Commons at Wieboldt hall at 1050 East 59th street. There will be a private view of Mrs. Boulton's collection of African musical instruments and other native craftwork for members and guests in the Renaissance gallery from 3 to 5:30 o'clock.

The foreign films that have been shown at International house under the auspices of the Renaissance society have been so enthusiastically received that they are to be continued throughout the season. A series of French movies was shown before the holidays and the first of a group of German pictures will be given next Tuesday at 4:30, 7:30, and 9:30 o'clock. Performances will be given each Tuesday at the same hours.

Mrs. Homer Bang is chairman of a bridge luncheon to be given for the benefit of the Church Mission of Help on Monday at the Early American tea shop at 664 Rush street. Among those on the committee are Mrs. Hubert P. Harmon, Mrs. Duncan H. Browne, Mrs. James H. Hooper, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. George O. Clinch, and Mrs. George R. Dean. Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson of Lake Forest is chairman of the mission board.

The Ladies of the Consuls of Chicago will hold a luncheon and card party next Tuesday at the Belden-Stratford hotel.

Presidents of Clubs Discuss Plans for Congress of Women

Eighty presidents of women's clubs in the Chicago area attended a tea musical yesterday at the Palmer house at which Mrs. Gertrude Loys Hoffman was hostess, to discuss plans for the feminine congress during the Century of Progress exposition. Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, local chairman for the campaign of the National Council of Women to obtain signatures of 1,000,000 women; Miss Helen Bennett, and Mrs. Francis Johnson made brief talks.

Women of New York City already have in hand 84,000 names on the petitions there and are so certain of reaching their quota of 100,000 before Chicago does that they issued a challenge for a race for the names. Headquarters for the campaign are open in the Republic building here, Mrs. Hardy said, but Chicago is far behind New York City in its total. The petitions are to be sent to foreign governments, asking them to delegate their most famous women to participate in the congress.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Open Canteens to Aid Women

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who, as wife of the assistant secretary of the navy, did volunteer work in a canteen in Washington during the war, is going to bring back to New York the wartime canteen. Instead of being opened for soldiers, however, Mrs. Roosevelt's canteens are going to be established for women—women without jobs. The wife of the President elect entertained today at her home in East 65th street a group of women to whom she explained her idea, and preliminary plans were laid.

Batavia Is Century Old; Plan for Celebration

Officials of Batavia have announced plans for a celebration of the city's 100th anniversary, to be held later in the year. Civic, school, and church organizations will participate in pageantry depicting the development of the community since the greeting of first settlers by Indians encamped on the Fox river.

Two Exhibits Hold Interest of Arts Club

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club opened yesterday one of its most important exhibits of the season, that of paintings of Claude Monet; and one of the most amusing and delightful exhibits it has ever held, that of early American folk painting from the Isabel Carleton Wilde collection. The two exhibitions taken together are priceless.

Claude Monet is one of the famous names of the last century, his fame running well over into the present century. He is a celebrated Frenchman. To him is attributed the discovery of the beauty of light in a painting. He is credited with painting a haystack day after day, from dawn till dusk, setting down on canvas the infinite and sometimes infinitesimal changes of the mound of hay under the shifting rays of the sun. Light and more light was his battle cry.

Monet is famous for his paintings of water lilies, and several canvases dealing with this subject may be found in the Art institute's permanent collection. He was famous for a certain radiant subdued light, almost an inner glow, that illuminated his work, definitely found in his portraits of young girls and his still life paintings of fruit and flowers. His more quiet earlier manner, illustrated in the Arts club exhibit, gradually developed into the impressionistic handling of vibrant color which means Monet now to most of us.

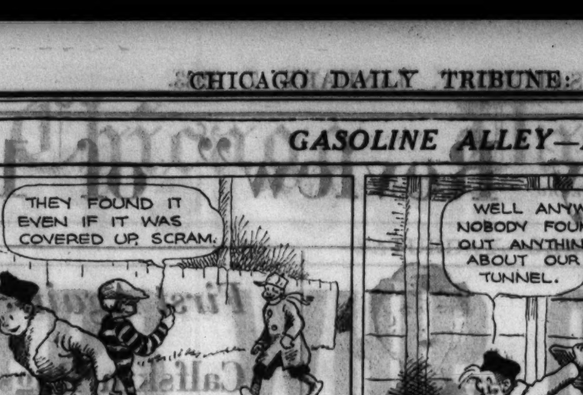
These early Monet paintings at the Arts club are important in themselves and in their building up of the character of their creator. They possess beauty, dignity and a rich sincerity.

The early American paintings are like pages from a child's book in contrast to the sober weight of the Frenchman's work. They are naive, fresh and childlike. They are graceful, whimsical and amusing. They run from serious portraits to pieces worked on velvet by young ladies in seminaries.

Contemporary American modernism has taken a leaf from their book and will probably infringe upon their copyright again. These early pictures would be hailed as a find in many a show of modern pictures. For their childlike sincerity we commend them, and wish the primitives of 1933 as original an outlook as that possessed by the ingenious artists of 1780 to 1860.

The exhibitions will continue to Jan. 31 and are well worth seeing.

Trim Down the Hips



An old favorite exercise that never fails to trim down the hips. If you can't bring the legs over the head, bring them as far as you can. And keep trying!

New Silhouette Must Be Slender but Supple, Too

Here's an Old Friend Among Exercises.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Alta" reports that she has taken gym courses, and they don't do her a bit of good. But "Alta" also reports her idea of a day's food needs. And what "Alta" reports is something appalling! Three pieces of buttered toast for breakfast; three rolls for lunch, and three for dinner. And this is just bread. She eats for luncheon and dinner a meal beside. And what meals!

Where've you been, "Alta," all these years when other girls have been learning to live beautifully on maintenance diets? Better get in personal communication with me about your true calorie needs. Then, we'll go into the gym question. Of course, they'd do you good if you kept them up and didn't go home and eat your head off.

I'm pleased to see how many girls are going in for exercise courses. I only wish more of you young women would get the habit. Older ones, too. At these classes I see girls who are attending not for reduction only, but for corrective work of one kind or another, and in a number of instances for more beautiful body building work. It's fun. It's not too expensive. And the need of muscle training is great.

I wish some of you older women would budget your "beautifying" money to include exercise treatment. Of course, you can exercise at home—but do you? Are you doing this series, for example? Some women are so constituted they have to be egged on, cheered on, encouraged daily. These I especially urge to sign up and be egged, cheered on, and encouraged. For, as said several times already, today's beautiful silhouette has to be not only slender, but flexibly slender, agile, youthful in movement. Exercise will give this. Diet alone won't.

*

Today we have what looks like an old friend and is an old friend, only I'm going to suggest that you do this on a long bench or table, gripping the sides for help. The floor will do, but the hand grip helps the beginner. From either position, bring the feet up overhead, or as nearly overhead as you can manage. Down; up; go easy at first. Don't strain. But this is an incomparable body stretching movement with particular hip benefit.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. George D. Pratt, their son, Sherman Pratt, and Mrs. Pratt's brother, Forbes Hale, sailed on the Bremen to attend the wedding of their youngest son, Eliot D. Pratt, and Miss Trude Wenzel at Konstance, Germany.

Mrs. Walton Ferguson and Miss Helen Ferguson left to pass six weeks at the Mountain Lake club at Lake Wales, Fla.

Mrs. Elisha Dyer sailed on the Majestic and will go to her villa near Monte Carlo for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas S. Gibbs gave a dinner party last evening in the Regency room of the Hotel Carlyle for the countess of Dudley and Col. Douglas W. Sanday.

Winter Skiing Suit Takes On Italian Airs

BY BETTINA BALDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Winter sports fashions are trying to break away from the grip of Norwegian ski suit styles. Women now at St. Moritz for their annual orgy of skiing and skating are wearing costumes that are varied somewhat from the practical suits they wore before.

The most attractive of these suits is one which Vera Borea designed and which is inspired by the uniform of certain Italian soldiers. Madame Borea is herself an Italian, and she has adapted this uniform in a most practical and chic fashion.

It is sketched today and consists of four pieces. The dark green gabardine trousers are tucked into heavy cream wool socks at the bottom and the side pockets button on white buttons on the left side, and on black on the right. The green gabardine military jacket buttons up the front on a row of black and a row of white buttons. The epaulettes end in little rolls of gabardine on the tips of the shoulders. There is a scarf and a shirt of red, green and cream coarse wool, and over this goes a sleeveless sweater knitted of the peasant wool of Italy. The belt on the jacket is of white pigskin.

The ski hat which goes with this ensemble is dark green felt and is trimmed with a green and cream wool cord with a green and a white pompom at the back.

There's Trick in Beating Eggs for Angel Food

Too Much, Little Keeps Cake from Rising.

BY MARY MEADE.

One day's mail includes question on fallen cakes, diabetes, carrots, turtles, ragtime parties, pent house suppers, curdled hams, sugared frostings, soggy doughnuts, lumpy sauces, weepy jellies, and recipes. These are just samples of the queries we are answering every day—and of the ones we hope you will ask us the next time a kitchen quandary turns up. Saturdays we clean house and offer you the answers to the most interesting of our week's questions. So here goes:

First, true to form, come cake troubles from Miss E. W.

She says: "I seem to have all kinds of trouble with my angel food. It rises 2½ inches when it should rise 4. Should all the sugar be folded in gradually to the beaten whites and the flour added later, or should part of the sugar be folded in after the other ingredients? My oven has no indicator. How can I test my starting temperature correctly? Also, what makes butter cake batters curdle and the cake become soggy and heavy?

Miss W., I am sending you my best loved angel food recipe through the mail. But, here, quickly, are the factors which may cause an angel food or sponge cake to have too small volume: Either under beating or over beating of the egg whites. This sounds contradictory, but the whites must be stiff enough to hold up in peaks or enough air will not have been incorporated. If they are too stiff, the film of the egg white that encloses the air bubble will be stretched too far and will break. Therefore never beat egg whites till dry.

Other things to avoid are over mixing of the ingredients, too much sugar, too hot an oven, damp flour, a greased pan, insufficient baking, or the removal of the cake from the pan before it is cold. It is best to fold all the sugar by spoonfuls into the egg white and then fold in the flour likewise. And, finally, don't try to bake such delicate things as angel foods without an oven thermometer. A portable oven thermometer may be purchased very reasonably and is essential to good baking.

A mixture of eggs, fat, sugar, and liquid will frequently seem to curdle in a butter cake, but if the flour is added alternately with the liquid, and the whole beaten till smooth, it should have no effect on the finished product. Soggy butter cakes become that way from too little leavening and flour to the proportion of shortening, fat, and liquid, or from incorrect baking temperature.

From Miss L. S. comes the next request: "Please advise how baked corn beef is prepared. What portion is purchased? How many pounds will serve sandwiches to 25 people at one sandwich apiece?"

Beef for corning is usually taken from the cheaper cuts—the plate, flank, shoulder, chuck, and rump. This means that there is much connective tissue and little fat, so baking or roasting in dry heat is inadvisable. Usually corn beef is boiled, but if it is desirable to cook a large piece, it may be cooked as a pot roast. To do this, brown all over in fat in a heavy, deep kettle, add a few diced carrots and onions, seasoning of salt and pepper and water to cover the meat one-fourth. Cover tightly and allow to simmer till tender. For twenty-five sandwiches you will need five pounds of meat, which will take about five hours to cook.

Question No. 3, from Mrs. A. L.: "What did you mean by a phosphate S. A. S. baking powder?"

I beg pardon for the contraction, but that is the term usually used, so it slipped out. The phosphate S. A. S baking powder is one of the three types on the market and means that it is a combination of phosphate and sodium aluminum sulphate. The other two types are the phosphate baking powder and the tartrate baking powder.

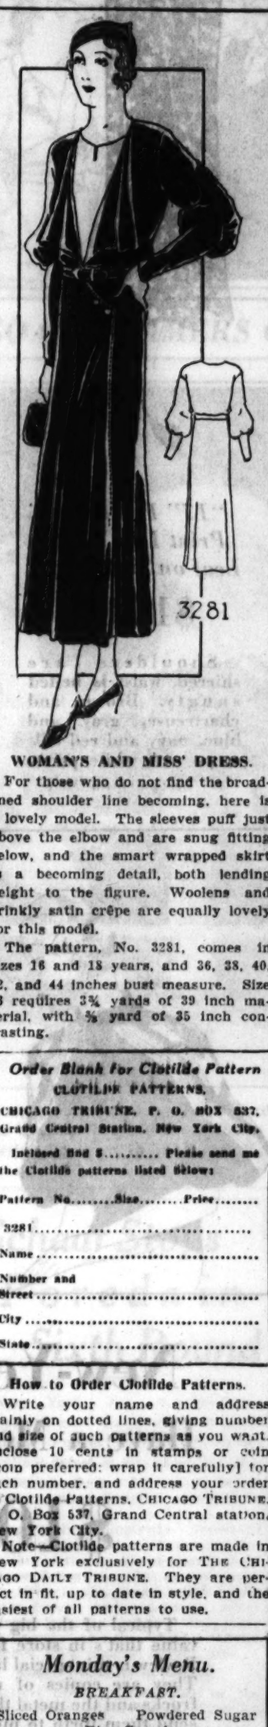
Sleeve Fullness Comes at Elbow in Smart Frock



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

For those who do not find the broadened shoulder line becoming, here is a lovely model. The sleeves puff just above the elbow and are snug fitting below, and the smart wrapped skirt is a becoming detail, both lending height to the figure. Woolens and crinkly satin crêpe are equally lovely for this model.

The pattern, No. 3281, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Overemphasis on Food Makes Eating Problem

Jolly Atmosphere Makes Food Vanish.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are two things that are always spoken of as being "human nature." It is generally accepted as a fact that people don't like what's good for them, and that they feel a particular urge to do a thing the instant they're forbidden to do it. And many people think this is especially true of children. Personally I believe that to be one of those sweeping assertions which doesn't make such a clean job of the facts, but which leaves lots of little exceptions lying around in the corners.

To my mind how a child receives an idea is determined by the way it is presented to him. If, for instance, a child has lots of freedom and every possible privilege and it becomes necessary to prohibit something and it's put to him in a reasonable and friendly way, I don't believe his first impulse is to "go and do it."

Just so with the things that are good for him. If going early to bed or eating wholesome food is dinged donged into him as a dull duty, those very acts he may resist, to be sure. But it will not be because they're good for him that he objects, but because they're so uninteresting. What brought this to my mind were several letters of a similar kind of which this one is a sample:

"I would also like to know why my children, boys, 9 and 14, respectively, doubt my word when I explain to them why they should eat certain kinds of food which their body needs and would benefit from.

"They think I simply make up my own stories in order to make them eat foods they are not particularly fond of. I have been careful in their training and very truthful, therefore I can't understand why they don't believe me when I tell them those things."

Children can be brought up to want the foods that are good for them. But it's got to be gone about in the right way. Over emphasis and a sense of duty are not the right way.

If I were this mother I'd stop talking about the boys' food being good for them. In fact, I'd stop discussing their food at all. There are lots of things that boys of 9 and 14 like to talk about at the dinner table that are vastly more interesting than food. I'd make their meals attractive and put them on the table and let it go at that. If the mealtime is a friendly and interesting affair the food will "get eaten."

Some one said that if the moralists would only make good as attractive as evil, they'd go farther. This is a cue for parents. There's nothing that makes food vanish like an interesting or jolly atmosphere. These things I've been putting to the test for a number of years, and I know that they work.

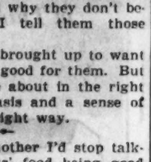
BANISH toilet odors!



A LITTLE Sani-Flush takes the place of scrubbing and scouring toilets. Its action is quick and positive. Odors can't stay where Sani-Flush is. Stains and streaks go. The hidden trap, where no brush can reach, is purified.

Sprinkle a little Sani-Flush in the toilet bowl (follow directions on the can). Flush the toilet—and down go germs and odors. The porcelain glistens like new. Sani-Flush can't harm plumbing.

C. Y. O. BOXERS WHIP COAST CHAMPIONS, 12-4

FIVE GAMES OPEN BIG 10 BASKETBALL RACE TONIGHT

PURDUE BEGINS TITLE DEFENSE AT MINNESOTA

N. U. Invades Illini Floor.

Opening Games

FOLLOWING is tonight's opening schedule in the Western conference basketball race:
Northwestern at Illinois.
Purdue at Minnesota.
Chicago at Wisconsin.
Michigan at Iowa.
Indiana at Ohio State.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Purdue, defending champion in the conference basketball campaign which begins tonight, is meeting Minnesota at Minneapolis, Northwestern's quintet will engage the Illini at Champaign. Thus, the first three finishers in the 1932 race start the new year against A1 competition and the results will forecast to a considerable extent how these rivals will wind up two months from now. Purdue won its title last year with 11 victories and one defeat, while Northwestern and Minnesota tied for second with 9 victories and three defeats each.

The Ohio State-Indiana game probably ranks next to these in importance. The Buckeyes lost their opening practice game and then swept through remaining opposition in a manner indicative that they must be counted in the fight. Indiana is just good enough to test Ohio State in proper fashion on the Buckeye floor.

Favor Badgers, Hawkeyes.

There seems to be no doubt but that Wisconsin will defeat Chicago tonight and Iowa's record should give it the edge over Michigan, although the caliber of the Wolverines' pre-season competition has been higher than that of the Hawks.

Purdue's outstanding practice game victories were a 36 to 31 conquest of Notre Dame and a 20 point licking handed to Wabash. Pittsburgh, however, whipped the Boilermakers at Pittsburgh. Purdue probably is at least 25 per cent less effective now than a year ago. Johnny Wooden, individual scoring champion in 1932, has been graduated, and Eddy, star forward, has been lost through injury. If Ralph Parmenter doesn't play tonight because of illness, Coach Ward Lambert must depend on two sophomore guards, Cottom and Shaver Felring, at center, and Stewart and Kellar, forwards, complete the starting lineup.

Owen Back with Illini.

Coach Dutch Lonburg of Northwestern also is worried over opening the season away from home and against Illinois. The Illini haven't shown much in practice, but with the return of Capt. Red Owen, the best team man on Coach Craig Ruby's squad, they may trip up the Wildcats. Illinois finished last year's race with seven victories and five defeats. Purdue's only licking in 1932 was administered by Illinois, 28 to 21.

Northwestern will depend on the same five players who have constituted the lineup during the victories over Marquette, Pittsburgh, and in the Notre Dame series, which was divided Capt. Joe Reiff and Don Brewer, forwards, and Elmer Johnson, center, constitute a better than average offensive trio, while they may expect some help from Nelson Culver, the most improved player on the squad.

As a unit Northwestern isn't as strong defensively as a year ago. Assets are fair height, exceptional shooting by Reiff, and general effectiveness on free throws, which will decide many games. The attack, when possible, features a fast break, but both Reiff and Johnson are capable exponents of the free throw line block plays.

Purdue Meets N. U. Monday.

Purdue, en route home, will stop in Evanston Monday to meet Northwestern at Patten gymnasium. Provided both quintets win their opening contests, Monday night quite easily may be the high point in the conference race.

Iowa's most recent ineligibility troubles, which temporarily cost the services of Break and Blackmer by decision of the Iowa athletic board, later reversed, may have upset the team morale. This may have contributed to the only defeat of the practice season by North Dakota State. Nevertheless, Iowa looms as a contender if for no other reason than the remarkable shooting ability of Bastian and Moffitt, who a year ago paced Wooden until mid-season. Iowa was the only university beside Purdue to whip Northwestern. The Hawks also lost an unusual number of close games.

Iowa's superior shooting should defeat Michigan, for the Wolverines haven't been able to score heavily, despite a consistent passing attack.

Wisconsin so far has not indicated it will be better than a leader in the second division. However, the Badgers certainly should smother Chicago tonight, since the Maroons have little offense to bother Wisconsin and not much skill on the defense.

Minnesota will face Purdue without Virgil Licht, star guard, who will be kept off the court for several days by an infected foot. James O'Connor, a sophomore, will take his place.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

BASEBALL reporters and editorial writers on sports sheets have been giving Commissioner K. M. Landis a severe lacing the last few weeks because he did not slash his $65,000 salary at the recent meeting of the major leagues.

K. M. LANDIS.

The Sporting News, a weekly journal devoted to organized baseball, in its Jan. 5 issue contained an editorial that included this paragraph:

"Players are asking why they should take a cut when there has been no reduction in the magnificent salary of the commissioner or in the expenses of running his office. The fans are inquiring why they should continue to pay the same prices of admission when there has been no curtailment in the overhead in the conduct of the highest office in baseball and why should they continue to contribute to what they consider an unnecessary costly appendage. These are pertinent questions to which it is difficult to find a satisfactory answer."

The fact is that Commissioner Landis has taken a big salary reduction. It was not less than $15,000 and probably was closer to $25,000. There has been no publicity about it. As far as we know, this is the first time the statement has appeared in print.

Landis left for Philadelphia early yesterday. He may not admit that he voluntarily cut his own pay check, but he will not deny it.

The magnates did not ask the commissioner to accept less compensation. He realized as well as any man in baseball that it would be necessary for most clubs to reduce salaries because of decreased attendance last season and the prospects of still smaller crowds in 1933. In a way, he regulates salaries like Babe Ruth. They represent the gold standard. It would be difficult to reduce salaries of leading players while Ruth and Landis were drawing the same money as in boom times.

Babe Ruth's contract is one of the principal winter sport topics. It will come up for renewal in a few weeks. A year ago Babe's pay was reduced from $80,000 to $75,000. There will be another trim, probably $10,000 for 1933, not because Col. Ruppert feels that his great slugger is less valuable, but because of the general economic situation. The yelping would be fierce if Ruppert attempted to whittle down other salaries and left Ruth's untouched.

Prof. Frank Dickinson, whose ratings decide which team gets the Rockne memorial national championship football trophy, is author of the following:

"You stated in your column a few days ago that it would be hard to convince the average fan that Southern California was not the strongest football team in the country, Prof. Dickinson's award to Michigan notwithstanding. I grant that even according to my own rating the splendid Trojan victory over Pittsburgh would add enough points to boost U. S. C. to the top of my national ranking for 1932.

"But is it fair to offer additional chances for gridiron honors to teams in favored climates when such opportunity is denied almost all of the colleges?

"Judging from Purdue fan mail the old Gold and Black would have relished a post-season game with Michigan or perhaps with Colgate. Rules, tradition, and educational policies demand what climate virtually prescribes for us.

"Hail to the Trojans! Hail to the Gold and Black! Let us end our seasons when all have had an equal chance and not give a second chance to any climate favored school.

"I join the Trojan alumni and students in cheering a great record, an excellent team, and one of America's finest coaches. Could they have defeated Michigan? I don't know. Zuppke cautiously says no."

Cubs Release May, but to Where—Minors or Hounds?

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Frank Spuriell May [Jakie to you], plump and personable lefty, yesterday was given his unconditional release by the Cubs.

There are some who fear that Jakie's major league career, already of 14 years' duration, has ended. There are others who believe that the dearth of left handed pitchers of experience will enable the 35 year old North Carolinian to make a deal for himself with some other major league organization.

Fanned Ruth Twice.

After striking out Babe Ruth twice in the last game of the last world series Jake allowed us how his arm felt stronger than it ever did and that he expected 1933 to find him at the peak of his career. The Cubs, their roster soon to be limited to 23 men, apparently held out no such hope for the ageing Jake, much as the management likes him.

If he fails to catch on with a major league outfit Jake doubtless could land with a high minor, such as the Coast league, in which he interrupted his major career in 1922 and 1923 when he was with the Vernon team.

Minor league baseball, under the present conditions, may not appeal to Mr. May, however. Jake has saved his money and is master of an estate in his native state. He is master of 14 hounds on this estate.

Strict on Hounds' Diet.

It is likely that Jake would just as soon spend the entire year with those hounds. He frequently discoursed on the beasts during such times as he was not warming up or pitching in a game.

"The main thing I watch about my hounds is to keep them on a proper diet," Mr. May said after the world series, just before going to rejoin his animals. "A man with a pack of hounds who uses them regular to run foxes must see that not one of them is given to having running fits. I feed my hounds mush to prevent running fits."

Mr. May then went on to explain, as we had heard him explain many times before, that when a hound, running foxes, gets a running fit he has hallucinations. He imagines there are hundreds of foxes where in reality there are no foxes at all and, yelping like everything, the hound with the running fit starts after the phantom foxes. The other hounds, according to Mr. May, do not suspect that their comrade is having a fit. They think he really knows about a LOT of foxes.

Must Feed 'Em Mush.

The result is that they lose interest in the ONE real fox and go tearing out after the whimsical hound, who really, of course, is on a wild goose chase and not a fox hunt at all. To break up such silly maneuvers on the part of his beasties is the reason that Jake feeds them mush, which after all seems a simple enough remedy.

May, of splendid humor at all times, is inclined to become pompous when the heat of battle is on. This tendency never was more clearly demonstrated than in the first series after Charley Grimm was appointed manager of the Cubs. In the second game of a doubleheader with the Phillies the first week of last August the Cubs went through in what was perhaps the most nerve-racking afternoon of all the many wild afternoons of the Cubs' miracle pennant drive. They had beaten the Phillies, 10 to 9 in the first game, an extra inning affair after the lead had fluctuated in two and three run swings.

"Am I Hot? Boy!"

The second game was even wilder than the first and in the final inning the Cubs had managed to take a 10 to 8 lead. In the last of the ninth the Phillies had the bases full and two out with Don Hurst, then leading the league, coming up, and the Phillies' short right field fence looming like a forest fire. Virtually the whole pitching staff had curled up during the afternoon. Jakie May, notoriously overworked by Grimm's predecessor, was over in the bull pen.

Grimm, in a frenzy, ran over to the bull pen. "Jake, are you hot?" cried Charley in desperation.

MIDGET CHAMP OF 1931 SEEKS SILVER SKATES

Fried Will Compete in Junior Class.

The boys who are seeking the 12 and 13 year old championship in the sixteenth annual TRIBUNE Silver Skates Derbies are certain to have some of the best competition that will be seen in any of the seven age division races. The reason is that Carl Fried, 7727 Fielding avenue, has entered that division.

In 1931 [The Derbies were not held last year because there was not enough ice at Garfield park] Carl Fried won the boys' midget Derby. At that time Carl was 11 years of age. Now he is seeking his second championship, and if successful, in 1934 he will be after another title in the boys' junior division.

He's Only Midget Champ.

Carl is the first and only winner of the boys' midget Derby, for it was held for the first time in 1931. He hopes to become the eighth champion in the juvenile class when the Derbies are held Jan. 21 and 22. The following boys have won juvenile championships:

1925—Dick McCarter. 1929—Francis Statler.
1926—Charles Honck. 1930—Paul Fierce.
1927—Edwin Stundl. 1931—Rob't Sherman
1928—Wallace Fre Jr.

Carl Fried will have an excellent opportunity to win three Derby championships, which is the present record. Edward Stundl, skating for the Majestic Athletic club, has won three titles and this year he may extend his record to four if he captures the men's senior race. If Stundl accomplishes this sweep, it will be a perfect record, for when he first entered Silver Skates there was no midget division for boys under 12 years of age.

Stundl Is Old Winner.

In 1927 Stundl won the boys' juvenile class. Two years later he was first in the boys' junior [14 and 15 years of age] and in 1931 he took first place in the intermediate class [16 and 17 years of age]. Stundl was beaten by Len Larson in 1931, but investigation proved that Larson was overage. Consequently Stundl received the first place prize and Larson was suspended by the Illinois Western Skating association, which sanctions the Derbies and which is the governing skating body in this territory.

The individual blank, which is printed daily in these columns, may be used to enter this year's Derbies. No entry will be accepted after midnight Jan. 16, which, of course, is another way of saying that post entries will not be accepted. If the skater is a member of any club or organization which expects to enter a team in the Silver Skates, fill in the part of the blank. The correct age also is very important.

All Entrants Get Button.

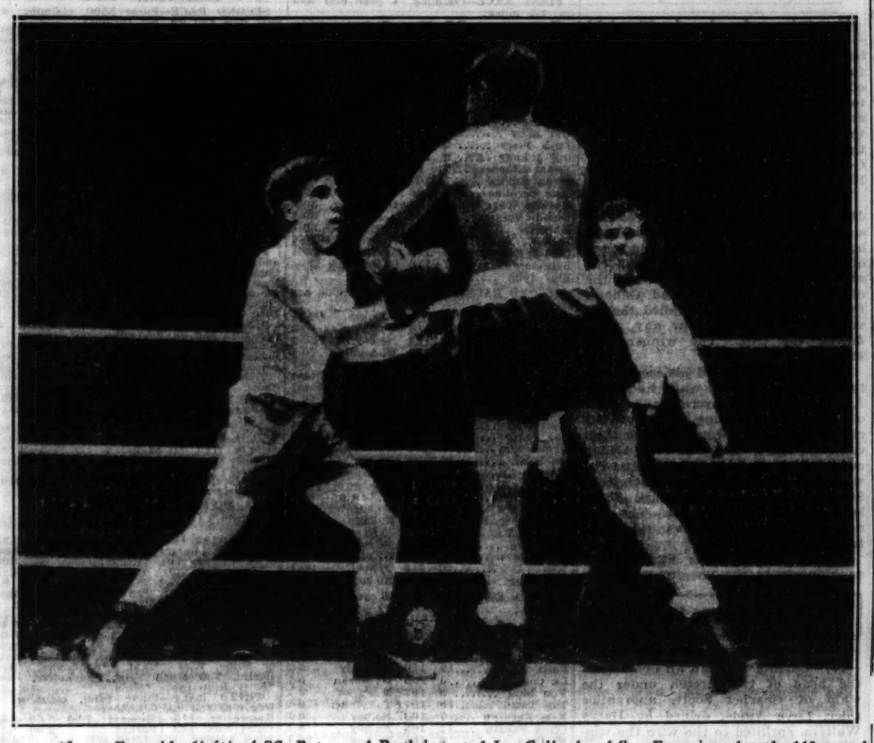
Skaters 16 years of age and over must be registered with the Illinois Western Skating association. This registration is for one year and it permits competition in any sanctioned meet. Registration may be made on the day of the Silver Skates.

The first five finishers in each of the seven Derbies will receive prizes. Pairs of skates are the awards for first, second, and third, while silver and bronze medals are given for fourth and fifth places. All contestants will also be given a gold souvenir button.

LARRY FRENCH SIGNS PAY BOOST CONTRACT IN RUSH

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The retrenchment programs of major league baseball clubs don't mean a thing to Larry French, left handed pitcher for the Pittsburgh National league club. French today received his 1933 contract which called for an increase of $1,500 in salary. He signed it and immediately mailed it to the headquarters of the club. French won 18 games and lost 16 last season.

ANOTHER CHICAGOAN HAMMERS OUT A VICTORY



Henry Fuscaldo (left) of SS. Peter and Paul defeated Joe Gallardo of San Francisco for the 112 pound intercity C. Y. O. championship at the Stadium last night. Gallardo has stopped Fuscaldo's two-hsted attack here, but it was only momentarily. The referee is Packy McFarland, former lightweight, who coached the Chicago team. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Tribune Ski Meet Again Postponed; No Snow

THE TRIBUNE'S third annual ski meet, scheduled for Riis park last Sunday but postponed until tomorrow because of lack of snow, has been set back again for the same reason. The meet has been tentatively scheduled for Jan. 29.

Schaaf Stops Poreda in Sixth Round

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, battered Stanley Poreda into a technical knockout defeat in six rounds tonight. Poreda was floored four times before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the match.

Apparently completely recovered from the slump that all but carried him out of the top flight heavyweight picture, Schaaf pounded Poreda to the floor twice in the second round, again in the fourth, and once more before Referee Donovan called a halt after 28 seconds of the sixth. Schaaf weighed 209¼ pounds; Poreda, 203.

Schaaf Connects in Second.

Schaaf came out viciously in the second. He caught Poreda flush on the chin, all of his 209 pounds riding on the punch as he charged in and let it fly short and straight from the shoulder. Poreda went down, so badly hurt he staggered uncertainly to his feet at four instead of taking the advantage of nine seconds allowed him. Schaaf charged him and Poreda took a fearful lacing, collapsing finally under a barrage of left hooks just as the bell came to his rescue.

His seconds barely were able to carry Poreda to his corner, but he came out gamely for the third, though glassy-eyed. He managed to ward off Schaaf's rushes and even found the strength, near the end of the round, to trade rights to the head and stop Schaaf's charges for the moment.

Poreda stood in his corner instead of resting between the third and fourth, but it did his strength no good. Schaaf caught him with two solid rights to the head and Stanley went down for nine.

Poreda Comes Back.

But again Poreda came back in the fifth. Wearily he threw his right hand, the punch that had beaten Primo Carnera, Johnny Risko, and Schaaf, among others, but he was bowed from the body beating and his teetering legs carried him around in an eccentric dance.

Once the bell rang for the sixth Schaaf could not be denied. He swept from his corner with a left hook to the head that sent Poreda flying across the ring. Another left and a right cross and Poreda dropped to the floor. Once more he pulled himself to his feet, but he had nothing left. Schaaf sent him reeling with another left hook and right cross to the chin. Referee Donovan quickly stepped in to avert more damage.

MAREK, ROTHIER LEAD CHICAGO TEAM IN VICTORY

16,355 Cheer and Boo Close Decisions.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Amateur boxers from the Catholic Youth organization of Chicago whipped 16 youthful gladiators from California in the intercity bouts at the Chicago Stadium last night. The final score was: Chicago, 12; California, 4.

A crowd of 16,355 watched the bouts and was so partisan at times the invading Californians were bewildered. Yet on a couple of other occasions, when it seemed the judges and referee had erred in their decisions, the loudly cheering throng turned about face and hooted roundly at the Chicago team.

The two great favorites on the Chicago team—Max Marek and Henry Rothier—came through with victories. Marek whipped Leo Greenhalgh of Los Angeles. Rothier had all he could do to beat Nick Petralia of Los Angeles and win on a technical knockout in the third round. Marek and Rothier are graduates of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves team.

Victory Is Decisive.

In the point score for the National Catholic Boxing championship Chicago had 6, Los Angeles 2, and San Francisco 2. It was an overwhelming triumph for the hard punching youngsters from Chicago.

It was a most colorful carnival with church dignitaries, laymen, political, industrial and business leaders draped around the ringside of the world's largest indoor arena, which was about three-fourths filled.

After 16 kids from the Chicago territory had fought it out for the junior championships the big show got under way.

Just before the first bout started John Pane-Gasser, operatic tenor, accompanied by the giant organ, sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Catholic Sea Scouts unfurled the Stars and Stripes while the big crowd came to its feet and cheered.

Crowd Cheers and Boos.

There were a great many heart throbs, a great many boos over some of the decisions—so many boos when Sam Guidara of Chicago was declared the winner over the bronze skinned Sammy Garcia of Los Angeles that the crowd refused to listen to the decision when it was rendered.

Garcia had pounded the lumbering Guidara all over the ring. He had hit him with all sorts of punches, yet when the bout ended the judges, Livingstone Osborne and Ed Klein, and the referee, Packey McFarland, gave the decision to the awkward Chicago kid. To the trained reporters at the ringside it seemed to have been a very bad decision. To the crowd, from the way a protest was roared out, it seemed even worse.

Packey McFarland refereed all the 24 bouts. Just why he wished such a herculean task upon himself was his own business. He did a pretty good job of it, but was puffing so much toward the end that many of the ringsiders were afraid he might tumble over before one or another of the boys landed a knockout punch.

Packey Gets Workout.

But old Packey of the phantom punch of yesterday was still there when the show ended with a desperate battle between Rothier of Chicago and Nick Petralia of Los Angeles, in which he had to push the two boys apart and award a technical knockout to Rothier in the last round.

Greenhalgh turned out to be a most stubborn opponent for Max Marek. The coast kid appeared to be a novice compared to the rugged Chicago boy when they started swinging punches. Yet he turned out to be a very tough customer. He fought Marek almost on even terms for the first two rounds, and only by a brisk rally in the last round was Marek able to pound his way to the front.

There wasn't a genuine knockout all night except in the junior championships. Some of the intercity battlers might have been groveling in the resin if the alert McFarland had not called a halt just before a dangerous punch was landed.

Rodak Is Victor.

The crowd went into a wild burst of cheering when it was announced that Leo Rodak would substitute for Jimmy Christy as one of Chicago's featherweight representatives. Rodak, a CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Glove product, fought with all his old time skill and scored a technical knockout over Steve Feary of Los Angeles in the second round.

PIM GOFF, NORMAL FOUR SPORT STAR, WILL WED TODAY

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—James [Pim]Goff, varsity letterman in four sports at Illinois State Normal university, will be married tomorrow to Miss Katherine White of Normal, Ill., one of the campus beauty queens, it was announced today. Goff is one of the outstanding athletes of the Little Nineteen conference. He was recognized as the best back on the Normal football team this fall and has been the leading scorer on the basketball team the last two years. He is a junior this season and has been the ace of the Normal pitching staff for two seasons. Last spring he won the singles tennis championship of the Little Nineteen conference and paired with a teammate to win the doubles.

COCHRAN TO PLAY IN WORLD CUE MEET HERE JAN. 16

Jackson Also Qualifies for Tournament.

Welker Cochran, Hollywood, Cal., and Clarence Jackson, Detroit, Mich., will appear in the world's three cushion billiard championship tournament for the first time this year. The meet will start at the 131 South Wabash avenue recreation rooms Jan. 16 and continue until Feb. 2.

Cochran and Jackson will take the places of Gus Copulos, Eugene, Ore., and Bud Westhus, St. Louis, Mo. Copulos and Westhus failed to qualify in the sectional tournaments conducted throughout the United States.

Kieckhefer Defends Title.

The eight others who will compete for the title are Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago, defending champion; Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia; Arthur Thurnblad, Chicago; Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo.; J. N. Bozeman Jr., Vallejo, Cal.; Tiff Denton, Kansas City, Mo.; Allen Hall, Chicago, and Frank S. Scoville, Buffalo, N. Y.

Cochhran qualified for the meet by winning the western sectional tournament, while Jackson captured the north division championship. Winners and runners-up in the sectional meets are eligible for the championship tournament. Hall was runner up in the north section while Bozeman will reprent the western section with Cochran.

Layton Seeks 11th Crown.

Layton, rotund Missourian, will be seeking his 11th championship. He won the title ten times. Thurnblad also is a former champion, having captured the title in 1931.

Because of their standing in last year's tournament, Kieckhefer, Reiselt, Thurnblad and Layton automatically qualified.

KIECKHEFER WINS TWICE.

Augie Kieckhefer, world's three cushion billiard champion, won the fourth and fifth blocks of his 400 point match with Frank Scoville, Buffalo, N. Y., at Kieckhefer's Recreation room yesterday. The champion won the afternoon match, 50 to 45 in 47 innings, and triumphed in the evening, 50 to 45 in 40 innings. Kieckhefer now is leading, 300 to 245.

HALL, LAYTON DIVIDE.

Allen Hall, Chicago, and Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., divided the ninth and tenth blocks of their 600 point three cushion billiard exhibition match yesterday at the 131 South Wabash Avenue Recreation room. Hall won the afternoon block, 50 to 30 in 49 innings, while Layton scored a 50 to 29 victory in the evening. Layton now holds a 500 to 394 lead. The match will be concluded today with two blocks.

Jaques Takes Over U.S.G.A. Duties Today

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Herbert A. Jaques, former Harvard athlete and for two years chairman of the golf committee which developed the new ball, tomorrow will become president of the United States Golf association, succeeding to an office his father held 23 years ago.

The new president was nominated for the post after the sudden death of Robert M. Cutting of Chicago, who died Nov. 2. Originally Jaques had been nominated for first vice president.

With the new ball adopted last year generally accepted by the public, Jaques sees no pressing problems confronting his presidency and has faith that some youngster will come along to bring back the amateur golf title now held by Ross Somerville of Canada.

As to finances, Jaques said:

"We don't need money. If we make more we will enlarge our greens section and spend it. If we make less we will cut down on our expenditures. Golf, not the show, is the thing."

Jaques, son of a wealthy, sports loving family, is a true amateur. During his undergraduate days at Harvard he was a star miler. His best round of golf was a 70 he shot at Essex county, the Boston club to which he still belongs.

"That 70 was exceptional, you realize," he explained. "It is given every man to shoot one great round at one time or another. That was mine."

SALE OF BLUES TO SPEAKER AND KEYSER 'HOPEFUL'

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 6.—(AP)—A day of conferences relative to the proposed sale of the Kansas City American association baseball club to new interests left the participants "very hopeful" tonight.

P. E. Reeder, attorney for the Muehlebach estate, present owner of the Blues, said: "I feel fairly sure that the deal will go through" to sell the club to E. Lee Keyser, owner of the Des Moines Western league team, and Tris Speaker, former major league star.

Keyser has announced that in event the purchase is made he desires Speaker to manage the team.

Milwaukee Teachers Whip 'Y' College Quintet, 27-23

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 6.—The Chicago Y. M. C. A. college basketball team lost to Milwaukee State Teachers' college tonight, 27 to 23. The score at the half was: Chicago, 13; Milwaukee, 11. The Y college five will meet Concordia college here tomorrow night.

Michigan Hockey Team Beats Dearborn Six, 6-1

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Michigan's hockey team defeated the Dearborn Flyers of the Michigan-Ontario league, 6 to 1, here tonight. The Wolverines ran in two goals during the first few minutes of play and never were headed. Keith Crossman, Wolverine co-captain, came out of the hospital to see the game.

READY TO GET BACK IN GAME

Amos Alonzo Stagg, retiring athletic director and football coach at the University of Chicago, who has been ill of bronchial pneumonia in a New York hospital, is making a fine recovery. Notify Wins Two Year Old Race at N. O.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Notify, promising 2 year old daughter of Noah-Polygamia, stepped two furlongs in 23 seconds flat, two-fifths of a second behind the track record, to score a nose decision in the fourth and feature race at Jefferson Park today. Twelve 2 year olds, making their initial starts, faced the barrier. General Pulaski finished second, with Race Street third.

The field was dispatched with little difficulty. General Pulaski moved into a short lead rounding the lower turn, but could not withstand the challenge of Notify, with Jockey McCoy in the saddle. Race Street was third in the close finish, a head behind General Pulaski. Ocean was installed the favorite, but did not show any speed during the trip. The winner paid $18.80.

Pat Remillard scored his second victory of the afternoon when he guided A. J. Schuetze's Roycrofter, 10 year old High Time gelding, to a nose decision in the six furlongs of the third contest. The gelding had to be ridden out in the final drive to withstand the stubborn challenge of Light Nun. Stick Around finished third, three lengths behind the top pair. The winner paid $7.60 and was timed in 1:13 4-5.

LOVE APPLE IS VICTOR

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Cutting through an opening at the head of the stretch under the whip of Charley Scott, apprentice rider, Love Apple, owned by Harry Walters, sprinted to the wire the winner by a length and a half in today's principal race. The six furlong race drew eight fair platers to the post, Lucille K., the favorite, ran third, behind Hidden Gold. The time was 1:12 4-5. Loveapple paid $7.20 to $2.

JUDGE SIGNS TO PLAY FIRST BASE WITH BROOKLYN

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Joe Judge has finally agreed to become a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers and will play first base in Ebbetts field this year at $11,000. This is $1,500 more than he was paid by the Washington Senators, from whom he shortly will draw his unconditional release.

During the baseball meetings Judge first began to dicker with Steve McKeever. For 17 years he had served the Senators and when he asked Clark Griffith to make him a free agent he was told his release would be granted provided he joined a National league club, as the Washington president was not anxious to strengthen any of his rivals, particularly Cleveland.

Judge will report to Manager Max Carey in Miami in March and will be the Dodgers' regular first baseman in the event Del Bissonette's leg injury has not healed by season time.

DON PEDEN WILL REMAIN AT OHIO AS GRID COACH

Athens, O., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Don Peden, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to A. A. Stagg as football coach at the University of Chicago, today announced he would coach Ohio university again next year.

Peden made the announcement after a conference with President E. B. Bryan and, in making it, denied reports he had received an offer from Michigan State college.

Greenleaf Beats Ponzi; Takes 1,263-979 Lead

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, national champion, trounced Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia in the ninth and tenth blocks of their pocket billiard exhibition match at the Strand today and gained a lead of 1,263 to 979. Greenleaf won the afternoon block, 124 to 30, in three innings, and the night session, 128 to 26, also in three innings. The champion's high runs were 52 and 59; Ponzi's 18 and 26.

Leo Sexton to Compete in N. Y. Track Meet Tonight

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Leo Sexton, holder of the world's shot put record, will compete in the Columbus council's track and field meet tomorrow night at the 106th Infantry armory, Brooklyn. Dave Adelman, former Georgetown star, also will compete in the meet. Sexton also holds the Olympic shot put championship.

IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S

INTERESTING NEW GAME

"PUT-TOGETHERS"

PICTURES OF STORYBOOK DAYS

NO. 6—CHICAGO TRIBUNE "PUT-TOGETHERS"

$5,000 IN CASH PRIZES!

NOTICE! For the benefit of those who have not yet entered this amusing, new game, the first six pictures of this series will be reprinted in tomorrow's CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

TRY your skill at "putting together" the picture printed above. See if you can name the famous storybook character it represents.

This is the sixth of a series of "Put-Togethers"—pictures of storybook days—now appearing each day in the Chicago Daily Tribune. Men, women, boys and girls everywhere are invited to solve them. It costs you nothing. No hard work to do—no subscriptions to solicit! Just a little pleasant amusement and an opportunity to win a substantial cash award.

If you have not yet started this interesting, new game, get the first six pictures of this series which will be reprinted in tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune. You can start with these. They will count! Then get Picture No. 7 in Monday's Chicago Daily Tribune.

THE RULES

Eligibility: Every man, woman, boy and girl is eligible except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. It costs nothing.

What to Do: "Put together" and name the pictures of storybook days printed in the Chicago Daily Tribune. A new picture will be printed each day for 42 consecutive days except Sundays. Each entry must consist of answers to the 42 pictures. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set. It is not necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. The pictures may be copied or traced. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at Public Libraries or at its offices free of charge. The pictures may be pasted on paper, cardboard, in scrap books or in any other form.

Radio Dramatizations: Each night W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune Radio Station, will broadcast a dramatization of the "PUT-TOGETHER" Picture to be printed in the Tribune the following day. Tune in. These dramatizations will help you.

Where to Send Entries: When you have the complete set of 42 pictures, mail them by First Class Mail, Postage Prepaid, to "Put-Togethers," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Picture No. 42 has been printed. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.

The Judges: A committee of judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

The Prizes: 430 Cash Prizes totaling $5,000.00 will be paid by the Chicago Tribune to the persons who send in the most nearly correct and neatest entries. (See prize list at right.) Elaborate entries are not necessary and will receive no greater consideration than simple ones.

THE NAME OF THE STORYBOOK PICTURE IN "PUT-TOGETHER" NO. 6 IS AMONG THESE:

HYDE PARK WINS OVER ENGLEWOOD LIGHTS, 18 TO 17

Porter's 2 Free Throws Bring Victory.

Hyde Park High school defeated Englewood in the final minutes of their central section lightweight game in the Chicago Public High School league at Englewood's gymnasium, 18 to 17, yesterday. Porter scored the winning points, sinking two free throws after he was fouled by Irons, Englewood forward. Englewood led, 17 to 16, until the last minutes of the game.

Tilden Tech, led by Lepman, triumphed over Lindblom, 36 to 21, at Tilden in another central section lightweight game. Lepman contributed five field goals and two free throws. Puzich also starred with four baskets and two free throws.

Lane Defeats Waller, 18 to 11.

Lane, Senn, and Lake View triumphed in north section heavyweight games. Lane handed Waller an 18 to 11 defeat at Lane Tech; Senn won from Roosevelt, 35 to 25, on the latter's floor, and Lake View routed Schurz, 39 to 20, on the Lake View floor.

Four lightweight and four heavyweight games officially will open the Chicago Catholic High School league season tonight. The teams were scheduled to start the races last night, but the contests were postponed because of the Catholic Youth organization's intercity boxing bouts at the Chicago Stadium.

St. Patrick Meets St. Mel.

St. Patrick's lightweights and heavyweights will meet St. Mel in two of the games scheduled at St. Patrick's gymnasium.

Von Porat to Sail Jan. 17 from Norway

Otto von Porat, who was one of the leading heavyweight boxers until knocked out by Young Stribling at the Stadium two years ago, will return to Chicago Jan. 29. He is to leave Oslo, Norway, Jan. 17 and is scheduled to arrive in New York Jan. 27. Von Porat has engaged in four matches in Europe since his departure from Chicago early in 1931, winning all of them by knockouts.

Varias Milling, Los Angeles, Cal., Filipino featherweight, did loosening up exercises yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for his eight round bout with Johnny Pena of New York, at the Chicago Stadium next Friday. He will begin boxing today. The complete card for the featherweight championship show was announced last night. It follo s:

Tommy Paul, featherweight champion, vs. Freddy Miller [10].
Martin Levandowski vs. Harry Ebbets [10].
Varias Milling vs. Johnny Pena [8].
Paul Dazzo vs. Johnny Mitchell [8].
Davy Day vs. Jimmy Richards [4].

Tuffy Griffith, Chicago heavyweight, will go to Los Angeles tomorrow to finish preparations for his 10 round bout against Lee Ramage of San Francisco on Jan. 17. Tuffy will be accompanied by Jack Roper, a stable mate; Jack O'Keefe, his manager, and Trainer Whitey Ekwert. Roper will box on the Griffith-Ramage card.

Fidel La Barba, California boxer will leave Chicago Tuesday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he faces Tony Sciolino on Jan. 16. La Barba did his first training yesterday since his nontitle bout with Champion Tommy Paul last week. He will do no boxing until he reaches Buffalo, because of a cut eye.

The boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. yesterday reinstated two boxers, suspended another, and gave sanctions to three clubs. Chauncey Crain and Nick Musto were reinstated, and Peter Lullo was banned, pending his appearance before the committee on charges of professionalism. The Bell Central Trojan Athletic club, the Odd Fellows' service bureau, and St. Vincent's parish, De Paul society, were granted permits. The first show under the new National A. A. U. ruling permitting only intercity, interclub, and tournament bouts, was held at the Savoy arena, 4733 South Park way, last Tuesday.

Frankie Harmon has postponed his first show at the Washington Boulevard Masonic temple from Jan. 15 to Feb. 6 . . . Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., and Bill Connell, Monmouth, will arrive tomorrow to train for their bouts against Gorilla Jones and Johnny Connelly respectively, at Clinton, Ia., Friday. . . . Jack King, local welterweight, and Billy Holt have been matched to box at Pittsburgh Jan. 13.

St. Philip High school amateur boxers will be after their fifth victory in six interscholastic meets when they meet a team from St. Patrick of South Chicago at St. Philip's gymnasium Monday. Art Palladino, St. Philip featherweight champion, and Barney Slize of St. Patrick will box the windup.

INDOOR POLO TEAMS START SEASON TONIGHT

Four of the leading polo teams in the city will open the indoor season tonight under auspices of the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league at the 124th field artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street. The Chicago Shamrocks will meet the 122d field artillery then and the 6th corps area plays the 124th field artillery.

The tournament is being played with the sanction of the Indoor Polo Association of America and is in charge of Lieut. Col. Richard G. Hunter, national association handicaper in the middle west.

Maj. C. C. Smith and Capt. C. A. Wilkinson will appear in the 6th corps area lineup. The 122d field artillery announced a last minute shift in its lineup when Lieut. Clifford Harrison was selected to start at the No. 1.

LAWRENCE BEATS LAKE FOREST QUINTET, 35 TO 19

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Lawrence college swamped the Lake Forest quintet in a second half rally here tonight, 35 to 19. Lake Forest took an early lead and led, 14 to 13, at the end of the first period.

Cubs Release Pitcher May, But to Where?

five feet eight. "Sir" he said with great dignity "I am hotter than a firecracker."

Jake went in and Hurst lifted a high one out to right. He seemed certain the ball would hit the fence and all the runners had dashed home. Klein, the last, with the potential winning run.

"Think Nothing of It, Lads!"

Eventually the ball came down. Frank Demaree, his back to the right field wall, caught it and another Cub victory had been achieved. Jakie calmly went to the clubhouse as if nothing had happened. He wasn't even the winning pitcher, but the little round man was a hero with the Cubs that night.

It has been estimated that May probably hung up a bull pen record last season, mostly during the Horns by régime. Jake warmed up virtually every day. Bull pen catchers estimate that May pitched the equivalent of 75 games while warming up.

May is married and has a daughter named June. The family home is at Wendell, N. C.

Blackhawks Plan New Lines for Maroons

When the Montreal Maroons, who have suddenly become one of the powers of the National Hockey league, invade the Stadium ice tomorrow night to meet the Blackhawks, they are liable to face a completely new set of Chicago forward lines.

This was announced yesterday by Coach Emil Iverson, who mentioned several new combinations. Whether or not he will send them out in the new arrangements tomorrow is not certain, but Iverson is making every effort to restore the scoring punch in which the Hawks were sadly lacking against Boston Thursday.

Iverson may put Johnny Gottselig at his old left wing position, with Doc Romnes at center and Roger Jenkins at right wing. He is considering shifting Pudge Mackenzie into Gottselig's center position between Paul Thompson and Lolo Couture. Another line includes Tommy Cook at center, with Mush March and Donnie McFadyen at the wings.

Tomorrow night's game will be the second meeting of the Hawks and the Maroons in Chicago, the Montreal sextet having achieved a tie previously.

NOTRE DAME TO PLAY OHIO STATE ON GRID IN 1935

Columbus, O., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Ohio State and Notre Dame have signed a two-year agreement, calling for football games in 1935 and 1936, L. W. St. John, Ohio State athletic director, announced today.

The first game will be played in Columbus. The Buckeyes will visit South Bend in 1936. Definite dates will be fixed later.

Ohio State and Notre Dame have never met on the gridiron. Formal announcement of the series sets at rest rumors that the schools would play a post-season game at Cleveland next season.

Spencer Coals Win 21st in Row; Beat Waukegan, 46-17

The Spencer Coals girls' basketball team scored its 21st consecutive victory last night by defeating Waukegan, 46 to 17. Led by Lillian Rozhan and Cassie Martin, the Spencers took a lead of 23 to 2 at the end of the first quarter. Miss Martin scored five field goals while Miss Rozhan collected 14 points.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: The first panorama building in Chicago was erected in 1883 at the southwest corner of Wabash and Hubbard court, later Panorama place, now 7th street. It housed Philippoteaux's "Battle of Gettysburg," forming a Mecca for G. A. R. men in its heyday. Afterward the building was used as a roller skating rink, razed in 1921, and was occupied by the Globe theater.

The block of State street just behind the panorama site fronting west is interesting because, with a few exceptions, it is as it was in the '80s. The Schroeder building is dated 1874 and Sporlein's, 1876. Nic Reis, scion of a pioneer family, conducted a sample room on the Hubbard court corner. Similar establishments were those of Louis Tanner and Joe Kammerer.

Other merchants of the day in the block were Elkan, notion store; Samuels, furniture; Bohmann, musical instruments; Livingston, dry goods; Rudolph Weber, butcher; Lissner, hardware; Weissler & Junge, bakery; Smith & Hogey, druggists.

The northeast corner of Hubbard court was the site of the Corrigan block, still there. Thompson's ice cream parlor was a basement tenant whose outstanding furnishings were tables covered with tacked-on white oilcloth.

L. A. T.

When I attended the Scammon school in 1878, Barnum's circus came to town and was showing on the lake front. All mothers with their children lined up on Madison street to see the parade. I was in front of the Scammon school grounds, which at the time extended from Madison through to Monroe.

After we had waited some time, word was passed along that the elephant would not set foot on the bridge, and the bridge's upper beams were not high enough for the wagons to pass under, so we did not see the parade.

At that time we went down 12 or 14 steps on the Madison street side, which was at Union street, but came out on the level on the Monroe street side. Old West Division High school building is still standing, now used for storage purposes.

We had wooden sidewalks which would go up a few feet, then down some steps, and along a bit farther up again—no uniform level. How the boys did like to get under those sidewalks to play. Long Time Reader.

FAVOR SARAZEN IN LOS ANGELES OPEN GOLF TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, golf's ruler of two nations, was listed as the favorite today to win the Los Angeles $5,000 open tournament, which starts tomorrow.

However, the United States and British open champion, who stepped off a train here yesterday and jostled par of the Wilshire Country club course about rather rudely, may not have things so easy. Several veterans and a handful of youths in the field of 128 starters are expected to cause Sarazen trouble.

Included in the favored group are Olin Dutra, National P. G. A. champion from Santa Monica; Macdonald Smith, defending champion; Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., winner of two of the three California tournaments played to date, and Fred Morrison, Agua Caliente, Mexico, champion from Pasadena.

Here Are Tips for Anglers Headed South

BY BOB BECKER.

When northern fishermen begin to pack their outfits for a southern fishing trip to secure bass and salt water game fish they are going to find it difficult to resist a lot of new 1933 fishing items which have been put on the market in recent weeks. In spite of disturbed economic conditions the tackle manufacturers have gone right ahead producing new lures, new reels at lower prices, and a lot of other gadgets which an angler will want in his outfit. Among the 1933 articles for the fisherman's kit are several things which represent marked departures from what were formerly standard items.

As an indication of what 1933 has for the fisherman there has been recently introduced a new salt water reel, quite low in price, with an appliance which in one respect may be compared to the free wheeling stunt in automobiles.

Takes Up Slack Line.

This reel has an anti-slack safety spring and the action of this spring takes up the slack line as the fish is played. We have had anti-back lash reels for quite a while. These help the caster throw a smooth line. Now comes a reel to help the fisherman play his fish by automatically taking up loose line after a fish has staged a run.

Northern anglers who go south to try the salt water fishing for the medium sized species, like snook, redfish, grouper, and sea trout, usually shy away from regular salt water reels on the first trip, due to the fact that they are unfamiliar with the whole line of salt water tackle. Our recommendation is that it is economy in the long run to purchase a salt water reel rather than use one designed for fresh water casting. The latter hasn't the line capacity needed nor is it built for use in ocean fishing.

This year the fisherman has the greatest line of inexpensive salt water reels to choose from that we have ever known. Many new models have been introduced and it is possible to get a serviceable trolling or casting reel for use on smaller game fish for just a few dollars.

Reels Prove Satisfactory.

We had three of these small inexpensive reels in our outfit last winter. At the beginning we had some doubt if they would stand the gaff. All three worked in fine style and they are ready for many more seasons of salt water fishing.

Another new item for the 1933 angler is the combination rod and reel with the latter built as an integral part of the rod. Then there are new spoons, new and tricky fly rod lures, new spinners, new jointed lures for use on bass and other fresh water fish, and dozens of other items which ought to make the fisherman's tackle kit take on a happy new year appearance.

Notre Dame Is Host Tonight to Marquette

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—One of the outstanding basketball games of the season will be played tomorrow night when Notre Dame and Marquette meet in the fieldhouse. Marquette has won four out of five games with a team which consists, with the exception of one man, of football players.

Notre Dame, stung by three successive defeats after compiling a winning streak of 19 games, has a season record of three victories and as many losses.

Notre Dame will have more strength for tomorrow's game than for any this season. Capt. Johnny Baldwin is back at guard. Leo Crowe, although still handicapped by a dislocated elbow sustained against Purdue, will play the other guard.

Al McGuff, reserve utility man, is recovering from influenza and will be ready to play. Johnny Jordan and Joe Voegele, high scoring forwards, and Ed Krause are all in good condition.

DE PAUL MEETS ST. THOMAS

Determined to achieve its sixth consecutive victory, De Paul university's basketball team will meet St. Thomas of St. Paul, Minn., at the De Paul gym tonight. A preliminary game will brings together the Loyola and De Paul freshman teams.

Undefeated so far, De Paul gained its last victory over Beloit, 42 to 22, a week ago. The team has given every indication of being one of the best ever developed under Coach Jim Kelly at De Paul.

Coach Kelly plans to start Phil Krause and Jim Gorsky at forwards, El Weston at center, and Jim Doody and Capt. Tony Lauritis at guards. Pete Barskis, gangling center, Bill Shay, guard, and Martie Linsky, forward, also will play.

KANSAS DECIDES TO CONTINUE RELAYS APRIL 22

Lawrence, Kas., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Any doubt that the Kansas relays might not be held this year because of economic necessity was removed tonight by the announcement of Dr. F. C. Allen, University of Kansas athletic director, of April 22 as the date for the eleventh annual event.

After a recent meeting of the athletic board to study the financial situation, resulting in scaling down of the coaching staff, it was said that the relays might not be held. The Lawrence Boosters club has organized to contribute $500 toward making the relays possible.

New York, Jan. 6.—Bond market leadership was again taken by United States government securities today, several of them attaining new highs. Best prices were reached in early trading and the list wavered a bit in subsequent dealings, as investors became unsettled over the federal reserve announcement that it would retain "substantially all" of its government holdings.

The rest of the bond market continued the upswing which has been in progress for some weeks. Demand still centered upon the best quality issues, with rails and utilities of prime rating selling in some instances up to a 4 per cent yield basis.

U. S. Issues Gain.

Impetus for the government list's advance into new high ground was given partly by the federal reserve announcement, and partly by the decision of Democratic leaders to levy new taxes and to reduce expenses of the government.

Declaration of the open market committee of the reserve system in favor of continuance of the easy money policy was construed generally as a bullish factor.

German bonds showed a firm undertone, setting the pace of improvement in foreign bonds. Spotty improvement was the rule in South American issues, with Rio Grande do Sul 6s of 1968 a feature on the upside. Norwegian bonds showed good gains.

Utilities and Rails.

Further improvement in high grade corporation bonds centered chiefly in utilities and rails. With prices of both groups now up to a 4 per cent yield basis in some issues, predictions are now heard in the street that still lower yields would not be surprising, in view of the relatively small supply of such bonds.

Gains in prime rails included Atchison adjustment 4s, issues of Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Burlington general 4s, Union Pacific 4½s, and others.

Prime utility bonds, aided by the success of recent new earnings, were higher in such instances as New England Telephone 5s, New York Gas, E. L. H. and Power 5s, and others. Utilities of less than top credit rating showed a better tone.

Houdaille-Hershey.

I am offered class A stock of Houdaille-Hershey for stock I already have. Will you please give me some information on Houdaille-Hershey A stock?—M. D. H.

Houdaille-Hershey corporation was incorporated in the early part of 1929 to consolidate several companies engaged in the automobile accessory business. It has acquired other companies since organization. It now manufactures shock absorbers, bumpers, crankshafts, camshafts and similar products.

Volume of operations depends on rate of activity in the automobile manufacturing business. In line with decreased automobile production net loss for the first nine months of 1932 was $336,000, against net income of $396,000, or $2.48 per class A share and 12 cents per class B, for the corresponding 1931 period.

Net income for 1931, before $14,000 reserve for adjustment of foreign exchange, was $116,000, or 67 cents per class A share, against net loss of $157,000 for 1930. The 1930 statement includes operations of Muskegon Motor Specialties company, acquired in 1931. Net income of the original constituent companies for the full 1929 year was $2,823,000, or $16.15 per class A share and $4.65 per class B.

On Sept. 30, 1932, current assets were $3,172,000 and current liabilities were $250,000. Cash assets alone were $2,096,000. Working capital was $2,922,000, against $3,263,000 the year before.

The company has no funded debt. Minority interest totals $518,000. There are outstanding 172,654 class A shares and 783,571 class B shares. The class A has preference as to cumulative dividends of $2.50 per share. It is convertible, share for share, into common at any time to June 25, 1933. Nothing has been paid on the class A since April 1, 1932.

Both the class A and class B are speculative.

Peoria Water Works.

I would like your opinion of Peoria Water Works 5s, due 1950.—I. J. L.

Peoria Water Works company, a subsidiary of Community Water Service company, furnishes water to Peoria, Ill., and adjacent territory. Operating revenues for the twelve months to June 30, 1932, were $702,000. Fixed charges were earned 1.67 times. Operating revenues in 1931 were $712,000, against $740,000 in 1930 and $682,000 in 1929. Charges were earned 1.82 times in 1931, 2.16 times in 1930, 2.09 times in 1929, and 1.95 times in 1928. On June 30, 1932, current assets were $256,000 and current liabilities were $170,000. Funded debt was $4,001,000. The $1,767,000 first and refunding 5s, due 1950, are a business man's risk.

BIG SOUTHERN RISK GROUP PUT IN RECEIVERSHIP

Favorite Company of Huey Long Hit.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Union Indemnity Company of New Orleans, one of the south's largest liability concerns, and three affiliated firms were placed in receivership today by orders of the Civil District court here. The other firms were the La Salle Fire Insurance company, the Union Title Guarantee company, and the Insurance Securities company, holding company for the group.

W. IRVING MOSS.

W. Irving Moss, president of all four companies, accepted the receiverships without objection and issued a statement that liquidation of the companies' assets would be made possible through a loan recently obtained from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The Union Indemnity company has underwritten practically all highway and bridge contractors' bonds, including contractors for the new Mississippi river bridge, during administrations of Huey P. Long and Gov. O. K. Allen.

Clay W. Becker, president of a motor car distributing company here, and S. Sanford Levy, vice president of the Union Indemnity company, were appointed receivers for all four of the concerns.

Causes of Receivership.

Mr. Moss said it had been determined that to the best interest of policyholders the companies should be placed in receivership because of the "decline in securities values, recession in business volume, and an unusual increase in underwriting losses."

As holding company for the group of fire and casualty companies, Insurance Securities had phenomenal growth in the five years between 1925 and 1930. Premium income jumped 124 per cent in the years from 1927 to 1929, inclusive, mounting to $23,000,000 at the end of 1929.

The book value of the Insurance Securities company stock at the end of 1929 was placed at $18.53; at the end of 1930, $14.03, and $7.22 at the end of 1931. The stock sold for 25 cents a share on the New Orleans Stock exchange yesterday. At one time it sold as high as $35 a share. The stock had been widely sold, especially in New England.

OFFICES IN CHICAGO.

The Union Indemnity company, which went into receivership in New Orleans yesterday, holds an important position in the insurance business of the country. It has offices here and has done a considerable business in this section of the country in the casualty, workmen's compensation, public liability, surety, burglary, plate glass and similar fields.

As the favorite indemnity company of the Huey P. Long administration the company was the bonding concern of all state employés in Louisiana. All state employés compelled to make bond were required to bond themselves in the Union Indemnity. This brought about a protest from other companies, but the protest was ignored. In addition to this, all highway contractors were bonded in the Union Indemnity.

According to insurance men here an announcement was made about two months ago that the Insurance Securities corporation, the holding company, was to sell $2,000,000 of new stock and that this amount was to be turned over to Union Indemnity.

Deal Falls Through.

The new stock was to have been underwritten by the Insurance Equities corporation, headed by Julius Barnes, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and interested in the Kentucky Home Life company, Missouri State Life, Shenandoah Life, Philadelphia Life, the United Life and Accident company of New Hampshire, and Lloyds Insurance company.

However, the deal is reported to have fallen through and then the announcement was made that the Insurance Equities corporation was going to turn $800,000 over to Union Indemnity. Apparently this deal also fell through.

Union Indemnity and Insurance Securities were both affiliated with the Vaccaro Steamship Line and the Roosevelt hotel in New Orleans.

MISSOURI LIFE BUYS LOAN

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—The Missouri State Life Insurance company has taken over from three St. Louis banks an $800,000 loan obtained a month ago by the Julius H. Barnes interests to buy control of a company owning a big block of Missouri State Life stock.

Missouri State Life paid the banks $800,000 for the notes, which were signed by Insurance Equities corporation, a New York holding company represented by Barnes. Barnes is chairman of the board of Missouri State Life. His interests bought out Kentucky Home Life Insurance company of Louisville, which owns 29.5 per cent of Missouri State Life.

"The banks made this loan for our account," said William T. Nardin, president of Missouri State Life. "We took it up yesterday by buying the notes and the collateral. The company obligated itself to do that when the loan was made and we have simply carried out our undertaking to take up the loan on Jan. 5."

It had not been disclosed heretofore that the company was to take over the loan.

Overhauling of Insurance Laws Likely

BY SCRUTATOR.

Overhauling of laws regulating life insurance companies is likely to be undertaken by the legislatures of several states this winter as the result of the failure of several concerns. This is particularly true in Illinois, which has contributed the most serious failure, that of the Illinois Life Insurance company.

Leaders in the life insurance field are awake to the need for further regulation along broad lines. Recently the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners announced certain additional recommendations for legislation that these state authorities regard as necessary for the protection of life insurance policy holders. It was their contention that the states have overlooked needed regulations in the simple code but have adopted a multitude of laws on unimportant subjects which are embarrassing to the proper operation of insurance companies.

Urge Limit on Investments.

The chief recommendation is for more stringent laws concerning the kinds of investments that insurance companies may make and a limitation on individual investments. Another suggestion is that more strict supervision should be exercised over holding companies formed to acquire large interests in life insurance concerns. Some of the reasons for these proposals are summed up in Best's Insurance News.

It is urged that every state should pass a law forbidding any life insurance company to own stock in any other life company. Extending this principle, it is suggested that a supplemental law should prohibit any company from making collateral loans on the stock of another company. There also is a suggestion that this rule should include bank stocks.

Want Curb on Common Stocks.

In general, it is proposed that the states pass laws limiting the proportionate amount of assets that life insurance companies can invest in common stocks. A limit of 10 per cent for such investment is regarded as reasonable.

"Furthermore, since such investment is designed merely to give a certain degree of liquidity and some profit making possibilities (that is the idea, at least), stocks eligible should be limited to those listed and quoted on the large recognized stock exchanges," it is said. "Too often the smaller companies buy stocks of local enterprises which cannot be sold to any other purchaser."

Cause of Failures.

This type of investment carried to excessive degree was primarily responsible for failure of the collapse of the Illinois Life and Peoples Life of Chicago and the Home Life of Arkansas. These companies made too large single investments, the first in the Stevens hotel properties and the others in bank stocks. To prevent a recurrence of such troubles state laws limiting investment in any single institution, piece of property or stocks or bonds of one company to $20,000, or 5 per cent of a life insurance company's admitted assets, whichever is greater, are advocated as prime safeguards for the policy holders.

The state commissioners considered the status of holding companies for stocks of life insurance companies. While they may be capable of performing useful economic functions in some cases, still the holding company plan has been gravely abused. It is suggested that such companies be made subject to the jurisdiction of state insurance departments and required to file complete and detailed statements of condition every year. Under present conditions, it is said, these companies frequently made no reports and their true status cannot be ascertained.

Follansbee Will Reopen Toronto Plant Jan. 20

Steubenville, O., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Officials of the Follansbee Brothers company today announced their Toronto steel plant will resume open hearth operation Jan. 20. The plant, which has been idle since June, will give employment to 160 men. Plans had been made to reopen the company's bar mills Jan. 25.

Ward Sales in December Show Better

December sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. made the best comparative showing with the previous year since July, 1930, figures released yesterday showed. Sales for the month totaled $21,055,133, against $21,899,269 last year. The percentage decline from 1931 was only 3.8 per cent, as compared with 10.6 per cent in November and an average decline for the twelve months of 17.9 per cent.

Twelve months sales were $180,069,239, as compared with $219,361,585 in 1931. Sales of the company have fallen behind the previous year each month since July, 1930, when the first decline was reported.

The most unfavorable comparison in 1932 was in January, when volume was 27.6 per cent below 1931. For each month but December sales were more than 10 per cent below the comparable period of 1931.

Sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the four weeks ended Dec. 31 showed a seasonable gain over the preceding period, but ran 17.2 per cent below the comparable period of 1931. The company yesterday reported its December period sales at $27,454,971, against $33,167,501 last year.

For the calendar year of 1931 the company sales were $280,061,229, against $347,209,054, a decline of 19.3 per cent from the preceding year.

Sales of S. S. Kresge company for December totaled $18,050,900 as compared with $22,173,402 the year before, a drop of 18.59 per cent. For the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1932, the sales amounted to $124,421,062, in contrast with $145,785,473 in 1931, a decrease of 14.65 per cent. At the close of 1932 the company had 723 stores in operation, or an increase of twenty-two for the year.

AARON IS NAMED RECEIVER FOR FOREMAN-STATE

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday announced the appointment of Charles Aaron as receiver for the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank.

The appointment is required to facilitate the winding-up of the bank's trust business and is made in accordance with normal practice under similar circumstances, Mr. Nelson said.

"This appointment," he added, "does not concern the former depositors of the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank and does not disturb the agreement of June 8, 1931, under which the First Union Trust and Savings bank took over or has paid the obligations of the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank to its depositors and under which it is now collecting the assets of the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank transferred to it at that time."

BANK WEAKENS IN BATTLE OVER CALGARY NOTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 6.—Head offices of the Bank of Montreal late this afternoon broke their silence with respect to the battle between the bank and the city of Calgary relative to payment of nearly $300,000 in exchange due on debentures of over $2,000,000 due in New York Jan. 1.

The statement reiterated its stand against Calgary's repudiation of the exchange payment, but weakened as regards its opening policy of withholding further credit. The bank said temporary credit would be extended to prevent suffering to Calgary's population.

LEADING EXCHANGES TO CLOSE TODAY FOR COOLIDGE FUNERAL

The directors of the principal commodity and security exchanges in the United States voted yesterday to suspend operations today out of respect for the memory of Calvin Coolidge, whose funeral will be held this morning.

The New York and Chicago stock exchanges and other security markets will remain closed all day. The Chicago Board of Trade and other American grain markets will close at 11 o'clock, an hour earlier than usual. Principal commodity markets in New York, including the coffee and sugar market, cocoa exchange and the unlisted department of the produce exchange, will be closed all day.

In voting to suspend operations on the day of the former President's funeral the governors of the New York Stock Exchange followed the usual precedent. The exchange closed at 12:30 p. m. on the burial days of former Presidents Taft and Wilson. Trading was suspended entirely the day after President Harding's death and on the day the funeral was held.

PENNSYLVANIA DIVIDEND LIKELY TO BE RESUMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—The Pennsylvania railroad, which has consistently realized sufficient operating profit during the depression to have a balance of earnings applicable to its capital stock, is expected to be one of the first important railroads to resume disbursements to stockholders, it is reported in reliable quarters.

In fact, some close students of the company's affairs are so impressed with the ability of the company to show close to $1 a share earnings in 1932 that they feel a resumption of dividends during the second quarter of this year is entirely possible. Resumption at a $1 a share annual rate is generally expected.

For the first ten months of 1932 Pennsylvania reported net income of $10,591,106, equal to 80 cents a share on the outstanding capital stock, compared with $19,063,100, or $1.45 a share, for the like 1931 period.

For the full year ended Dec. 31, last, it is estimated that the company's net income reached a level equivalent to about 94 cents a common share, compared with per share earnings of $1.48 for 1931.

STOCK LEADERS RALLY $1 TO $3; RAILS LEAD RISE

React to Roosevelt Program.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—Stocks looked up anew today and prevailing opinion gave credit to the favorable impression made on the Wall street community by the program outlined at last night's conference of President Elect Roosevelt and his party chieftains.

The reputed decision to ease collateral requirements for Reconstruction Finance corporation loans was viewed as particularly "constructive" and shares of the railroad companies which are in line to benefit largely from liberalization of the policy were elected to lead the rally. Gains of 1 to more than 3 points were the rule in this group, with Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, Union Pacific, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, and Pennsylvania prominent in the buying. The death of ex-President Calvin Coolidge will not interfere seriously with the study now being made by the commission he headed into the carrier situation, it is believed.

The street heartily indorsed the announced determination of the President elect and his advisers to balance the federal budget, although some disappointment was expressed that so much emphasis was laid on plans for raising additional revenue instead of economizing on governmental expenditures.

Beer Plan Cheers.

The proposal to increase income taxes naturally went against the grain but the financial community realizes, it was pointed out, that taxes are necessary to make up the deficit now looming on the books and indications were that speculators were prepared to swallow the pill in the hopes of better times to come. Announcement that Mr. Roosevelt stood ready to convoke congress in extra session if the beer legislation failed of passage in the next two months came in for favorable comment although it failed to help the so-called "repeal" stocks to any noticeable extent.

HERTZ RESIGNS AS OFFICER OF PARAMOUNT CO.

Seen as Indication of Changed Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—John Hertz tonight resigned as chairman of the finance committee of Paramount-Publix corporation, in which he has been a powerful factor for fourteen months.

For some time there have been rumors in Wall street and among motion picture people that there was to be a change in the control of the company. Hertz, who made fame and fortune by building up Chicago Yellow Cab company from nothing to a place where it was earning nearly two million dollars a year, came into the Paramount-Publix picture in 1931. Associated with him were the late William Wrigley and Albert D. Lasker, also of Chicago.

Zukor Remains as Head.

Adolph Zukor, the company's president, who has been associated with this group in the management of Paramount-Publix, according to information in Wall street, will remain at the head of the concern.

In a statement announcing his resignation, Mr. Hertz said that his action was due to dissension with the president of the company over his activities as chairman of the finance committee. Pointing out that he had previously enjoyed the coöperation of all officers of the corporation, "without any question as to the technical limitations upon the authority of various officers," Mr. Hertz said:

"Within the last week a question has been raised by the president as to the authority of the chairman of the finance committee to continue to function as he had up to that time. I felt that I could not accomplish the purposes for which I came to the company unless I was permitted to so function, and therefore, there was no alternative for me but to tender my resignation, which I have done."

In an accompanying statement the

EXCHANGES SAG BUT FRANCS HOLD OVER GOLD POINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 6.—The foreign exchanges reacted further today, but francs and belgas still held above the gold import point from which they had rallied on Wednesday. Sterling was sold by the London market most of the day. But after it had fallen to $3.33¾, buying by the official control checked the decline. The closing rate was $3.34, down ½ cent on the day.

Francs fell ⅝ point to 3.90⅝, which is a shade above the price at which gold can profitably be shipped from Paris to New York.

O. D. Young Again to Serve as Reserve Director

New York, Jan. 6.—Reappointment of Owen D. Young as a director and deputy chairman of the New York Federal Reserve bank was announced today. J. Herbert Case has been renamed chairman of the board and also reserve agent.

PLAN TO CHANGE NEW GRAIN BILL BOOSTS WHEAT

Trading in Pit Expands as Prices Move Up.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in world markets reduced to United States funds at closing rates of exchange:

Chicago, May	.48⅛	.46⅜
Winnipeg, May	.42⅜	.41
Do No. 2 Manitoba	.53½	.53⅞
Liverpool, March	.45⅞	.46⅛
Do May	.49⅜	.49½
No. 2 Manitoba	.53½	.53⅞
Rotterdam, January	.43⅜	.44⅛

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Prospective developments at Washington in the way of farm relief legislation have become the dominating influence in the wheat market. A proposed amendment to the domestic allotment bill which would give producers the difference in price between the market value and an arbitrary figure of 75c per bu for the wheat remaining on the farm at the end of the current crop year was construed as sensationally bullish by the trade.

As the trade saw it, the proposed legislation would probably result in farmers refusing to sell wheat freely between now and June 30, the end of the crop year, if there was a probability of it becoming a law. With 217,000,000 bu wheat estimated as still in farmers' hands the trade was quick to sense its possibilities as a likely market factor and there was a stampede to buy which swept everything before it.

Wheat Closes at Top.

In addition to the Washington reports the trade had rumors a bill might be introduced to donate all or part of the farm board's holdings of wheat to the American Red Cross. As the government's wheat supply at the present time consists almost entirely of holdings of futures, generally estimated at 35,000,000 bu, or over 25 per cent of the total open interest on the Chicago Board of Trade, congestion was feared if the rumor turned out to be correct.

There was concentrated buying in the May future yesterday by houses with eastern connections. Buying was also credited to leading local professionals. The action showed a snap that has not been witnessed for many days. All minor recessions in the market ran into supporting orders, and there was a steady expansion in the outside trade. The May was swept up 1⅞c from Thursday's finish to 48¼c, equaling the outside price since Dec. 13, and the close was at the top. Net gains were 1½@1⅝c, with May finishing at 48⅛@48¼c; July, 47⅝@47⅝c, and September, 48⅝c.

Foreign Markets Lag.

As a result of the aggressive buying of the May wheat delivery yesterday it went to around ½c over the July at the last, the latter representing the new crop. There was buying of May against sales of July to close spreads. Foreign markets lagged materially as compared with Chicago, Liverpool closing unchanged to ¼c per bu lower, and the spread on the May futures between the English and the local market narrowed to 2⅝c, compared with 3⅝c earlier in the week.

There was a lack of aggressive buying of Manitoba wheat on the part of foreigners, but Winnipeg gained 1@1¼c per bu for the day in Canadian funds. At the last May in the latter market was 6c under Chicago on a gold basis, against 5⅝c on Thursday.

Cash Corn in Demand.

Strength in wheat was largely responsible for a larger trade and stronger market in corn. The close was ⅝@⅞c higher, with May at 27⅜@27½c; July at 28⅜@28⅞c, and September, 29¾c. Cash corn was in much better demand, with shipping sales of 145,000 bu, the largest in some weeks. Offerings to arrive from the country were only fair, with local handlers reporting 50,000 bu purchased.

Rye, which is not affected by the provisions of the allotment scheme of farm relief, led the advance in all grains, closing 1⅝@2c higher, with May at 36¼c and July at 35½c. The buying was said to have been based on the belief that consumption of this grain would be greatly stimulated if the proposed tax on wheat becomes effective. Oats gained ⅝c, with May closing at 17⅝c, while barley was ½c higher at 29⅝c for the May.

COMMONWEALTH LIGHT CONSENTS TO RECEIVERSHIP

The Commonwealth Light and Power company, $10,000,000 Insull subsidiary, yesterday consented to the appointment of an equity receiver under an action instituted in the United States District court by receivers for the Middle West Utilities, parent company in the Insull group.

The consent, filed by the law firm of McKinney, Lynde & Grear on behalf of Oliver F. McCormick, vice president, admitted each and every allegation in the petition. Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley took the motion under advisement and will rule on the appointment this morning.

In the suit for a receiver the Middle West group charged that the Commonwealth had defaulted on interest payments due Jan. 1, but that the company possessed assets in excess of its liabilities.

Chicago banks holding assets of the Insull Utility Investments company as security for loans yesterday were given an extension to Feb. 2 in which to file answers to suits started by the company's debenture holders. The debenture holders charge the company violated a covenant in pledging the security with the banks.

Gold Stocks Still Rising; U. S. Up $3,352,300 in Day

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The country's gold stocks had a net gain of $3,352,300 today, according to the New York Federal Reserve bank's compilation. The report included receipt of $1,602,300 from Holland. Foreign earmarkings dropped $1,770,000. There was a shipment of $20,000 to Switzerland, evidently representing a special and private transaction.

LAMBS AND HOGS LEAD ADVANCES IN LIVE STOCK

Cattle Supplies Small; Trend Stronger.

The live stock markets pushed aggressively forward in another lively session yesterday. Lambs and swine led the upturn. The latter reached the highest point in 10 days, with the top light butcher hogs at $3.40 and the general average price at $3.20. At the close of last week tops stopped at $3.00 and the average was $2.80. The sharp runup this week has carried quotations to within 10@15c of the highest level in six weeks without retarding the demand.

Outsiders yesterday bought 6,500 hogs, making a new mark for the season for one day's shipments from here. The increase in demand this week came simultaneously with a marked decrease in supplies. The total for the five days at the eleven leading eastern and western markets this week at 400,000 shows a drop of 40 per cent compared with the same period in 1932 and 44 per cent decrease compared with 1931. Advances in hogs yesterday ranged from 5c to 15c. Only pen holders and inferior grades remained at the close, aggregating less than 2,000 head.

Cleanup in Cattle.

It was cleanup day in the cattle alleys yesterday. Only 1,000 head of fresh cattle showed up and very few were carried over from the preceding session. Consequently the scant supply was hardly large enough to establish a fair list of quotations in all branches. The underlying trend was stronger, however, and instances of further price improvement were pointed to in the plainer grades, which comprised the bulk of the limited run. Nothing good enough to test top prices arrived.

A consignment of good 946 lb yearlings lacking high finish sold at $6.00, making the highests ale of the day but the trade is carrying a $7.10 quotation for fancy kinds on the strength of the Thursday sale at this figure. Butcher stock held about steady. Calves and bulls also sold steady.

Top Lambs $6.60.

Lambs jumped 15@25c to the highest level since Dec. 8 in the spirited trade that followed some uncertainty at the opening. All interests were eager for top grades, large local packers leading the competition in all parts of the sheep barns during the afternoon, when Armour and Swift were paying $6.60 for sorted fed western lambs. City butchers also paid this high for a few. Yearlings advanced 25c to a top of $5.50, which bought 93 lb averages. Current lamb quotations are fully 50c above the low point of last week.

MEN

PERMANENT EMPLOYMENT. SUBSTANTIAL CASH INCOMES FOR MEN WHO ARE REPUTABLE, ACTIVE AND ADAPTABLE TO THIS KIND OF WORK.

Our business is more active and more successful right now than ever since it started in 1924 in this country—and the world sales of our new product so far this year have been greater than any other year since the first of our present type products was sold in 1919.

This is sales work, not order taking—it must be studied and learned—and a man must be able to successfully meet people and win confidence for a clean, straightforward business. This is a business where diligent, conscientious effort is unfailingly rewarded with increases month after month.

For example, a former real estate broker averaged $24.50 per week his first two months and over $45.00 per week the next two months. A former fur salesman averaged only $23.00 per week his first month in this work, but the following month he earned a little over $200.00 and the next month made $225.00; a little later on he was averaging $70.00 per week regularly. Some men learn more rapidly than others, but each is given a genuine opportunity—many of our men here earn over $20.00 for one day's work.

We have, locally and throughout the entire country, many men now earning two, three and five times as much as they ever made in banking, real estate, accounting, selling, mechanical work, etc.

If you are qualified to merit a successful place for yourself in this going enterprise, and if you can get along on nominal earnings of $123.00 to $200.00 a month, if necessary, while learning, make application immediately. An executive of Electrolux, Inc. [not refrigeration], will interview you personally Saturday at 11:00 a. m.—NO OTHER TIME—Room 329 Madison-Kedzie Bldg., 9 S. Kedzie-av.

YOUNG MEN—4.

Age 18 to 22, to travel with manager on national sales campaign; must be high schl. graduate. Applicants preferred from Ia., Ind., Mo., Okla., Tex., Tenn., Wis., Minn., Mich., Ohio, Neb. Permanent employment. Transportation furnished. Apply Mr. Hopkins, 10-4, R. 80, 1104 S. Wabash.
